City Prepares to Welcome Him Today

CHARLES C. MOORE,

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for United States Senator at the Primary Election Next Tuesday

Returning to Los Angeles with the fervent cheers of thousands of Californians ringing in his ears, fresh from a 4500-mile tour through the valleys and along the coastways of the State which he has done so much to upbuild, Charles C. Moore, Republican candidate for United States Senator, will reach this city today for a visit of a few hours, during which he will make a final, personal presentation of the great issues in the Senatorial campaign. He comes hailed from one end of the State to the other as California's next United States Senator, and he comes as he came before, a real Republican, anxious to serve California in the United States Senate as he has served California and its people in countless other ways. Not in the present generation have the people of this State had such opportunity to enlist in their service a man at once so modest and so strongly able as the man who arrives today. Mr. Moore will speak in Trinity Auditorium tonight. The message that he brings is a man's message, a constructive, forward-looking, far-visioned message of a California Republican. Tonight's mass meeting for Moore is more than a political event—it affords opportunity for a rededication of Republicans to the Republican cause. In addition to the speech by Mr. Moore an address will be delivered by Chester H. Rowell, noted journalist, orator and economist. Provision has been made to have Mr. Moore address those unable to get into Trinity Auditorium.

HEARST BOOM FADES OUT

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—William Randolph Hearst apparently has been eliminated as a formidable contender for the Democratic nomination for Governor of New York.

The announcement by former Gov. Al Smith that he would accept the nomination has aroused enthusiasm among the Democrats and the artificially inflated Hearst boom up-State has collapsed, seemingly beyond the possibility of resuscitation. All surface indications point to the choice of Smith, though possibly not without a lively fight in the convention on September 19.

As an aspirant to the Presidency in 1924, however, Hearst is far from eliminated. While unable to make himself Governor, he wields such influence as might be employed successfully to prevent the election of the Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

Those two facts furnish the key to the maneuverings now going on in the Democratic camp.

That Hearst looked upon the Governorship as an easy stepping stone to the Democratic nomination for President has been admitted by the chief sponsors for his candidacy.

There is a widespread impression that his only reason for seeking the first honor was to further his larger ambition. As Governor he not only would acquire a prestige that would place him in the first rank of candidates for the Democratic nomination for President, but he would be in a position to make himself the choice of the New York delegation, an indispensable prerequisite.

Next to being Governor himself, the most important consideration to Hearst has been to place a friend in the office who would insure him the delegation to the Democratic national convention, at least. So Hearst has been booming Mayor Hylan for Governor, while Hylan and William J. Conners have been booming Hearst. It

BODY OF MARTYRED ERIN HERO BORNE TO DUBLIN

Mourners Meet Funeral Ship at Dock; Parliament to Name New Irish Chief Soon

BY PAUL WILLIAMS
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DUBLIN, Aug. 24.—Official Dublin and hundreds of the privileged met the body of Michael Collins, the martyred head of the Irish Free State government, when it arrived on the steamship Classic, which docked at the North Wall at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

With only a few lights burning and its tricolor flag drooping at half-mast, the steamer entered the harbor and went up the River Liffey, its engines turning slowly. Flashes from the lighthouse revealed a few persons at the rails as the vessel soundlessly steamed toward the docks.

As the hull came to rest against the pier and a mate called out "All fast," the fourth battalion of the Dublin guards came to present arms and the wailing notes of the last post echoed across the waters. The civilians present bared their heads to the cold drizzle.

Mrs. Marguesite O'Driscoll of Cork, a sister of the dead leader, was assisted up the gangplank by William T. Cosgrove, who succeeded Mr. Collins as head of the Irish government. Followed by clerics, the sad party viewed the remains. A few minutes later six officers bore the casket ashore and laid it gently upon a gun carriage.

Mr. Collins will be buried on Saturday, according to the tentative plans, and most of the members of Parliament will be present. Parliament is likely to open next Wednesday, proceeding with the election of a President with authority to form a government.

William T. Cosgrove, as vice-chairman of the provisional government, automatically becomes its head, but his tenure as chief of the State depends upon provisional parliament whose members were to assemble for the first time Sat-

Carpenter of 617 New High street was arrested on suspicion of an attack with a deadly weapon in connection with the stabbing affray.

FOSTER IN CUSTODY

Denies Attending Convention

Red Leader Also Disclaims Any Connection With Railway Wreck

Declares Whole Affair Huge Frame-up; Arrested in Chicago Office

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—William Z. Foster, president of the Trades Union Educational League, who has been sought by Federal agents as one of those participating in an alleged radical convention held in a forest near Bridgman, Mich., was taken into custody tonight while in the offices of the educational league. Foster strongly denied having attended the convention, which was raided by Federal operatives and State troops.

Later a Federal agent, accompanied by a representative of the police department and a private detective, searched Foster's apartment. They later declared that they had found nothing of value. Meanwhile Foster was held in a police cell for extradition to Michigan.

"My arrest is an outrage," Foster declared. "I was not at the meeting in Michigan. I will hire the best lawyers in the West to fight extradition."

FOSTER STATEMENT

Mr. Foster in a statement today denied reports that he had been at the Bridgman meeting or had any connection with it. He said he had been in Chicago for some time.

Unofficial reports received here from Berrien county, Mich., where the Bridgman meeting was held, were to the effect that one person had revealed the hiding place of books and records of the Communist party. It was also reported that information had been obtained about the recent Michigan Central express train wreck at Gary, Ind. J. P. Rooney, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation here, refused to make any statement.

Federal officials said tonight that Rose Pastor Strokes, wealthy New York Socialist who was convicted in Kansas City in June, 1918, for violation of the Espionage Act, was one of those who escaped when Federal agents raided the Michigan meeting. Six additional arrests were made today but the identity of those taken was closely guarded.

According to Federal operatives, Mrs. Stokes, whose case was dismissed last November after she had taken an appeal, was not only present at the meeting when it was raided, but was one of those who had planned it.

RUSSIANS HUNTED

Among others for whom Federal officers are said to be searching here in connection with the Bridgman meeting are Boris Reinstein and Arnold Lenkowsky, suspected of being supporters of the Russian soviets. Federal investigators, it was admitted, are attempting to establish a connection between the Bridgman meeting and the affairs

Holdup Suspect Captured After Furious Battle

Said by the police to have been identified as the man who, on February 28, last, shot and seriously wounded William S. Henry of 817 West Twenty-third street in a hold-up, Edward Furlong was arrested last night after a furious struggle with Detectives Lloyd and Wilde in a Pico-street cafe.

The arrest of Furlong was accomplished when Henry saw the man in the cafe and telephoned the police. When Detectives Lloyd and Wilde appeared, Furlong, the officers assert, refused to submit to arrest and the fight followed. Furlong was finally subdued and locked in the City Jail.

The shooting of Henry last February occurred at the conclusion of a poker game in the back of a garage at 149 East Pico street. The participants in the game had just left the table and stepped into the garage from a back room when they were held up by three men. Henry, who was slow in obeying the order to hold up his hands, was shot through the abdomen and arm. For a time physicians held out small hope for his recovery.

After his arrest Furlong's room at 1116 South Flower street was visited by detectives, who declared that they secured evidence there that convinced them that the suspect is a member of a dangerous band.

"NEWS TO ME," SAYS FINANCIER

Former Father-in-Law Spreckels Refuses to Comment on Love Tangle

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—John D. Spreckels, San Diego financier, denied upon his arrival here today in his yacht, The Venetia, that he would participate in any way at present in the situation brought about by the attachment of his former daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edith Huntington-Spreckels-Wakefield, for Rodney Kendrick, artist, and the opposition of the artist's wife, Mrs. Nellie Kendrick, to the attachment. Mrs. Wakefield is the divorced wife of the late John B. Spreckels, Jr.

"It's all news to me," Spreckels said upon his arrival. He said he had come to San Francisco on business.

Mrs. Kendrick plans a $25,000 alienation of affections suit against Mrs. Wakefield, who owns a villa home at Sausalito, Cal., where the Spreckels yacht lies moored.

"I have been on the high seas on my yacht for two days," Spreckels said. "It seems to me that the wireless operator did pick up some sort of message concerning a Mrs. Wakefield, but it was so broken up by static conditions that we could not make it out.

"I want to know all about the case before I can say what I will do, if anything."

All parties to the triangle remained in semi-isolation today, declining to give out a further statement for publication. The Kendricks have moved from the beautiful Wakefield home, Mrs. Kendrick to the home of friends in Alameda, and Kendrick to a Sausalito hotel.

When it was suggested to Spreckels that he might have an interest in the $80,000 reported to have been left by his son to Mrs. Wakefield, he replied that "Jack had nothing to leave." He said that he was providing for the three children of Mrs. Wakefield by young Spreckels, but would not admit he intended any legal steps to take them from Mrs. Wakefield's custody.

Leader of Southern Faction May Again be Named President

SHANGHAI, Aug. 23.—Sun Yat-Sen, leader of the South China faction, announced today that peace reigns again between the north and south and that "the war is ended."

Sun based his statement on the result of the recent interfactional conference here, but withheld details of these negotiations.

Speaking to a delegation of old members of the Republican Parliament, he urged them to go to Peking without delay and resume their seats in the revived legislative body. Their duty, he declared, was to thresh out the problems of constitutionalist government on the floor of Parliament.

The delegation, composed of Sun Yat-Sen's most ardent followers but representative of all the provinces of the north and south, is said to have been waiting here for their leader's personal instructions before proceeding to Peking.

The southern chieftain told them that it was not his business to recommend a course of action, nor

...chardson Guarantees to Save Taxpayers $115,000,000 in Four Years if Elected Governor

TO THE PEOPLE OF CALIFORNIA:

If I am elected Governor I guarantee in the next four years to save California taxpayers a total of $115,000,000, based upon the current rate of ...se of the cost of State government.

As Governor I guarantee that the budget I shall submit to the Legislature in January, 1923, will call for an actual decrease of from $12,000,000 ...,000,000 below the last biennial budget of $91,000,000. This I will do without crippling a single humanitarian function and without deducting a ... dollar from the State's educational funds. Los Angeles for Moore for Senator by More Than Three to One

JOHNSON LOSES IN STRAW VOTE

Gets 720 Against 2389 for Moore for Senator

House-to-House Canvass of City Conclusive

Neutral Survey of Fifteen Assembly Districts

A careful and extensive straw vote shows that Los Angeles and vicinity is for Charles C. Moore for Senator by a vote of more than three to one. Election day may swell this figure to five to one. The total was: Moore, 2389; Johnson, 720.

This is not campaign chatter, but the careful compilation of a house-to-house canvass that was completed last night by disinterested persons. It shows that Johnson has lost strength in every district. It shows the women against him in a nearly solid unit, and the workingmen discounting his claims as their ardent friend. It shows Moore's wonderful record as a constructive citizen and a loyal worker for his State and nation has made him the most powerful figure that has ever entered the California political arena.

Fifteen Assembly districts were combed in an effort to register the Moore and Johnson sentiment. No talking by the canvassers was given as to whether they favored either candidate, and the count and method of obtaining it was impartial in every feature.

POLITICS

THE WATCHMAN

Trend of Political Thought and Action

By the Sentry on His Beat

Senator Johnson has "had his say." He has come again and is almost gone again. If all signs are not to the contrary, the Los Angeles audience that heard him last night heard him, as United States Senator, for the last time.

The Senator is concluding his campaign for re-election under a terrific handicap; the people generally have come to accept the idea that Charles C. Moore is more than an even bet to win. Political psychology is doing the rest—a landslide for Mr. Johnson's opponent may result.

And now we have with us Charles C. Moore, who will tonight give his final personal message to the people of this section of California. He has a real message, a message that concerns itself not with what the present Senator from California has failed to do, but what, as the next Senator from California, Charles C. Moore will do.

Mr. Moore had a large personal following in California before he entered the Senatorial race, but for every man and woman who knew him and believed in him a few months ago, he has thousands of enthusiastic backers; thousands and thousands of men and women who regard his election to the United States Senate as imperative for the welfare of California.

As for the welcome that he will receive here—well, even the backers of Hiram Johnson admit that Los Angeles county is solid for Moore. That, at least, should engender a feeling of solid comfort on Mr. Moore's part.

And, discussing "ovations," Los Angeles will have to "go some" to beat the remarkable reception given Mr. Moore by 12,000 San Franciscans in the municipal auditorium of the Bay City Wednesday night. Messages sent down by persons who attended the meeting assert that "the like has never been seen before."

Gov. Stephens continues to billboard, placard and otherwise cover Los Angeles county with pleas for a third term. State Senator Joseph A. Rominger, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor on an economy platform, just back from campaigning in Northern California, says the State has been covered from end to end with Stephens-for-Governor posters. If Friend W. Richardson, the gubernatorial candidate in opposition to the State machine, had spent a twentieth of the money put into this election in behalf of the Governor, the State machine already would have raised a howl of "slush fund."

So flagrant has the "hold-up" process become around the State capital, where officials are demanding campaign contributions from employees, that there is talk of asking the Legislature to investigate such "strong-arm" methods. Another good reason why the Governor should not be permitted to pick his own Legislators.

The hand-picked legislative ticket put in the field by the Governor and union labor in this county is not making any considerable progress, although a lot of money is being spent in the several districts.

An extra effort is being made by the unions to elect a member of the boiler makers' union in the Sixty-sixth Assembly District, well represented in the last session by Richmond P. Benton, a candidate for re-election.

In the Seventy-first Assembly District, where Henry E. Carter, a former member, both of the State Assembly and Senate, is fighting almost a lone hand against the Stephens-labor group, the unions and the State machine are desperately seeking to elect the secretary of Central Labor Council.

Mr. Carter is campaigning on an out-and-out economy and efficiency platform, pledging himself, if elected, to work faithfully, intelligently and without fear for a reduction in State costs and for more efficiency in State affairs.

Those who have been waiting to discover the manner in which Gov. Stephens would attempt to becloud issues and confuse the public mind as to his failure to live up to his promises made four years ago now have their answer.

In paid advertising and in a flood of literature, which has the full knowledge and consent of Mr. Stephens, the false statement is being made and reiterated that the people of California do not pay the cost of State government.

California corporations, according to the Governor and his political corps, pay State taxes. The corporations, as a matter of fact, are merely tax collectors for the State, receiving the taxes from the people in the form of service charges and turning over a definite percentage to the State government. More than 7 per cent of every dollar spent in railroad fare, more than 5 per cent of every dollar spent for street-car fare, more than 7 per cent of every dollar spent for gas or electric light or power goes to the State of California. Still, Gov. Stephens hopes to get himself re-elected by shouting "corporations."

Ray L. Chesebro, the only incumbent police judge not seeking re-election, writes from Idyllwild, where he is vacationing: "I consider Fairfax Cosby to be the best qualified among the candidates to fill the vacancy on the police bench created by my decision not to run for re-election. He has my hearty indorsement in his campaign for nomination and I am hopeful that my friends will follow my lead in this matter."

A Robert H. Scott for Justice of the Peace committee has been formed by men and women who have served as jurors in the Superior Court during Mr. Scott's term of office as deputy public defender.

Judge Frank H. Kerrigan's headquarters have been deluged with indorsements from some of the most prominent members of the bench and bar and fraternal societies. Among those received yesterday was one from John L. McNab, who is one of the most prominent and influential members of the bar in San Francisco. In letter he says:

"I knew of no man whose temperament, character and service on the Appellate bench more justly deserve recognition than does Judge Kerrigan. The volumes of the California Appellate reports are rich with his contributions of the law. Few men have such an enviable record among Appellate justices."

W. H. Anderson, the well-known attorney and general chairman of the campaign committee to retain Charles A. Shurtleff, associate justice of the State Supreme Court, in office, has returned from San Francisco, where he spent several days in conference with the justice and his Northern California campaign committee.

Justice Shurtleff's career of more than forty years before the California bar, during which time he served as president of the San Francisco Bar Association, and also on the board of State Bar Examiners, appeals strongly to the voters who have the welfare of the State at heart, is the opinion expressed by Chairman Anderson.

Judge Bertin A. Weyl, candidate for re-election to the Superior Court bench, is making many speeches on behalf of his candidacy. Among the meetings Judge Weyl addressed this week were the Long Beach Rotary Club and the Kiwanis Club of Pasadena.

The indorsement of Judge N. P. Conrey, presiding justice of the District Court of Appeal, has been added to those of Jefferson Chandler, president of the State Bar Association, and other leaders of the bar, to the candidacy of Judge Victor E. Shaw for re-election to the District Court of Appeal. Judge Conrey said, in his indorsement: "I am strongly in favor of the election of my associate Victor E. Shaw for another term. Why not? When a judge is of high character and first rate ability, when he has demonstrated his unswerving allegiance to every thing that is best in the administration of justice, how can the people do better than to renew his commission for another term? That is the case of Judge Shaw."

The venerable former Senator Cornelius C. Cole entertained Congressman and Mrs. Lineberger at dinner last Sunday evening at his residence. Senator Cole is an ardent admirer and supporter of Maj. Lineberger, and predicts that the major will receive such a substantial majority at the coming election as to do away with any doubt as to the wishes of the Republicans of the Ninth.

When Senator Cole was in Washington a few months ago the House of Representatives took a recess when he appeared upon the floor. Upon reconvening Maj. Lineberger addressed his colleagues in glowing terms regarding the great accomplishments of the former Senator from California.

Edward Judson Brown, candidate to succeed himself to the office of Justice of the Peace of Los Angeles township, is in receipt of the following letter from Attorney William A. Alderson, with offices in the Pacific Finance Building, which reads in part as follows:

"My Dear Judge:

"My experience and observation of your judicial work has impressed me that you are eminently fitted for judical work, and that you have performed your duties on the bench in an able and impartial way.

"Command me if I can serve you in any way to insure your success. Yours truly,

[Signed] "WILLIAM A. ALDERSON."

Many prominent women of the State are interesting themselves in the re-election of Judge W. A. Sloane to the State Supreme Court because of his consistent advocacy of the equality of women before the law. Judge Sloane was one of the original supporters of "votes for women" in California. Both the judge and his wife, Mrs. Annie B. Sloane, were prominent and active in both of the campaigns made for woman suffrage in this State.

John Robert White, Jr., president of the Association for Betterment of Public Service, announced yesterday:

"Legislation of supreme importance to California as a whole and to Southern California in particular will be considered by the next Assembly and Senate, and it is, therefore, highly desirable that only those candidates for the Legislature should be elected who are capable of conserving the best interests of the people.

"Although each legislator is required and expected to serve all sections of the State to the best of his ability, it nevertheless is true that those legislators elected from Southern California must well understand and be fully prepared to protect the needs of their own districts.

"The Association for Betterment of Public Service has investigated the entire list of candidates in the Assembly and Senatorial districts of this county and has reached conclusions on an impartial and impersonal basis as to their fitness and general qualifications.

"The result of this search for the best men for legislative office has been a recommendation by this association of a candidate in each district, as follows:

"For the Assembly: Sixty-first District, Frank C. Weller; Sixty-second District, Hugh P. Pomeroy; Sixty-third District, Sydney T. Graves; Sixty-fourth District, Harry Lyons; Sixty-fifth District, Joseph L. Pedrotti; Sixty-sixth District, Richmond P. Benton; Sixty-seventh District, W. F. Creller; Sixty-eighth District, Allen G. Mitchell; Sixty-ninth District, Charles B. Dawson; Seventieth District, Frank F. Merriam; Seventy-second District, Willard E. Badham, Sixty-third District, Elmer P. Bromley; Seventy-fourth District, William Greenwood; Seventy-fifth District, Edwin Baker.

"For the Senate: Thirty-fourth District, Charles W. Lyon; Thirty-sixth District, A. Burlingame Johnson; Thirty-eighth District, Henry H. Yonkin.

"The men and women composing the Association for Betterment of Public Service come from all walks of life and are representative of all legislative districts in Los Angeles city and county; they are of the unanimous opinion that the election of the foregoing candidates will best serve the varied and important interests of all the people of this section."

SUPPORTERS OF MOORE INCREASING

Ventura County Reports Show Precinct Strength Gaining Rapidly

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OXNARD, Aug. 23.—That Ventura county is strong for Charles C. Moore was shown at a largely-attended dinner given at Pierpont Inn last night by Richard Bard, county chairman for the Moore-for-Senator Club. Among the speakers was Edward G. Spaulding who said that because there is no paper in his town supporting Moore, it was found necessary to issue a paper of their own and that this is showing fine results.

George C. Power, veteran Republican wheel horse and chairman of the County Republican Committee, also one of the largest citrus growers, said it was G. Harold Powell who put the ammunition relative to the citrus industry into Johnson's hand and that Johnson was not deserving of any credit for the tariff schedule. He said as goes Ventura county, so will go the State and Ventura county is strong for Moore.

S. D. Thatcher of Oxnard said he voted for Johnson for Governor and United States Senator but that he feels he can no longer follow him because he opposed the President and Secretary Hughes in the greatest piece of constructive work for world peace that has ever been proposed.

John T. McBean of Los Angeles, director of organization for Moore, said that Moore's Los Angeles headquarters are jammed while Johnson's headquarters have the appearance of a morgue. He said that Southern California is going to the Techachapis with not less than 25,000 majority for Moore and gave an illustration of Moore sentiment by saying that at Coronado, where there are 680 Republicans registered, 600 have joined the Moore club.

John Fulkerson said Ventura avenues has never yet gone for Johnson and will not this time. Will Daly, for the Mound, reported a 91 per cent vote for Moore in his precinct. W. E. Barnard said that Oxnard had 274 registered Moore-for-Senator club members. Frank A. Shipley admitted that Santa Paula was a hard battle ground on account of C. C. Teague but was confident that Santa Paula would do as well for Moore as it did for Hoover against Johnson two years ago, when the vote stood 36? for Hoover delegates to 317 for Johnson. Dan Emmet said Saticoy will go for Moore by at least 60 per cent. W. E. Goodyear reported Somis had forty-nine Moore club members and more were coming in out of a probable seventy-one voters.

ALHAMBRA SWINGS TO TREASURER

Editor Predicts Large Richardson Majority in Contest for Governor

Alhambra is one of the many Southern California communities which will give State Treasurer Friend W. Richardson a large majority for Republican nomination for Governor, according to R. M. Marriott, editor of the Alhambra Advocate, who is one of Richardson's strongest supporters in that town.

"As far as I have been able to determine, after a thorough canvass of the situation, the majority of the voters in Alhambra are in favor of Richardson's candidacy," said Marriott yesterday at Richardson's headquarters here. "Gov. Stephens is by far the better known of the two men in our town, but there seems to be a well-defined movement on hand looking toward a big majority for Richardson."

Richardson's workers in Los Angeles claim to have positive information that the cry in the Stephens machine is "beat Richardson in Los Angeles county or we are lost." It is pointed out in this connection that 217 newspapers in the country districts, from the extreme north to the extreme south of the State, have been waging one of the strongest editorial campaigns in Richardson's behalf that has ever been witnessed in the State.

OLD FRIEND AIDS MOORE AT UPLAND

Senatorial Candidates Are Compared by Angeleno at Interesting Gathering

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

UPLAND, Aug. 23.—Marshall Stimson of Los Angeles addressed a large and interested gathering last evening at Municipal Park at a Moore-for-Senator meeting. William Stringer presided and introduced the speaker.

Mr. Stimson produced a strong impression of fair-mindedness and of accurate information regarding the man and the matters he discussed. He stated that he was at one time political campaign manager for Hiram Johnson and that he knew both him and Charles C. Moore intimately and thoroughly. No other man, he said, probably knew both so well.

Johnson's motives and political principles were at one time entirely commendable, Stimson stated, but lately he has become so involved with the corporations and big business that he is not in a position to help the ordinary voter, and hence is not a suitable candidate for the Senate.

The speaker contrasted Johnson and Moore in the circumstances of their lives and their education. Johnson had all his schooling, including his legal study, paid for by his father, while Moore had from a boy made his own way and paid for his own education by the work of his hands. Therefore, Moore was a man of the people, Johnson was not able to understand and willing to work for the people. Stimson's statement that he had rather take his Americanism from Roosevelt than from Johnson was heartily applauded.

OIL PRODUCERS FAVOR MOORE

Johnson Failed to Give Aid at Critical Time

Turned Deaf Ear to Appeal of Industry

New Proof of Neglect of Constituents

The oil men of California—not the wild-catters and investment sharks, but those producers and distributors who comprise the backbone of the industry—are almost unanimously against Hiram Johnson and in favor of Charles C. Moore for Republican United States Senator.

The oil men are standing behind Moore because they know Moore will stand behind them and the industry that is their livelihood. They do not care to help Hiram Johnson because Hiram Johnson, at the most critical period of California's oil history and when he was in Washington supposedly representing California's interests, declined to help them through the most serious situation with which they had ever been confronted.

The oil men's indictment of Johnson is briefly contained in a letter received yesterday from A. F. Fitzgerald, prominent oil operator of San Luis Obispo.

"During all the years that we were begging for some measure of relief, and when Johnson had been appealed to as a Californian to do something for the oil men, he turned a deaf ear to our appeals and never did one single thing to help us," reads the letter in part. It continues:

"Some one should look into the facts; they can be ascertained from some of the oil men of Los Angeles."

PROOF IS GIVEN

Here are the facts, proof of another instance of Hiram Johnson's deliberate neglect of his constituents while he pretended to represent them in the Senate:

In 1919 nearly a million acres of supposed oil lands in California were withdrawn from sale by government order. This order affected oil lands which had been entered under the placer mining laws and for which patents has not yet been issued. The oil companies of the state organized a delegation to go to Washington to get legislation which would relieve the situation. Secretary of the Interior Lane favored a measure whereby those who had expended money on the discovery of oil might get leases on the land which they had improved.

The government commenced actions against fifty or sixty oil companies operating in California. Many went into the hands of receivers, their funds were tied up and all drilling stopped. The situation was bad for the industry. Bills were introduced in Congress to grant relief to those who had in good faith entered upon and improved the California oil lands. The bill also provided for the leasing of lands containing oil or gas. The bill which finally became a law in 1920 was introduced by Senator Smoot of Utah.

Before its passage strong opposition grew up in the Senate to this bill. It was also opposed by Secretary Daniels and Atty.-Gen. Gregory, Senator La Follette of Wisconsin bitterly opposed it and offered a number of amendments in a lengthy address in the Senate which would have denied all relief to the people of California.

JOHNSON NOT PRESENT

The records show that Senator Phelan and the California Representatives in the Lower House did their utmost to secure the bill's passage—attended conferences, appeared before the Public Lands Committees of both Houses and Senate and showed great interest in the measure.

The records also show that Hiram Johnson, California's Republican Senator, took absolutely no part in the discussions on the bill, was not present in the Senate when the two important amendments proposed by La Follette were voted on, said nothing on the floor of the Senate in behalf of the measure and was not present when the bill finally passed the Senate.

Three Senators from other States protected California interests at that time: Pittman of Nevada, Lenroot of Wisconsin, and Smoot of Utah.

Hiram Johnson, California's elected representative, did not lift a finger to protect his constituents' interests in the very vital question of oil land leases.

For this reason California oil men are supporting Charles C. Moore. They know he is an experienced engineer who understands their problems and that he will make a dependable Senator who will at all times protect their interests in Washington. Johnson failed them in a critical moment; they do not want that to happen again.

RICHARDSON IS FAVORED

People of "Cow Counties" Up in Arms

Huge Slush Fund of Gang Being Loosed

Quick Return to Sanity Seen From Headquarters

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—From the Richardson-for-Governor headquarters in the Manx Hotel today, J. Emmett Olmsted, chairman of the Richardson-for-Governor Newspaper Men's Campaign Committee, issued the following statement:

"The Stephens machine has suddenly awakened to the fact that it must fight for its existence. Up to a week ago the political hangers-on were in ignorance of what was going on up and down the State. They knew, of course, that 'a few country papers' were supporting Friend W. Richardson, but they only smiled at that. And now, all of a sudden, there is a great hurrying and scurrying about the State by the 11,000 or 12,000 State employees in a desperate attempt to stem the tide of Richardson sentiment that is rising like a flood in the 'cow counties' of California, due to the activities of 'cow county' newspapers.

MACHINE SCARED

"The machine is scared stiff, to use a slang expression. State employees having been 'shaken down' for contributions averaging 10 per cent of their salaries, the money is being expended lavishly to persuade the voters that the Governor is an angel and that all his army of political appointees are sprouting wings.

"An average assessment of $10 would yield a campaign sack of some $120,000, so it is to be expected that there will be some fireworks during the next few days. But it is too late! All the king's horses and all the king's men cannot elect the Governor again.

"The fact of the matter is that the people of the 'cow counties' are determined to dethrone the 'big city' ward heelers this year, and take out of their hands the control of the State government.

PEOPLE AROUSED

"The people who live on the farms, and in the hamlets and smaller cities of the State have been long suffering; they have sickened at the sight of a dominated Governor and a controlled Legislature. They have seen State taxes mount sky high, principally for the purpose of providing jobs for thousands of city politicians who care nothing for the taxpayers' pocketbook so long as their own pockets are lined with the people's money.

"Reports from newspaper captains in all of the counties of the State are to the effect that Richardson will give the Stephens machine a decisive beating on the 29th inst. Southern California will send Richardson to the Tehachapi with a majority of not less than 40,000 and Northern California will do even better than that.

"The die is cast. Richardson will be the next Governor of California, the 'cow counties' will come into their own, and the taxpayers of this State will witness a return to sanity in matters of taxation and legislation."

SHOW AIDS VOTE DRIVE FOR MOORE

Pasadena Club Arranges Final Rally for Monday With Vaudeville

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, Aug. 23.—Determined to keep up its campaign till the last possible moment and roll up the largest possible majority for Charles C. Moore in Pasadena, the Moore-for-Senator Club announced today a meeting in the Raymond Theater next Monday evening. The meeting will be a political novelty, as several acts of high-class vaudeville will be given in addition to short, snappy political speeches.

The meeting will be open to registered voters only and the doors will be closed as soon as the seats are filled, the club announced. The theater will open its doors at 7:30 and the meeting will start at 8:15 p.m.

The vaudeville program will include headliners on the "big time" circuit, furnished by the Lillian Martin agency, the club promises, and the music will be furnished by Van Frasg's orchestra.

The club is completing its preparations for work on primary day.

"The election may be so close that a handful of votes may decide the issue," said John McWilliams, Jr., president of the club, "and we are going to see to it that every registered Republican is urged to vote. While our canvass has shown us that the city is overwhelmingly for Mr. Moore, we realize that this sentiment will do no good unless the votes are put in the ballot box and properly counted. It is up to us to see that this is done."

HEARST BOOM FADES AWAY

looked like a shrewd political play.

Now, Al Smith, with the hearty approval of Tammany Hall, has upset Mr. Hearst's plans and Mr. Hearst's long, long trail to the White House, upon which he set out many years ago, becomes rocky, if not also longer. "Alphonse" Hearst still insists that "Gaston" Hylan must be nominated instead of Smith; and "Gaston" Hylan, saying his wife won't let him run, still insists that "Alphonse" Hearst must be the candidate, though in the light of the response to Smith's announcement it seems exceedingly unlikely that either could get the nomination anyway. So, if neither Mr. Hearst nor his friend is to be Governor, the millionaire publisher and movie magnate must rely upon other means of landing the New York delegation to the 1924 Democratic national convention.

WILL HEARST BE GOOD?

This is a matter now occupying the attention of Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall, and other Democratic leaders. The question is whether Mr. Hearst can be kept in line for a Democratic State ticket headed by Smith, whom he denounced so comprehensively two years ago, and what arrangement, if any, would keep him in line. Could a harmonious understanding be arrived at whereby Tammany would undertake to deliver the New York delegation to Hearst?

Murphy doesn't want Hearst for a candidate, but he wants his support for the ticket. Otherwise the Democrats might be defeated by an independent candidacy of a third party backed by Hearst. The publisher has brought out Maj. La Guardia as his candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. La Guardia is a Progressive; some call him a radical Republican, and under either tag he has a small chance of winning the Republican nomination. He would be, however, the logical leader of a third party sponsored by Hearst.

Mexican Oil Export Taxes Are Reduced

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Export oil taxes of the Mexican government have been reduced to 40 per cent of the previous rate and made payable in cash, in accordance with the provisions of the recent agreement with international bankers concerning the adjustment of the Mexican national debt, it was announced today by the Mexican government's financial agency. These reduced taxes, which the government expects will yield $2,000,000 monthly, are retroactive to February 1, and will be set aside in a special fund to meet interest payments on the national debt.

The Mexican Petroleum Company is the first big Mexican producer to make a payment under the new plan, having just turned over 2,059,000 Mexican pesos in settlement of five months' taxes ending July 31. Other large producers have signified their intention to follow suit.

OLD FRIEND OF JOHNSON FOR MOORE

Saratoga Progressive Just Another to Desert Hiram for His Actions

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, Aug. 23.—To the long list of former Johnson supporters who are now solidly behind Charles C. Moore for United States Senator was added today the name of Charles D. Blaney of Saratoga. Mr. Blaney, a strong Progressive, was named a member of the first State Highway Commission Aug. 2, 1911, and was chairman of the commission from 1914 until he resigned in 1917. He was appointed by Gov. Johnson, his personal friend, whom he had supported heartily in his campaign for Governor.

Ernest H. Lockwood of Pasadena, who has known Mr. Blaney for many years, wrote him recently for his opinion on the present Senatorial contest, and today gave out Mr. Blaney's reply, which is, in part, as follows:

"Without detracting one iota from the credit due to Hiram Johnson for all the good things he stood for and the fine forward-looking humanitarian legislation he helped to place on our statute books, I shall not support or vote for him as California's Senator.

"Because I think he has fallen below his earlier ideals and principles.

"Because embittered, possibly, by his failure to obtain the Presidential nomination, he has forsaken his earlier constructive ideas and fellowships and descended into the arena of hate.

"Because, with doubtful moral delicacy, he accepted employment from and is now allied with W. R. Hearst, whom formerly he described as 'an arch traitor to his country.'

"Because he voted against the Four-Power Pact and voted for a beer and light wine modification of the prohibition law.

"Because, I think, in many questions he has not worthily voiced the aspirations and expressed desires of anything except a minority of his constituents.

"The foregoing inadequately expresses my thoughts re Johnson's nomination—I am strongly in favor of Moore."

Beach Town to Root for Moore Tomorrow Night

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 23.—The most important political event of the present campaign, a large Moore-for-Senator meeting, is scheduled to be held here Friday night. Inasmuch as a large majority of Huntington Beach Republican voters are supporting Mr. Moore's candidacy for Republican United States Senator, a record turnout is anticipated.

Prominent oil men of this locality are particularly strong supporters of Mr. Moore, inasmuch as Senator Johnson, while supposedly representing their interests in Washington, failed to help in passing the oil leasing bill which was so essential to the future of their industry.

W. L. Clapp, president of the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce and a Moore leader, will preside at the meeting. Members of the executive committee include: Mayor Richard Drew, James J. Conrad, publisher, L. W. Blodgett, City Attorney; Edward Manning, former Mayor; W. J. Elliott, well-known oil man; Elson G. Conrad, editor; George Clapp, real estate man, and Charles Patton.

Hon. Fred J. Spring, Los Angeles attorney, will be the principal speaker. Mab Copeland Lineman, woman lawyer, and State Senator Walter Eden, popular Orange county legislator, also will address the gathering. The meeting will begin at 7 o'clock.

SAN JOSE SEWED UP BY MOORE

High School Auditorium Too Small to Hold All of Audience

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN JOSE, Aug. 23.—The San Jose High School auditorium was not big enough to accommodate all those who waited to hear Charles C. Moore, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, when he appeared here tonight, so another meeting had to be quickly organized. Luckily the State Normal School is located in the same block as the high school, and it was quickly made ready for the overflow. Each of the auditoriums seats about 1500. The high school hall was packed and the Normal School auditorium was comfortably filled. It was estimated that about 2600 people heard Moore in San Jose, as he made brief talks in each place.

E. N. Richmond, president of the Moore-for-Senator Club, presided. Attorney Edwin A. Wilcox, who in the same hall six years ago introduced Hiram Johnson, tonight introduced Moore. Attorney Charles M. Cisin, a lifelong Democrat, James Hyde of Stanford University and others made brief addresses.

Although there have been other Moore meetings in San Jose, that of tonight was the climax of the Moore-for-Senator campaign. That the city and county are safe for Moore was the opinion tonight of even those who are supporting Johnson. Immediately after the meeting Moore and his party of campaigners left for Los Angeles, where another mass meeting is scheduled.

MAIL THIEVES CONVICTED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Gerald Chapman and George Anderson were found guilty of the theft of $2,500,000 in cash and securities from a mail wagon on Broadway last October by a jury in the Federal court late today. Judge Holmes sentenced each of them to the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta for twenty-five years.

JOHNSON'S SPEECH IS IMPROVED

Fair-Sized Audience at Auditorium Hears New Line of Promises

To an audience that almost, but not quite, filled Philharmonic Auditorium, Senator Hiram Johnson last night sang his swan song and took a train for San Francisco. Outside the auditorium a magnavox shrieked and clamored as it relayed the Senator's voice. At the door stood twenty or thirty persons asking for admission; inside there were about 250 vacant seats; men and women were leaving constantly.

Despite the ample room for ten times the number seeking admission, despite the constant trickle of persons leaving the auditorium, a youth with a monotonous voice stood in the entrance assuring those without that "they are standing up inside; no more room."

Johnson supporters came and went through the crowd. "There's 10,000 people waiting outside," was the "news" they passed along.

Thus did Senator Johnson and his aids complete their Southern California campaign. As an example of scientific politics played by professional politicians nothing could be better; as an expression of strength for Johnson it was a mockery.

On the whole, the Senator's speech last night was 100 per cent better as an oratorical effort than his wild "hymn of hate" delivered from the same platform a few weeks ago. He only mentioned Harry Chandler and The Times six or seven times last night and always followed such reference by a sneer for the editor of the Express.

A goodly part of his address was confined to such remarks as:

"There's nothing to this fight at all; the result is not in doubt; you need have no fear of the outcome; I have no fear in this fight; I have never had any fear about this fight—none at all; there are no issues in this fight; I will win this fight," and so on, like a small boy whistling to keep up a waning courage.

Mr. Johnson also predicted that he would "come to the Techachapi with a majority of two-to-one," and he assured his hearers that he had arranged to "carry Los Angeles county."

NEXT SENATOR SPEAKER TODAY

Home at Sawtelle, where a rousing reception is assured him. Moore's work as head of the State Council of Defense, his payment to his employees of the difference between civil and government salaries during their service enlistments, his holding of jobs open to those who joined the colors and his aid in replacement work for returned soldiers have all been appreciated by the veterans, and they are for Moore almost to a man.

At 7:30 Mr. Moore will address another enthusiastic meeting, this time to the colored voters. The meeting will be held at the Fourteenth-street school, and an overflow audience is assured.

There has been such a demand for seats at the Lions' Club luncheon that it is suggested that those who have made reservations be at the hotel, as near 12 o'clock as possible.

President Dale H. Parks will preside, and those at the speakers' table will be Messrs. H. W. Frank, Harry Stonge, Warren Cain, R. J. LaPon, Dr. W. V. Goodfellow, Frank L. Allen, James G. Strecher, Charles S. Hutson, M. L. Godfrey, Marshall Stimson, W. P. Musaus, Walter B. Wilson, F. M. Couch, Sam Carpenter, J. A. Cattell, Percy E. Woods, Dr. W. F. Leck, and the presidents of the Rotary, Kiwanis and City clubs.

SHOWDOWN FOR CONGRESSMEN

Power of Groups Shown in Both Houses

House Accepts Harding's Plan in Coal Inquiry

Labor Unions Fight Against Protection to Foreigners

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Shall group interests and demands be held paramount to the interests of the whole American public? This is the question which was sharply in dispute in both houses of Congress today. In the interests of the whole public President Harding has asked certain things of Congress. Group interests were at work in both houses to defeat his requests. In the one struggle which came to a decisive test the President won. This was when the House rejected the Bland bill, creating a fact-finding coal commission, and passed the Winslow bill for the same purpose.

In the Senate Senator McCumber, chairman of the Finance Committee, in a long set speech opened the campaign for the passage of the soldiers' bonus bill, a large part of which speech was devoted to an attempt to overcome the arguments and objections which President Harding has offered to this measure. While nominally the fight at the present stage is to pass the bill, every one realizes that the real fight, to which these are but preliminaries, is to obtain sufficient votes in the President's own party to pass this measure over the President's veto and impose a new financial burden on the taxpayers.

BORAH TO LEAD FIGHT

The strange picture was completed by the presence of Senator Borah, who is to lead the battalion on behalf of the President and the public treasury. Senator Borah is ever a critic of the administration and never one of those Senators who profess to love the President, yet he is the President's chief reliance in this sharp contest between the President and the leaders of the President's political party in the upper chamber.

In the rooms of the Committee on Foreign Relations, a more insidious fight was being made on the Harding policies. The committee had been called to consider the Kellogg bill guaranteeing to aliens the protection of the Federal government in those rights which that government is pledged by treaty to maintain. Because of a lack of quorum the committee could not proceed, but it went far enough to develop the fact that the American Federation of Labor and all the forces of organized labor are against the enactment of this measure. It would permit, those organizations urge, the larger use of Federal troops in time of industrial strikes.

It will be recalled that the President urged the legislation as a means of preventing such crimes as the massacre of nonunion men, including two aliens, at Herrin, Ill.

Also it was developed that Senator Pittman of Nevada and Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, both Democrats, propose to champion the demands of organized labor and seek to defeat the bill.

LABOR UNIONS DEFEATED

But it was in the House where the organized labor group made its most spectacular appearance, and where, for once, it suffered decisive defeat, the overwhelming majority finally accepting the leadership of President Harding and declining the leadership, sought to be thrust upon it, of President Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America. President Harding had asked the enactment of the Winslow bill; President Lewis had sharply and urgently demanded the passage of the Bland bill. The Winslow bill won.

President Harding asked that the coal industry be investigated thoroughly by qualified men, impartial and not connected with the coal industry; in other words, he asked an investigation in the interests of the public, which always pays the bill and does the suffering when the operators and miners stage a periodical industrial war. President Lewis demanded that the coal industry investigate itself.

WINSLOW BILL

The Winslow bill provides an investigation by men who are neither coal miners nor coal operators. The Bland bill provided for a commission made up of coal miners, coal operators and a minority representing the public.

The Rules Committee called to provide a special rule under which to enact the Winslow bill found itself under the spell of the organized labor demands. It first voted to report the Bland bill instead of the Winslow bill, but later, when a legislative situation developed where the Winslow bill already had come before the House, it shifted back to the safer ground and voted to report the Winslow bill, a vacillating performance that does not increase the respect in which the Rules Committee is held.

SUPPORTING HARDING

Through the long afternoon the battle in the House waged. Mr. Bland sought to have his bill substituted for the Winslow bill, but was defeated, 75 to 126. By the time the final passage of the Winslow bill came, the opposition to the President had dwindled to fifty-five, while the number voting to pass the measure had grown to 219.

But still the House is holding back on one important thing. The President has asked authority to control the coal-price situation this fall and winter to prevent profiteering. Influences inimical to the President's plan have managed so far to prevent committee action on this proposal. Today's vote, showing the disposition of the membership to sustain the President when a real voting test is reached, may bring about a change in this respect.

Administration Senators have been closely checking up the situation and find, according to the latest count, that there are in sight three more votes than necessary to sustain the President's veto of the bonus bill, which those familiar with the Chief Executive's plans expect promptly and in no uncertain tones. Some of the estimates say that there are now five more votes, but a careful checking reveals three above the necessary number. Some other Senators not included in this count will oppose the bonus unless it contains a provision for excess profits tax and these are said to include Senator Simmons, ranking Democratic member of the Finance Committee, and Senator Reed of Missouri.

A Couple of Brawny Pigskin Chasers Who Will Bolster Up Oregon's Eleven Next Fall

FOOTBALL ON THE WAY

Official Practice of Pacific Coast Conference Colleges to Open September 15

Old Man Football is about ready to wake up and shove Baseball off the sporting map for another year. The season of pigskins and pom-poms, of tanbark and touchdowns, of Charlie Horses, cheering thousands and battered heroes is on the way, to arrive simultaneously with the opening of the various colleges and universities throughout the country.

Wherever two or more followers of the gridiron recreation gather discussion begins, and sooner or later the conversation whirls around to the California "wonder team" and the chances of the Bears to repeat their startling performance of the last two years and emerge undefeated for another season.

The Pacific Coast Conference has doped out a schedule that will be hard on Andy Smith's proteges, inasmuch as two of the Bears' hardest games will be away from home, sandwiching a tussle with the always-dangerous Washington State eleven on the home gridiron. On October 28, California arrives here to play University of Southern California and after meeting Washington State at Berkeley November 4, journeys to Seattle to face the Washington University representatives Armistic Day.

BEAVERS SWING A BIG SURPRISE

Grab Second Contest of a Double-Header

Vernon an Easy Winner in the First Game

Manager Middleton Shows Great in Crisis

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS

Vernon, by breaking even in a double bill with Portland, stod still yesterday, but San Francisco slopping around in Salt Lake dropped back half a game, leaving the margin between the clubs an even five contests.

Tigers took the opener, 5 to 1, about as they pleased, but a hair-curling finish in the second combat found Portland on the safe end of a 3-to-2 count.

STEALS STUFF

Portland stole some of Vernon's ninth-inning stuff, breaking through with three runs in the final frame for the first runs of the game. Vernon countered with two, but were stopped by Jimmy Middleton, the new pitching manager, who volunteered to step into a bad situation. Middleton picked out a mean job for himself, but made good by retiring the last two men with the bases loaded. A quaint feature of this game was the appearance of four southpaws, two on each side, prior to the advent of Middleton, a right-hander. As a manager, Jimmy is not too proud to do his own pitching after a reasonable period of watchful waiting.

Walter Levrenz, southpaw, was pitted in opener against Jess Doyle, who gave his right hand a college education before entering professional baseball. Leverenz, the self-made southpaw, succumbed to higher mathematics.

JUST ONE ROUND

Real skinning of the Beavers consumed just one round, to-wit, the third. Portland shoved one across in this frame, which aroused the Tigers to a high pitch of vengeance. Five uninterrupted its gave Vernon four runs, which was enough and to spare. Rollie Zeider, battling Bengal, led off with two-base shot. Doyle drove a single to left. Zeider lit out from second, and pitted his legs against Wolfer's arm. But the ball beat him home, and Mr. Zeider's efforts to poke his nose across the plate ahead of the ball were futile.

Some did claim, however, that Zeider did beat the play with his nose, and only his feet were out. This is a question, and creates a situation probably unprecedented in baseball. Mr. Zeider should bunch himself more when trying to score, and with a mighty, final effort lift his feet over the finish line along with the rest of him. He should use stirrups.

CHAD SINGLES

Chadbourne singled, whereupon Hughie High raised blisters on a near and dear relative by zipping a spicy triple off the tender finger tips of his younger brother, Charley, who was named after a well-known horse. This tidy swat dumped Doyle and Chadbourne into the scoring hopper. Smith's single, Poole's two-base error on Bodie's grounder and a fielder's choice produced two more and salted the freshly slaughtered pastime.

Corporal Crumpler and Jim Jam Jolly were matched in the twilight struggle. Not only were they southpaws, but they seemed not unequally yoked together in other respects. Each was in his best mound mood. Against their pitching base hits either became a rare old antique or a marvelous invention.

PANS BARK

Bun-fed bugs in bleachers barked loudly when scoreboard showed that Salt Lake City had tied San Francisco in ninth, and then won. Beavers seemed to think these barks were for them, and got a runner on third for first time. This was in seventh here. Brazil doubled for his third straight hit, and Sargent sacrificed. Elliott purposely passed, and stole second.

One down, Crumpler banged one in front of plate, and was out, Hannah to Locker. No advance. Wolfer grounded to Leider. As yet no Bengal had reached third on Crumpler. Hughie High doubled with two down in sighth. He wanted to score the winning run before the next ball was pitched. Hughie took an enormous lead off second and was nailed dead by Elliott with a peg to Brazil, Gen. Custer had a fat chance compared with Hughie.

A BIG ACT

The ninth was a big act with a change of characters. After Cox had fanned, Frank Brazil banked a triple over Chadbourne's head against the centerfield fence. Had not Brazil lost steam some place between first and third it would have been a homer. Possibly he had winded himself batting. This was his fifth consecutive hit, counting one made in ninth of first game. Sargent sent one down too hot for Smith to handle, Brazil being held at third. Elliott was purposely passed for the second time, filling the bases. Manager Middleton then sent Sam Hale in to slug for Crumpler. Essick countered by replacing Jolly with Jakie May. Jakie put two strikes over the plate and then Hale put a hot single through the box to center. Brazil and Elliott scored. May whiffed Wolfer, and then Paton poked a single to left, counting Elliott. Paton pegged trying to take second on throw to plate.

AIRPLANE MAY HAUL TRAILER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HOUSTON (Tex.) Aug. 23. The "aerial ant," diminutive airplane perfected by Lieut. Melvin R. Asp and Capt. Aubrey L. Engle, Ellington Field flyers, which has been entered in the Pulitzer trophy race in New York this fall, may be "towed" through the clouds to Detroit, it was announced here by its inventors.

The two officers have applied to Washington for permission to use the little plane as a "trailer" in tow of a standard DeHaviland on a flight to Detroit, Mich.

HEATH IS ENGAGED AS COACH

"Beefy" Will Assist Eugene Dixon at Pomona College Coming Season

Colvin, "Beefy" Heath, one of the greatest of all Pomona College football heroes, has been engaged to act as assistant to Coach Eugene Nixon for the coming season. Two years ago Heath acted in this same capacity, leaving last year to take charge of athletics at the Kauffman Intermediate School at Pomona.

It was in the years 1915 and 1916 that Heath made such a name for himself at the Sagehen institution. Although very light for a lineman "Beefy" was regarded as one of the very best tackles on the Pacific Coast, being selected for all-Southern honors twice. He captained the team his last year.

Last season Court Overin, another ex-Sagehen star, acted as assistant coach. Overin, however, was teaching school at Venice at the same time, and could not continue to hold both jobs.

Heath had great success with the Sagehen line two years ago, and the Blue and White supporters believe that his return is a good omen.

WIND UP SEASON

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, Aug. 23. — This week will see the finish of the twilight league baseball series for Redlands and decide the championship of the city. The Triangles are still leading, although they are being pushed by both the Elks and the Merchants and with four games to go, it is not at all certain that they will win.

ANZACS GIVEN SHARP TUSSLE

Patterson and O'Hara Wood Win Hard Fight

Youthful Racketers Force Vets to Limit

Californians Victorious in Mixed Doubles

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Aug. 23. — The national doubles lawn tennis championship play at Longwood today was marked by a demonstration of youthful strength by a pair of western lads, Walter Westbrook of Detroit, and James Hennessy of Indianapolis, who battled the Australian Davis Cup team, Gerald L. Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood, through three extra game sets. The scores were 7-5, 3-6, 8-6.

Arnold W. Jones and W. W. Ingraham of Providence, won a set from the playing-through champions, W. T. Tilden II and Vincent Richards. The score was 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 8-6. At the close they were still fighting hard, and Tilden and Richards called on all the courtcraft they could muster to win.

COMPLETE THIRD ROUND

Today's play completed the third round. W. M. Washburn and R. Norris Williams, former Davis cup team, and the Kinsey brothers, Pacific Coast titleholders, advancing, while victories of the Australians and of Tilden and Richards pushed them to places at the bottom and the top, respectively, of the final round.

The Kinseys must meet with William Johnston and Wallace Johnson for the other semifinal place in the upper half, and Williams and Washburn will be opposed by Jean Borotra of France and N. W. Niles of Boston, for the bracket with the Australians in the lower half.

NOTABLE COMBINATIONS

The national mixed doubles championship, inaugurated today, brought together several notable partnerships, including some international alliances. The national men's and womens' champions, Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory and "Bill" Tilden II, teamed; Miss Helen Wills, the girl star, had as partner Robert Kinsey, her fellow-Californian; Mrs. William Henry of Los Angeles played with Count De Gomar of the Spanish Davis Cup team, and the latter's

BELMONT CLUB IS BORN

New Athletic Organization is to Make its Initial Bow September 9 With Aquatic Program

It's almost impossible to keep a crowd of old-time athletic war horses down no matter where they are or what they are doing. As a result of this athletic urge the Belmont Shore Athletic Club sprang into being last week because of the fact that a number of former athletes and followers of sport are subdividing and real-estating between Long Beach and Alamitos Bay. Seeing the wonderful possibilities offered by the bay for all kinds of aquatic sports, all hands said, "Let's go."

The club was organized with Sam A. Selover as president, James F. Collins, vice-president, Owen R. Bird, secretary, Warren F. McGrath, treasurer and E. B. Leaf, S. W. Holmes, F. L. Sims and C. Bond Harpole, directors. The majority of the officers and directors have at some time or other been interested in furthering athletics in Southern California. Sam Selover will be remembered by the swimmers of ten years ago, as the man who put on so many thrilling and exciting swimming meets and contests at Bimini.

The new club has quarters on the west shore of the bay where the Belmont Shore Company has dredged out a splendid channel over 1000 feet wide and forty feet deep, making possible all manner of canoe and boat races together with any kind of swimming event ordered.

TO MAKE BOW

The club will make its initial bow in the realm of sport September 9, at which time a varied aquatic sports program will be put on under the sanction of the Southern Branch of the A.A.U. Fred Cady, Bob Weaver, and Les Henry are now aiding the officers of the new club in working up a schedule of events and Fred Cady reports that he expects some keen competition in every event There will be men and women's diving, 100, 220 and 440 events for men, while the mermaids will probably swim the 50, 100 and 220. In addition to the regular events there will be some special features which will give the knights of the surf boards a chance to compete for the Belmont Shore aquaplane trophy. There will also be two sailing races for small craft, for which suitable cups are to be offered.

Entries for all events may be made either with Owen Bird at 1015 Marsh-Strong Building, or with Fred Cady at the L.A.A.C. Entries will close September 6.

SEASON IS VERY NEAR FOR DOVE

Big Sport Will be Set in Full Motion on September 1—in the State

After many months of closed seasons on all sorts of game, the vanguard of the seasons will open in Southern California, and in the dove season case, the entire State, September 1, one week from tomorrow.

The season on deer in this end of the State is due to open on that date, while the dove season opens in all sections. The deer season opened in some sections of California several weeks ago.

According to Pete Peterson, probably the best known hunting authority in Southern California, the dove season's opening day should see many limits bagged.

The old stamping grounds for the dove hunters, San Fernando Valley, will again be the place where hundreds of gunners will be hiding out on the opening day.

For the deer season it is about the same old story. The Santa Monica Mountains will be the scene of a young army clad in red shirts and hats burning up with buck fever. The limit for deer is two bucks a season, and for doves, fifteen a day or thirty a week.

MURPHY HAS GOOD DAY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

POUGHKEEPSIE (N. Y.) Aug. 23.—Thomas W. Murphy, Poughkeepsie's reinsman on the Grand Circuit, drove Peter Manning, 1:57¾, the world's champion trotter, to a mark of 1:59 1-4 at the Hudson River Driving Park this afternoon and pilbted Hope Frisco to victory in the Union 2:16 trot, purse $2000, and Margaret Dillon to a win in the free-for-all pace. In equalling the best time of the year on the Grand Circuit made by Nedda at Toledo, Murphy lowered the local track trotting record held jointly by Napoleon Direct and Miss Harris M, at 2:00¾, Miss Harris M was driven by Murphy when she equalled Napoleon Direct's time, made in a race.

Hope Frisco and Margaret Dillon captured their races easily.

Smart brushes in the stretch featured Brandywine's victory in two straight heats over Ethelinda in the Dutchess 2-year trot for a purse of $2000. Wesley R took the 2:14 trot by winning the two last heats after a sharp struggle from a field of eleven starters. Finvara was the winner of the first heat handily with a magnificent sprint in the last 100 yards.

WALTER McCREDIE TO GO EAST THIS WEEK

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Walter McCredie, former manager of the Seattle and Portland clubs of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, has been appointed scout for the Detroit Americans and will leave for the East this week, it was reported here today.

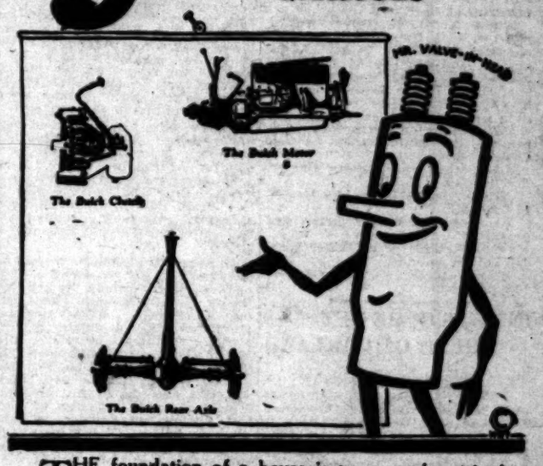
WHISKAWAY GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SARATOGA (N. Y.) Aug. 23.—Whiskaway, twice conqueror of Morvich and recently sold by H. P. Whitney to C. W. Clark for $125,000, was decisively beaten by Rochminster, who annexed the feature race here this afternoon. Horologua was second and Hepastos ran third. Whiskaway was not ni the money.

Whiskaway carried 132 pounds, and it is believed this weight proved too much for the heralded champion 3-year-old of the season.

Compare the Buick chassis



THE foundation of a house is no more important than the chassis design of a motor car, for the latter determines what degree of dependability, comfort and durability the car will boast.

Buick has given the chassis design utmost attention.

The Valve-in-Head type motor is used because it assures more power and consumes less gasoline.

The patented Velvet "Disc Clutch" is more easily operated and eliminates all friction and wear of clashing gears.

The type of rear axle construction employed by Buick relieves the driving mechanism of all strain and twisting. In fact every unit that goes into Buick assembly makes for longer life, efficiency and economy.

The correctness of Buick chassis design is proven by performance.

Boston Athletic Association to Make Strong Bid for A.A.U. National Cinderpath Title

WELL-BALANCED TEAM ENTERED

Ryder Grooming Athletes for Newark Meet

Several New Men Expected to Collect Points

Hayes Hopes to Gallop Off With Century Dash

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BOSTON, Aug. 15. — Boston Athletic Association will be represented in the national A.A.U. track and field championships at Newark, next month by one of the best balanced aggregations that has sported the Unicorn in national championship competition in the past half dozen years, according to Tom Kanaly, manager of athletics at the Boston A. A.

Jack Ryder, the Boston A. A. track mentor, who has been developing champions for more than a decade is grooming strong teams to send to Newark for both the national junior and senior championships, and followers of track athletics in the Hub are already claiming the team championship titles in both meets.

Sixty men, the largest number in the history of outdoor track and field sports at the Boston A. A., are training daily at the Boston College track, and from this squad a team of about twenty-five men will be selected for the nationals. The final selections will be made after the New England A.A.U. championships at Cambridge next Sunday.

Among the new men representing the Boston Athletic Association this season are Frank Kelly of Boston College in the sprints; Paul Herlihy, South Atlantic intercollegiate quarter mile champion in the 440 yards; George N. Masters, South Atlantic intercollegiate half mile champion, and A. T. Kirley, New England intercollegiate and eastern intercollegiate half-mile champion in the 880 yards; Edward M. Brooks of Georgetown, and Kirley in the mile; Gerald Fleming, one of the best long distance runners in New England, in the five miles; Bob Merrick of Boston College, eastern intercollegiate champion, in the high and low hurdles; Billy Nolan, Boston College captain, in the running broad jump; K. P. Libbey of Dartmouth, in the pole vault; F. D. Tootel, New England intercollegiate champion, in the hammer; Gail Robinson of Huntington School, Harvard interscholastic champion, in the running high jump.

All of the foregoing athletes are eligible and will compete in the junior championships as well as the seniors. Among the stars who will sport the Unicorn in the senior events only are, Billy Hayes, conference 100 yards champion; Capt. Earl S. Dudley, Jr., who is running the quarter at the present time around 49 seconds; Jimmy Connolly, in the mile; Joe Sullivan former national 440-yard hurdle champion; C. G. Dandrow, in the hammer and discus; J. C. Lawlor in the shot; R. W. Harwood in the pole vault, and W. I. Reid in the broad jump.

Teddy O'Hara Here for Bout With Lavigne

Teddy O'Hara with bag, baggage and manager, Pete Nolan, moved into town yesterday from Oakland to begin training for his bout with George Lavigne in the main event at the American Legion Hollywood arena tomorrow night. The Oaklander can throw in a hefty wallop if he can get at the shifty Lavigne, who has thus far baffled all comers. O'Hara is considered to be the best boy in the north, while George is the south's best bet. Upon the result of this match will hinge the 158-pound championship of the Coast.

Santa Ana's light-heavyweight wonder, Jack Inman, will try conclusions with Billy "Goat" Lavin in the semi-wind-up of tomorrow night's bill. Lavin's easy victory over Fred Brady last week puts him up as favorite to cop the slugging honors.

Other bouts on the program arranged by Matchmaker Frank Crowley follow:

Ad Mackie vs. Tommy Carter, 130 pounds.

Walter Greyjack vs. Lee Mason, 118 pounds.

Joe Dunn vs. Danny Surlos, 142 pounds.

Louis Steigmeyer vs. Sailor Hendricks, 150 pounds.

Jimmy Mandot vs. Phil Chance, 118 pounds.

INDIANS COME OUT AHEAD OF OAKLAND

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OAKLAND, Aug. 23. — Seattle took the first game of the series from the Oaks here today, 3 to 1, after Jacobs and Krause had engaged in a neat twirling duel. The Oaks threatened to win or tie things up in the ninth, when Arlett and Howard, pinch hitting, drove out singles, but the Seattle hurler simply tightened up and held the locals scoreless. Score:

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ITALIAN WRESTLING CHAMP SHAKES DOWN PROMOTER FOR MORE JACK, BUT IS FOILED

BY GERALD PIDGE

Oh, no, Bettyangeline, the husky gladiator isn't trying to dash out the brains of his "comrade in arms," and it's true he has brains—you were perhaps thinking that he is a wrestler. The upright gentleman is Renato Gardini, the matman, and the downright person is Umberto Rovere, the promoter. Renato is shaking down Umberto for some more loose jack, but, unfortunately for the grappler, the promoter "ain't got no pockets" in his tights.

No, Bettyangeline, the promoter is not suffering excruciating pain. In fact, they aren't wrestling at all. Merely posing to get their "pitchers" in the paper. Rovere can't wrestle, anyway, unless it be with high "C" or low "G," or whatever it is opera singers wrestle with, for the promoter was a singer of great renown before he began associating with "rasslers," sportin' editors and the like.

Gardini is a big gun in Sunny Italy and numbers King Victor Emmanuel among his friends. Not so long ago Vic dubbed Gardini the champion heavyweight wrestler of Italy and presented him with a gold belt, beautiful of design and pure of material, as evidence of his title.

Local fans will take their first peek at the Italian champ next Saturday night when he climbs into the ring at the American Legion Hollywood arena and proceeds to tear Jimmy Apollos, the Grecian mat artist, limb from torso. Gardini has been a sensation with the San Francisco fans these past few months and is hoping to win a home with the Angelenos.

Another world-famous matman is Wladek Zbyszko, the heavyweight Pole, who will appear in the other half of the double feature of the wrestling festival, to grapple with Toots Mondt, the local gladiator, who is rapidly climbing toward the world's championship by stepping upon the necks of all other contenders.

Douglas Park, one of the fifty-seven varieties of middleweight champions, will do battle with one Carl Johnson, former New York Athletic Club instructor, in a preliminary bout.

The heavies will wrestle on a two-out-of-three-fall basis, one hour to a decision, while the smaller men must accomplish their task in half that time.

A great treat is in store for the ladies who attend the show. The handsomest man on the screen, Bull Montana, will referee every bout.

cracked behind young Walberg, and thereby hangs the tale of a close and complex finish. Smith had been retired when Bodie unshouldered a double. Locker followed with a sharp centerfield single. Cox, over-eager to make a play at the plate, let the ball go through him, Locker following Bodie over the plate on the error, the ball rolling to the fence.

Essick then began maneuvering his reserves with characteristic cunning. Murphy was sent in to bat for Hannah. Spud's fast grounder took a bad hop over Poole. Brasil backed the play on the grass, and threw to Walberg covering. Walberg dropped the ball as he and Murphy crashed together.

Manager Middleton then took the responsibility of saving the game and relieved Walberg in the box. Essick countered with Hyatt batting for French. Hyatt slammed Middleton for a single, sending Murphy to third. Middleton then hit Hawks, batting for Zeider. This filled the bases. One run was needed to tie, two to win. Sawyer was sent in to hit for May. Middleton, now master of himself, struck out Sawyer on three pitched balls. Chadbourne followed with an easy fly to Wolfer, who caressed the ball. Belah:

McCARTY OVERRULES MAIERMEN'S PROTEST

Vernon has lost its protest against the game won by San Francisco from Salt Lake on August 14, according to a wire received by Secretary Lorenz. President McCarthy says that he had been authorized by the league directors to transfer such games to California cities in the belief that the railroad strike might interfere with playing them elsewhere.

THIRTIETH HOMER

PHILADELPHIA, Aug 23.—Clarence Walker's thirtieth home run of the season aided Philadelphia to win from Detroit today, 6 to 3. Rommel turned his nineteenth victory, while Heilman ran his total of homers to twenty. Miller's sensational catch of Bassler's liner in the second inning was the fielding feature. Score:

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Washington easily defeated Chicago in the third game of the series today, 11 to 3. Brillheart pitched a steady game, being strong in the pinches, while the three Chicago twirlers were wild and ineffective. A home run by Lamotte with three men on bases featured. The score:

NORDLINGER TROPHY RACES COMING UP

The sailing races for the Nordlinger trophy around Bird Rock at the Catalina Island Isthmus and the motor boat cruiser race to the Isthmus, scheduled for next Sunday by the Los Angeles Yacht Club, have been postponed until the last of the month.

At that time, races and a cruise to Avalon will be held over September 4. It was learned from Dr. Albert Soliand, admiral of the Southern California Yachting Association and ex-commodore of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club, that Newport will join hands with the Los Angeles club in the September 4 events.

California, it would seem on the face of returns from Forest Hills, may cradle the next national woman tennis champion.

But an analysis of the Helen Wills-Molla Mallory match leads one to believe that Miss Wills has far to go before she approximates the former tennis genius of that other brilliant Californian, May Sutton Bundy.

May won the national singles at 17. Helen, one year younger, failed. A year's development would have helped, although possibly not spanning the difference indicated by that score. The former, however, at 17, did not have as formidable an opponent as the latter at 16.

Eastern critics agreed that Miss Wills lacked little or nothing in skill and the perfection of her technique. With equal stamina they intimate that she would have beaten the more powerful Norwegian woman.

Will Miss Wills ever develop the erstwhile skill and technique of Sutton Bundy or has she inherently the same tennis instinct? Despite the brilliance of her showing in the nationals, I would be inclined to answer this in the negative.

Had Miss Wills the skill and technique and tennis instinct of her great sister Californian, the superior staying powers of Mrs. Mallory would not necessarily have availed against her.

Once I saw Sutton Bundy take Mrs. Mallory onto the court and, with drives placed with consummate ease and geometrical precision, literally run Molla into exhaustion. Mrs. Bundy was not at the top of her game then, and neither was her own stamina at high ebb. She had been off the courts for two years prior to that season. Had Miss Wills the same tennis instinct, the same judgment, the same placing ability, she, too, would have left this same powerful antagonist, this athletic Amazon, foiled, scowling, exhausted, albeit defiant, in defeat.

Undoubtedly Mrs. Mallory has improved her tennis vastly since that day she was so marvelously outskilled by Sutton Bundy, but it is hardly conceivable that she has increased her stamina. While improved technically, versatility is not a trait of her execution.

On the bare face of returns one would judge that Miss Wills as yet lacks the mastery of her great predecessor among the western entries, while also wanting equal staying qualities. However, there would seem to be possibilities ahead of her ending nowhere this side of the tennis throne, and it probably will be this stripling of a girl developing into womanhood who brings back the championship coiffure from Europe when same is brought back.

Recently we spoke of Sacramento as a weak team which could hardly afford to weaken itself further.

Correspondent calls us to task for this, claiming the Solons are a very good ball team. Admitted. But they have been weakened through injuries and also in morale as a result of these injuries.

Sacramento with a little strengthening should be very much in the running this year. No team figures to be plagued two years in succession as the Solons have been this season.

Joe Patrick and George Dawson recently were holding a fanning bee. Talk centered on boxing and drifted to Young Griffo.

Dawson, like Griffo, is an Australian and one of the greatest of his weight. He brought the original kidney punch over here. Dawson is now living in Pasadena very comfortably on returns from shares in one of the Wrigley concerns given him by the latter some years ago.

Griffo, as the average boxing fan knows, was the despair of his trainers. He was in a perpetual state of inebriation. Dawson recalled how Griffo indulged even more than usual one day with the result that he stretched out and went to sleep in the open. He was so beautifully paralyzed that somebody stole the shoes off his feet without disturbing him.

When Griffo reported for his workout his manager declared there could be no roadwork without shoes. Griffo proved that there could be by going down on the beach and running the usual distance on the sand in his bare feet.

"You'll have to go hungry; I can't take you into a restaurant without shoes," declared the manager.

"Wait and I'll show you how it can be done," replied Griffo, disappearing. Half an hour later he returned and seemed to have on a new pair of shoes until closely scrutinized. He had gone to a bootblack stand and had his bare feet shined. Not a bad idea, at that. Bare feet done in russet or tan not only would look stylish, but wearing thick callouses on the bottom of your bare feet would be cheaper than getting your shoes half-soled.

CAST ASSEMBLING

VON STROHEIM'S PICTURE IS "JELLING"

By Grace Kingsley

If that youthful manager of film affairs at Universal City, Irving G. Thalberg, has been entertaining any idea of having a little time in which to play marbles or fly his kite, he is now dismissing it. A dozen new productions are getting under way.

Principal among these, of course, is Eric Von Stroheim's new picture, which at least has a tantalizing "Merry-Go-Round," even if so far it has no form or substance. The director, seen yesterday, was in the throes of casting the remaining characters for his picture, and was, if not actually in his shirt-sleeves, at least in a shirt-sleeved state of mind, as it were.

The announcement of the name of the actress who is to play one of the leading characters may cause something of a sensation in the film colony, that is, provided the lady Mr. Von Stroheim has in mind actually is engaged, which now seems altogether likely. She is none other than Dorothy Wallace, who has been in Honolulu for some time, but has just returned. She has had some little experience on the stage, though not much in pictures, and is a very beautiful young woman. Mr. Von Stroheim feels she is a good type for the role he wishes her to play, viz., a clever, polished, sophisticated woman of the world.

Another member of the cast who will probably sign today for an important role is Wallace Beery.

Asked whether he expected to go away on location in making the story Mr. Von Stroheim pointed to the shiny new Viennese street just erected for "The Merry-Go-Round," and answered, "No, we shan't need to, at least not further than the Alexandria Hotel."

Mr. Von Stroheim states that he has yet to make an Austrian soldier out of Norman Kerry.

"He is a soldier all right," said the director, "for he served during the war, but he is not a swaggering Austrian officer. It takes time to learn that swagger."

Announces Classic

It does seem as though the least one can do for the next Universal announcement is to give it a paragraph all to itself, and it would seem the Universal is growing hopelessly high-brow. The announcement made yesterday by Mr. Thalberg is to the effect that Lon Chaney is at last to play a role he has long desired to do. This being none other than the name part in Hugo's "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," which Universal is at once to produce.

Chaney is perhaps the most notable character actor on the screen, not only because of his genius at make-up, but because of his long proven talent, and so when Universal heard that he wanted to play the above role and he heard that Universal was going to make the picture, there was just nothing left to it but sign the contract.

"The Hunchback of Notre Dame" is to be a special production with an all-star cast, and with a noted director at the helm. This director is not yet announced. Perley Poore Sheehan, well-known novelist, is adapting the story to the screen.

Serial, Too!

Just the same, despite the fact that Universal is becoming rather highbrow these days, Mr. Thalberg says he cares not who makes the highbrow stuff, so that his organization keeps on with the serials. Because Universal serials aren't the black-and-blue drama they used to be.

So the next serial to be undertaken has a distinct literary tone and flavor. It will be an adaptation of Frederick Isham's novel, "The Social Buccaneer," and is full of comedy and good-humored satire.

The star of this serial will be no less popular a person than Harry Myers, who is due home any day now from Europe, and who, even if he didn't make "Ivanhoe" abroad, can now speak as one having authority on London night clubs, the London Tower, and the improvement in the American cocktail as served in Europe.

"We believe," said Mr. Thalberg, "that the serial can be as good from an artistic standpoint as the shorter picture."

Farnum Bulletin

If William Farnum, Fox star, takes another trip to Europe next year, it is almost certain that he will take another whirl at gambling.

It was while in Paris, at a gambling resort, that, wandering there one room to another idly, more as a spectator than a participant, he saw a heap of chips lying on a table where a game was being run. Just for fun he cried out, "Banko!" which means he will cover the bet, whatever it is.

"Everybody gasped," said Farnum, "and I gasped, too, when I found out the amount. It was 67,000 francs! And I won!"

Farnum's wife and little girl, Adele, who have been in Europe for some time, the little girl being in school, are to return home to California. They are already en route to New York.

"Dear Papa," Adele wrote the other day, "if you don't come over, let me come home. I just can't stand it."

"My fatherly heart wasn't proof against the appeal," explained the actor, "though I'm still wondering whether she loves school less or me more."

Film Stars in Vaudeville

A whole crowd of male picture stars are headed for vaudeville, these days. Henry Walthall is playing his last film for some time to come, with Fox. After this he will go out on the Orpheum circuit, appearing here early in October, and thereafter touring.

Theodore Roberts is likewise to open at the Orpheum, San Francisco, within two or three weeks. Hobart Bosworth also is expected to play the same theater shortly afterward. Bosworth recently suffered an accident to his hands, when, in the making of a scene of his picture, a red-hot bar of iron fell on his fingers. He is reported as recovering rapidly, however.

Didn't Understand Snakes

While the Princess Radjah's snake, with which she performs at the Orpheum, is a well-mannered little reptile—not at all the sort of snake to be willing to serve as an adjunct to the bootlegger's business, nor to frighten a lady—still he has his playful moments. One of these happened yesterday when the Princess took her pet out to Lincoln Park to get a little natural snake exercise. She was accompanied by Paul Paulson, stage manager, and gallant gentleman.

It was while gliding about the grass close to Radjah's feet that the snake happened to be attracted to a butterfly's performance. Off he went, with Radjah yelling wildly and Paulson after it. Turning, the snake chased Paulson up a tree, and it was then that the Princess decided the snake had had enough exercise for one day, and slipped him back into his basket.

"Next time I'm going to take Nero up into Griffith Park," explained the Princess.

"He simply must have a little fresh air, poor dear, and people don't seem to understand him."

McCoy Divorcee Weds

Whoever else may be taking a vacation, Cupid isn't. Now it is Dagmar Dalgren, eighth wife of Kid McCoy, and who hardly got used to her new calling cards before she got a divorce from him, who is again a bride. Miss Dalgren is now the wife of Victor Rottman, a picture actor.

Whitlock Explains

It isn't likely that Mrs. Lloyd Whitlock, for one, is ever again going to rebuke her husband, the handsome young picture player, for not noticing what women have on.

When Mr. Whitlock comes home from a hard day's work in the movies, his wife invariably asks, "Well, what did the leading lady have on today?" And up to a few days ago, Mr. Whitlock has invariably answered, "I don't know—didn't notice." Whereupon he is always chided for his lack of observation. But the other night, when his wife asked him the usual question, he explained calmly:

"Oh, she had on Phoenix silk stockings, a Georgette waist, a jersey silk skirt, and a crepe de chine chemise and satin garters and a flapper's corset and—"

"Mercy, where have you been?" gasped his wife.

"Well," explained Whitlock, "I knew you wanted to know about everything. So I took pains to observe. You always wear Phoenix silk stockings, so I know them when I see them, a flap of the crepe de chine chemise showed above the neck of her waist, the satin garters peeped from below a short skirt, and—"

"And the flapper's corset?" demanded his wife.

"Well, you see I danced with her in a scene, and I'm sure that's the kind she had on—the kind you wear, dear."

So what could a poor wife say?

MELODRAMA OF PARIS COMES TO MISSION

With a cast headed by the beauty who some years ago starred in the stage production of "Queen of the Moulin Rouge," the spectacular picturization of the Paul M. Potter drama comes to the Mission Theater next Satrday.

The picture was produced in the East, and directed by Ray C. Smallwood. Importance attaches to the casting of Martha Mansfield, Ziegfeld Follies beauty, in the part of Rosalie Anjou, the little Parisian dancing girl, who kindled the flames of genius in a young American violinist, and sacrificed herself so that he might go on with his studies under a famous teacher.

As a stage play, "Queen of the Moulin Rouge" reached an intense dramatic story of the emotions. At the Circle Theater in New York it ran for an entire year, then was sent out on the road. It was the first big road company touring this country, with a train of fifteen cars handling the settings. The screen version is one of spectacular appeal.

PLANS NEW JAZZ

Herb Wiedoeft, brother of the w.-k. Rudy, has at last evolved a scheme to end the undue criticism of modern dance music, and plans to introduce it at the Cinderella Roof, where his orchestra is greatly in demand. Herb and his staff will soon begin rehearsals on their surprise. When questioned concerning the nature of his scheme, Herb was reluctant to reveal details.

Would You Think Her "Boy Crazy"?

Doris May,

Whose latest comedy picture, carrying the title, "Boy Crazy," is to flash on the screen at Loew's State Theater next week.

STARTS ON ROAD

"Be Careful Dearne," Will be Back Early Next Month

Final and dress rehearsals having been held last night on the Mason stage, the "Be Careful Dearie" company, with Evan Burrows Fontaine as featured dancer, starts this morning for the inland cities of the kite-shaped track, where the new Aaron Hoffman-Victor Shertzniger musical farce is to be given its first few performances, to be followed by a week at the Spreckels Theater, San Diego, and returning to Los Angeles to open at the Mason September 4.

Dana Hayes, the young producer who is sponsoring the production, is taking his own orchestra on tour, because the lilting musical numbers and dance divertissements require particularly artistic accompaniment.

Billy Frawley, Edna Louise, Hattye Fox, Gus Thomas, Harry Madison, Wilbur Higby, Rolfa Sedan, the dancing team of Lyons and Wakefield, Victoria Brest, Leva Brown, Eleanor Waterman, and a chorus of twenty, make up the troupe, accompanied by Stage Director Alonzo Price, for ten years with Hammerstein and Savage, and Antonio Buffoono, Ed Wynn's musical director, who came West especially to create the musical numbers of the Hoffman farce.

PAUL DECKER RETURNS

Paul Decker, pleasantly remembered for former appearances in vaudeville, is coming to the Hillstreet Theater next week in a smart little new comedy, "I Heard—!" which was written especially for him by Edwin Burke. The author of Mr. Decker's playlet, it will be recalled, has written much for vaudeville in the last two seasons, and has furnished vehicles for some of the most brilliant stars of this field of entertainment.

Mr. Decker appeared last season in the funny farce, entitled "The Ruby Ray," which happened to be the name of a certain cocktail that produced a kick equal to that of a Missouri mule. In his present vehicle, the title of which suggests "slipping the scandal," this comedian takes a distinct step forward.

"MASQUERADER" TO SHOW

Guy Bates Post's appearance as the star in the screen version of "The Masquerader," a Richard Walton Tully production, coming to the Kinema Theater for its local premiere showing Sunday, September 3, is a notable event, marking the film debut of both star and producer. Each of them has an enviable reputation in the theatrical world. Furthermore, the direction by James Young and the superlative supporting cast that will be seen in this picture are insurance of its high quality. "The Masquerader" was first produced on the speaking stage six years ago, and Post has given over 2000 performances of the lead in dual roles.

SECRET STUFF

If you have secrets, prepare to tell them now—or, at least, next week. For then comes to the Orpheum Princess Wah-Latka, the Indian mystic, who is said to know all and to tell all. There have been a lot of second-sighters about in various guises, prepared to tell the past, present and future, but in this case, it is said that here is one who atcually does it. Warning is issued not to ask any questions that one does not care to have answered in public, for if the Princess gets the query, the answer will come right out in meeting—and it may be embarrasing.

BENNETT LEAVING

It is with regret that the theatergoers will learn that tonight's performance at the Majestic Theater will bring to a close Richard Bennett's engagement with the Wilkes forces in this city. Bennett is leaving to open in San Francisco next Monday evening in "The Fool," which met with such success recently at the Majestic. As a successor to Bennett, Thomas Wilkes has engaged Dudley Ayers for the role of Sheridan Scott, the "crime deflector" in this unusual mystery play that is meeting with marked success here.

MARY IN COSTUME

MISS PICKFORD BUYS RIGHTS TO "DOROTHY VERNON"

By Edwin Schallert

"Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" is to be Mary Pickford's next starring picture. At least, every indication points to that now. She has already purchased the rights to the Charles Major novel, according to wire advices received from the East. The sum is stated to be one of the largest paid for a story this year.

The Kenmad company, which is featuring Madge Kennedy in starring pictures, made in New York, bought the story a few weeks ago, but Miss Kennedy decided on accepting the offer from Miss Pickford to relinquish the rights.

As the story is a departure from her customary photoplays, Miss Pickford intends to give it very especial attention. She will not, therefore, begin work on it for some weeks. Her plan is to take a vacation immediately after the completion of "Tess of the Storm Country."

"Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" will, of course, make a costume picture. It is laid in the Elizabethan period. Consequently all the details of the production will require unusual care.

It is now practically certain that Douglas Fairbanks will produce "Monsieur Beaucaire" as his next picture, this being an adaptation of the Booth Tarkington story.

Both the Pickford and the Fairbanks pictures will probably be started before the close of the year.

At one time Mary and Doug were considering co-starring in "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," but this project is stated to be definitely off.

Billie Dove in Sea Story

Billie Dove will enact the leading feminine role in the Metro production of "All the Brothers Were Valiant," a film adaptation of a sea story by Ben Ames Williams, which Irvin Willat will direct for Metro. Miss Dove recently completed "Youth To Youth," her first starring picture, which was taken from Hurbert Footner's story, "Country Love," and was directed by Emile Chautard. In "All the Brothers Were Valiant" she will appear as a sailorette. Mr. Willat is planning to spend several weeks taking scenes on a vessel which has been chartered for the picture.

Will Film on Ranch

A company headed by Patricia Palmer and Ranger Bill Miller left Long Beach Studios Monday night for the Gillibrand Ranch near Santa Susana, in company with Tom Gibson, the director. They expect to be gone for two weeks, taking exteriors for the first of a series of western films, featuring the Texas Ranger. The pictures will be released through a nationally known service and will be produced under the direction of Tom Gibson. The company will work for the Gibson-Dyer-Ranger Production Company. Interiors will be taken at the Long Beach Studios.

Homely People Featured

In Marshall Neilan's forthcoming picture for First National, "Minnie," there will be a noted absence of handsome people. Even Leatrice Joy and Matt Moore make themselves homely for this picturization of small-town life suggested by George Pattulle's story, "Her Man." Warts, freckles, prominent ears and all the unbeautiful marks of nature abound among the characters of this story which, according to advance reports, is one of the most human tales yet told by the sparkling "Mickey" Neilan.

New Concern Busy

Completion of a deal whereby the Principal Pictures Corporation will produce eight features, three of which will, it is said, be of the super type, has been arranged through Michael Rosenberg, secretary of the organization, it was announced yesterday. Various stars of prominence are to be signed up for these films, some of them perhaps on a semipermanent basis. The three special features will be directed by Irving Cummings, and will be known at Irving Cummings Productions.

Work will be started on a new story within the coming week. The title of this is "Chicago Sal." It is an original by Harvey Gates, author of "Hell Morgan's Girl," "Hurricane's Gal" and other melodramatic screen stories.

The first production to be distributed by the Principal will be Elinor Glyn's spectacular narrative of studio life. "The World's A Stage," which Colin Campbell is directing. In the cast of this appear Dorothy Philips, Kenneth Harlan and Bruce McRae among others.

The intention, it is understood, is to distribute from Los Angeles instead of from New York. Mr. Rosenberg believes in this city's being the logical point for distributing, as well as producing.

Among the pictures that Irving Cummings has made are "The Man From Hell's River," and "Flesh and Blood," both of which were recently finished.

Sterling in Neilan Film

Ford Sterling, who used to help put the gags in comedies out at the Sennett studio, has branched out into the drama. He has just been signed for a part in "The Strangers' Banquet," which Marshall Neilan is filming.

Quits Writing for Acting

Clark Irvine, former newspaper man and publicity writer, has entered the acting game in pictures. He is playing a part in Johnnie Walker's picture "Captain Fly-By-Night," at the Robertson-Cole studios.

GLADYS COMES BACK

Gladys Brockwell will return to the screen Sunday at the Superba Theater after an absence of many months. Miss Brockwell's comeback feature will be "Paid Back," a stirring South Sea Island romance, directed by Irving Cummings. Miss Brockwell will have fine support for her return debut, Mahlon Hamilton, Stuart Holmes, Edna Murphy, Wilfred Lucas and Duke Lee being among those who are in the cast of "Paid Back." During her absence from the screen Miss Brockwell completed a tour of the world, and much of her time was spent on islands similar to those that serve as a background in "Paid Back."

ADVISES DELAY ON MARINE BILL

President Agrees Subsidy Measure in Danger

Desires It Should Receive Full Attention

Deplores Events Which Make Postponement Advisable

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—President Harding in a letter today to Representative Mondell, the Republican leader, expressed willingness to have Congressional consideration of the administration ship subsidy, deferred "until we can rivet the attention of Congress with a full attendance."

Success of the measure, the President added, might be jeopardized by pressing for an immediate decision.

The letter was in reply to one from Mr. Mondell, in which the Republican leader had declared that he and his associates were reluctant to bring the bill to a vote in the House at this time.

"I am frankly disappointed," the President stated, "that the circumstances have combined to make a difficult situation, due, on the one hand, to the diminished attendance in the House and chargeable on the other hand to the new complications which have arisen."

HOPES TO FIND WAY

The President expressed the hope that the administration would "find a way to deal with these new difficulties with the approval of all supporters of an American merchant marine, and that we then may have favorable action before the Congress gets too deeply engaged in the pressing legislation which must be considered in the short session."

The text of the President's letter to Mr. Mondell follows:

"My Dear Mr. Mondell:

"I have your note conveying the reluctance of yourself and your associates favorable to the bill to aid American merchant shipping, to bring the measure up for a vote in the prevailing situation in the House. I am frankly disappointed that the circumstances have combined to make a difficult situation, due, on the one hand, to the diminished attendance in the House, and chargeable, on the other hand, to the new complications which have arisen. It would be folly to ignore the development of the prohibition issue which came up so unexpectedly and we must face the fact that the friends of the bill must harmonize their views to accord with both the Constitutional amendment and public opinion on this subject.

FRIENDS MUST AGREE

"Moreover, the same friends of the measure must reach a concord in the matter of the favoring provision carried into the tax-exemption section, which was designed to provide an indirect aid to American shipping enterprise.

"I need not tell you but that for the engrossment in the industrial situation, I should have long since invited conferences looking to an agreement on these problems. I am so earnest about the passage of this measure, I think it is so important in furthering our commercial good fortunes and so essential to our self-independence and our national defense that I had much rather the bill should await consideration until we can rivet the attention of Congress with a full attendance than jeopardize its success by pressing for an immediate decision. I venture to express to you in this way the hope which I have previously uttered, that the administration may find a way to deal with these new difficulties with the approval of all supporters of an American merchant marine and that we then may have favorable action before the Congress gets too deeply engaged in the pressing legislation which must be considered in the short session. Very truly yours,

[Signed:]

"WARREN G. HARDING."

Stimson Declares Franklin Hichborn Discredited by State Dry Interests

Holding up in pitiless truth the record of Hiram Johnson, Marshall Stimson, speaking to a largely attended meeting held at Upland Tuesday night by the Moore-for-Senator Club, compared the public records of Johnson and C. C. Moore and showed how the latter in his public life had always served without compensation.

"Johnson's 'do-nothing' policy in the Senate," said the speaker, "was shown by his roll-call record and the fact that he only succeeded in having four bills of a private nature passed."

Mr. Stimson characterized Johnson's speeches as "shadow-boxing," raising false issues and going into a frenzy over charges that were not sincere—namely, Johnson's charges that he is fighting the old gang and that Mr. Moore has the backing of interests not progressive.

"Johnson's publicity agent—one Franklin Hichborn, who is sending out false propaganda regarding Moore and his conduct of the exposition and his stand on the wet-dry issue—was at one time the publicity agent of the Anti-Saloon League. He was released for cause by Dr. Gandier, who was then superintendent of the league. Since then Hichborn has devoted himself to injuring the Anti-Saloon League and its leaders, Dr. Briggs and Dr. Montgomery. In the present campaign he is trying to falsify the position of Mr. Moore for the purpose of injuring these gentlemen.

"Chester H. Rowell and myself were State commissioners at the Panama-Pacific Exposition and we can state positively that Mr. Moore never permitted immoral conditions to prevail on the Exposition grounds.

"In fact, on occasions when such conditions were brought to the attention of our State commission the offending concessions were closed by order of Mr. Moore before our commission took any definite action.

"Hichborn has resorted to all sort of questionable means to gratify his desire to be avenged in the Anti-Saloon League, and to injure Mr. Moore."

Johnson's alliance with Hearst was scored by the speaker and the attack by Johnson on England was referred to as one of the "meanest and lowest acts in his political career."

"When civilization is in danger from the license of Bolshevistic tendencies, from general anarchy and the threat of a Mohammedan invasion, the two great countries that must be relied on to preserve the true spirit of freedom are America and England, and any man or newspaper that attacks England and tries to destroy the friendship that exists between England and merica, as Johnson and Hearst are doing, the most dangerous character in the world," the speaker concluded.

RAIL CHIEFS STAND FIRM

Shopmen's Strike Now Fight to Finish; Executives Refuse to Yield on Seniority

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Mediation efforts of the chiefs of the five train service brotherhoods to settle the nation-wide shopmen's strike collapsed today when the leading railway executives of the country in conference here practically unanimously reaffirmed their stand against restoration of seniority rights unimpaired.

Determined to protect their loyal employees and new men, the executives also rejected an eleventh-hour peace proposal by the brotherhood chiefs that the strikers be reinstated as of June 30, when the strike was called, without specific mention of seniority.

The inquiry of the mediaters as to whether the railroads would consider individual settlements was discussed by a small group of roads. They said that they would test the good faith of the negotiators on this matter, but declared that no settlements would be made on any basis other than that arrived at in the main meeting.

While the national conference of executives adjourned without setting the time for another meeting, the brotherhood chiefs and the small group of executives were in session until midnight, but were reported to have made no headway, as the shopmen's leaders were opposed to individual settlements.

Immediately after the executives declared for a "finish fight," rather than compromise on the seniority issue, Bert M. Jewell, national leader of the striking shopmen, in a formal statement said that the 400,000 striking employees accept the challenge of the railroads, and "we will redouble our efforts, confident of success."

He declared that the unions had "offered every concession within reason," and that the Association of Railway Executives, by their action today has "closed the door" to peace.

Mr. Jewell and other union leaders dispelled all hopes of any settlement being made with individual roads by declaring that they had not authorized the brotherhood chiefs to make any such suggestion. "The strike must be settled on a national basis," explained Mr. Jewell.

Hughes Plans to Sail Today from New York

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Diplomatic and State affairs of the government were shifted temporarily today from Secretary Hughes to William Phillips, Undersecretary of State. In giving control of the department to the Undersecretary, Mr. Hughes automatically became the personal representative of President Harding and head of the American commission to the Brazilian centennial exposition at Rio de Janeiro. The temporary change of status of the two officials was made to continue until the latter part of September, when Mr. Hughes will return to the United States.

Plans for Mr. Hughes's trip to Brazil called for his departure from Washington early tomorrow for New York to sail in the afternoon on the steamer Pan-America. His return voyage is to begin at Rio de Janeiro September 10 on board the American Legion, a United States Shipping Board vessel.

Hippodrome Entertainment Drawing Card

Artisans Busy Preparing for Opening

The $100,000 amusement special, that has been rushed across the continent laden with attractions for California's Pageant of Progress and Industrial Exposition, will arrive in Los Angeles at the Southern Pacific station at 1:10 p.m. today in charge of Ed Caruthers, known in the show world as the "outdoor amusement king of America." The train is coming as the first section of the Golden State Limited.

The performers, both human and four-footed, who are to present a reproduction of the New York Hippodrome show, will be met at the station by a delegation of the exposition committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and after an afternoon of rest at their hotels, will be taken to Exposition Park tonight to stage their first rehearsals. Full-dress rehearsals will be staged on Friday night, so that all will be in readiness for the grand opening on Saturday evening.

SCENIC EFFECTS HERE

Five carloads of effects, used as a background for the Battle of Chateau Thierry, which is to be a nightly spectacle, illuminated by thousands of dollars' worth of fireworks and featuring several hundred Federal troops sent here from Monterey, San Diego and Fort MacArthur, arrived here yesterday. Scenic artists started at once to dress that part of the park to be used for the reproduction of one of the decisive battles of the late war.

Eleventh-hour activities at the exposition grounds are keeping hundreds of carpenters, sletricians and artisans busy twenty-four a day that the gates can be formally thrown open to the public at 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

"It is impossible to estimate the magnitude of this gigantic trade fair without seeing it," A. F. Osterich, general chairman of the exposition committee of the Chamber of Commerce, said last night.

"It will be positively the biggest thing since the world's fair at San Francisco in 1915, and is going to be an event that will make Los Angeles talked of in commercial and amusement circles for years to come. I only hope it can be made an annual affair.

HIGH-CLASS FAIR

"Few Los Angelans realize that this is now the tenth industrial city of American, and this exposition is going to drive the fact home harder than ever, and will be a strong factor in sending us a notch higher into ninth place.

"The greatest pains have been taken to make this the highest class exposition ever staged. All contracts for concessions and exhibits have been carefully scrutinized by representative business men on our committees so that there will be none of the cheap carnival atmosphere that blots the reputation of many civic ventures.

"The City Council has been petitioned to keep the downtown streets decorated during the entire fifteen days of the exposition that out of town visitors will realize we have something extraordinary doing here, and that the whole city is behind it."

MUCH-NEEDED RAIN GIVEN TO ARIZONA

CATTLEMEN IN CENTRAL PART OF STATE, HOWEVER, COMPLAIN OF LIGHT FALLS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Aug. 23.—Though cattlemen in Central Arizona are complaining that occasional showers are not enough to bring out the grass, heavy rains have been reported from many points in the State. In Cochise county the San Pedro River rose five feet and the State highways at several points were covered with water, though not damaged. The road from Tucson to Mammoth and Winkleman has been washed badly for a distance of ten miles and is reported almost impassable. Rillito Creek, near Tucson, has been at flood.

S. L. Balupa, with an automobile loaded with eggs, was swept down the stream nearly a mile after being caught at a crossing by a cloudburst. The Gila is running for the first time in months, filling the canals of the Safford and Florence sections, fed by rains in eastern Arizona that have been a blessing to the livestock industry. The rainfall in the Graham mountains has replenished the drying reservoirs of the upper Gila Valley towns. To the northward, along the Santa Fe from Kingman to Seligman, a late traveler reports the plain a succession of lakes.

City Directors Unfriendly to Pacific Electric

Board Takes No Official Action on Request

To Reduce Fares as Conditions Warrant

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, Aug. 23.—A request for a franchise extension to expire in not less than twenty years was part of a supplementary traction proposition laid before the City Directors today in a letter from D. W. Pontius, vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Electric Railroad. Mr. Pontius asked "early action."

"This is a slap at the intelligence of Pasadena," said Director J. H. Simpson, when the letter was read, and Chairman Hiram W. Wadworth commented that the Pacific Electric was offering less transportation than the city now has.

No direct action was taken on the letter and the whole transit matter was laid over for a week.

The new Pacific Electric proposal is not substantially different, expect in the request for the franchise extension, from one filed a short time ago. It provides for reconstruction of the Lamanda Park line with grooved girder rail, extension of Los Robles line to the north city limits, Pacific Electric bus lines on Hill and Wilson avenues and on such other streets as may be agreed upon, and other repairs and replacements. The road proposes to abandon service on East Orange Grove avenue, Villa street and East Washington street, and asks for the elimination of jitney competition.

The directors did not give any intimation of the kind of transit plan they themselves are considering, but Director C. C. Thomas said he believed a constructive program was possible and Director Simpson said he thought the board could readily agree on what kind of transportation was needed.

The board has been considering since July 18 the report of a committee of engineers on Pasadena transit and has held conferences with both Pacific Electric officials and jitney bus representatives. Pasadena is said to be the only place in California where direct competition is permitted between busses and trolleys, and the Pacific Electric has tried several times to get this competition done away with. It stands ready, it is reported, to purchase the jitney fleet here if satisfactory terms can be arranged.

The road has also offered, substantially, to reduce fares from the present 6 to the old 5-cent rate as soon as conditions warrant, and officials are reported to have said this could be done in about eighteen months.

Applications for several new jitney routes are pending before the City Directors also, together with suggestions that the trolley and jitney questions be submitted to a vote of the citizens. The Directors are said not to favor the referendum idea.

DISCOVER PLANT OF DYNAMITE

Explosive Placed Under Wheels of Train Standing on Side Track

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

FRESNO, Aug. 23.—A fifty-pound box of dynamite, placed under a string of box cars in such a position that the moving of the train would set it off, was discovered this noon by a Southern Pacific employee on a siding at Berenda near Madera. Southern Pacific officials here were unable to determine whether an attempt had been made to plow up the train, they say.

The box was partly opened when discovered by Conductor L. J. Riggins, who believed it was a box of merchandise.

Investigations were immediately started by Sheriff J. H. Barnett in conjunction with Camelio Carrel, an officer for the railroad. The box was so placed that the flange of a wheel would crush through it the moment the train started. It would have exploded with the equivalent of a 500-pound blow, local officers say.

BOY AND REVOLVER BAD PLAYFELLOWS

FATHER'S PISTOL EXPLODES IN HANDS OF WILLFUL YOUNGSTER

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

FRESNO, Aug. 23.—Ten-year-old John Kieth, son of a Dixieland farmor, shot and seriously wounded himself at his father's ranch near Madera, today.

Hope for the boy's recovery was held out this afternoon after an X-ray examination disclosed the bullet lodged near the spine.

The boy was found by his mother playing with his father's pistol, a 45 caliber weapon. She reprimanded the child and took the gun from him.

Later, according to the mother's story the child snatched the gun from his mother's hand and ran into a closet, shutting the door behind him as she tried to follow.

The gun exploded in the child's hand and the mother, forcing open the door, found him lying on the floor. The bullet penetrated his chest just below the heart and took an upward course, lodging in the flesh beside his spine.

According to surgeons, unless complications set in, it will not be necessary to operate and in all probability the child will carry the bullet in his body for the remainder of his life.

COMMUNITY PLAY

Ontario Organization Starts New Season With Comedy

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, Aug. 23.—The board of directors of the Chaffey District Community Players met this morning at the Chamber of Commerce Building for the election of officers and the choice of the first play to be produced during the coming year. The election resulted as follows:

President, John B. Toomay; vice-president, Mrs. E. H. Richardson; secretary, Mrs. A. B. Whitney; treasurer, J. M. MacRae.

The play decided on for the initial production was "Come Out of the Kitchen" by A. E. Thomas, from the book by the same name by Alice Duer Miller, which will be given about the first of October.

Miss Ruth Harrison will be director-general of the production. Last year was the first season of the existence of the Chaffey District Community Players. They had a very successful season both financially and artistically, producing five plays and showing a surplus of $500 at the end of the year. Miss Bess Frydendall, director of dramatics in Chaffey Union High School, was director-general last year, in addition to her school work.

LEGION TAKES A HAND

Veterans Object to Use of Flag by Real Estate Dealers

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, Aug. 23.—Real estate dealers in this vicinity who are charged with using the American flag as lot markers will be the target of indignant ex-soldiers at a meeting of the American Legion tomorrow evening.

It is charged that exuberant realtors in the vicinity of Huntington Drive are the chief offenders. Several firms are giving each other hot competition in the sale of lots, competition that, say the Legionnaires, exceeds normal patriotic bounds in its careless display of Old Glory.

The resolution the Legionaires have in mind will request the real estate men to cease their present practices. If they wish to display the national emblem they will be asked to do it upon a regulation flagpole and with the observance of due respect.

SUBSTATION FIRE

Accident Throws Orange County Towns in Darkness

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA ANA, Aug. 23.—Owing to an explosion and fire, which threatened destruction of the Katella substation of the Southern California Edison Company, last night, Santa Ana and surrounding towns were in darkness for more than an hour.

The fire which started early in the evening was caused by the imperfect closing of a pumping plant switch attached to a pole near the substation. This caused an arc, officials said, which leaped across the highway and blew up an oil switch in the power plant.

S. E. Renouf, assistant chief operator, risked his life to save the plant, and Andrew Smiley substation operator, received minor burns. Property damage is estimated at $2000 or $3000.

ASK GUARDIAN FOR RICH MAN

Petitioner Says Centenarian Gave Property Away

Lawyer Admits Gift of $400,000

Suits to Recover Money to be Filed Later

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 23.—Hearing of a petition asking for a guardian for Q. J. Stough, reputed centenarian of San Diego, and whose wealth is estimated at several millions, was begun in superior court today. The opening session was featured by several verbal tilts between opposing attorneys, and an admission by Arthur J. Casebeer, local lawyer, that he had received an outright gift of $400,000 in promissory notes from the aged man.

A hard fought legal battle is forecast. A number of physicians were in court today, prepared to testify concerning Mr. Stough's mental condition. The petition was filed by James H. Ballagh, whose wife is a sister of Mr. Stough's deceased wife, and is intended to protect the elderly man's interests from asserted outside interference.

Mr. Casebeer admitted the gift during examination by George L. Sanders, Los Angeles attorney, representing Mr. Ballagh. He said that on Oct. 2, 1915, he bought the Stough Burbank ranch for $500,000 paying in promissory notes. About a year later, he said that Mr. Stough of his own volition, without any request, "made him a gift of $400,000 of the notes." "Was it your birthday or some special occasion?" asked Mr. Sanders. The witness said that there was no particular occasion for the gift.

It was brought out during the examination that Casebeer was indicted with eleven others by a Los Angeles grand jury last June in connection with the sale of the ranch. The hearing began after John H. McCorkle, counsel for Mr. Stough, had moved that the petition be dismissed on the ground that Mr. Ballagh was neither a relative or a friend of Mr. Stough, his only connection being the fact that his wife and Stough's deceased wife were sisters.

The hearing will probably be followed by a number of suits to recover property said to have been taken from the elderly man by persons well acquainted with him.

CHINA AGAIN IS REUNITED

to discuss or suggest the personnel of a new Cabinet for China or other government appointments. He flatly declined to make any such recommendations.

In accordance with Sun's advice the parliamentarians are arranging to go to Peking immediately.

The declaration by Sun Yat-Sen comes as the climax to negotiations between himself and representatives of other factions in the country which have been in progress at Shanghai for several days.

In the light of previous dispatches recording the details of these conferences, the flat statement from the southern leader that the bickering between the Canton and Peking governments which has characterized the last five years of Chinese history has come to an end, points to the conclusion that Sun soon will go to Peking, if not to become President immediately, at least to take a prominent part in the reunification of the country.

The remarkable paradoxes of Chinese political life never have been more startlingly exemplified than in the ups and downs of Sun Yat-Sen.

Virtually an exile from his country, he engineered the revolution of 1912 that upset the Manchu throne. Then he returned and was elected President of the new republic. In 1917, after his retirement from office, Yuan Shih-Kai, his successor, aimed at a dictatorship, possibly a revival of the monarchial regime, but was forced from office and it was decided to have the reins of office taken up by Li Yuan-Hung.

AGAIN NAMED PRESIDENT

The militarists dissolved the constitutional Parliament, Li Yuan-Hung fled from Peking and Sun summoned the Constitutionalists to meet at Canton. There a "rump" Parliament convened and again Sun was elected President.

Early this year the militarists at Peking were ousted by Wu Pei-Fu and Li Yuan-Hung again was installed in the Presidential palace. Almost simultaneously opposition to Sun developed at Canton. Chen Chiung-Ming drove him from office and he fled for his life to Whampoa, subsequently arriving on his gunboat Wingfung in Canton Harbor, where he lay bottled up under the shadow of the foreign destroyers at anchor there. Again his life was menaced and he fled aboard a British gunboat to Hongkong, whence he took passage on the liner Empress of Russia for Shanghai. He arrived in Shanghai, apparently homeless, certainly without any officer of any kind and accompanied by the statements from official circles of Canton and Peking that his day was done, his race run and his course of leadership at an end.

In the short time he has been here, however, he has leaped again to the forefront, directing negotiations with representatives of every faction in China, laying down policies to President Li Yuan-Hung, stating term to Wu Pei-Fu, military leader of the north, and bringing Chang Tso-Lin, "uncrowned king of Manchuria," back into the political field as a possible ally of Wu Pei-Fu, his recent conqueror.

Only today President Li said that he was willing to resign in Sun's favor, if Parliament approved such action.

Now Sun announces that the north and south are at peace. Apparently he has won his case.

PERPLEXING CASE ENDED AT UPLAND

Court Orders Girl Who Encouraged Negro Boy Sent Back to Tennessee

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

UPLAND, Aug. 23.—An unusual and perplexing case that has attracted wide attention and much comment has just been disposed of by Judge Warmer of the Juvenile Court. He issued a bench order instructing Mrs. Maude S. Bell, secretary of the county welfare department, to provide a ticket and send immediately to her home at Johnson City, Tenn., Jessie Ramsey of Upland, aged 16 years. The girl, who is white, admitted to Judge Warmer several weeks ago that she had encouraged Marshal Sullivan, 17 years old, a colored youth, to make love to her.

In answer to appeals from the law offices and from the girl, a letter to her from her father, D. H. Ramsey of Johnson City, arrived. It was full of love and forgiveness. The father promised to send money for Jessie's transportation as soon as possible, but the court thinking the case urgent, instructed Mrs. Bell to procure a ticket at once.

Judge Warmer released Sullivan and allowed him to go home with his mother on condition that "he never become involved with a white girl again." The mother of the boy was secured, as it was shown that, stating she is a white woman, through she appears to be a mulatto, she had been instrumental in having her son and Jessie "go together."

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 23.—Prof. J. Stonier, director of the extension division of the University of Southern California, addressed the Ad Club of San Diego today, and outlined the activities of the better business bureaus of the country, especially those of Southern California.

The main problem confronting better business bureaus, he declared, was elimination of fraudulent stock promoters, whom he termed a menace to the communities in which they are allowed to operate.

It was announced that the advertising clubs of Los Angeles and Long Beach will come to San Diego September 15 for a day's outing, chartering the steamer Ruth Alexander for the trip.

LET CONTRACT FOR RIVERSIDE BRIDGE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 23.—The Board of Supervisors has let the contract for the construction of the fivespan ornamental concrete bridge over the Santa Ana river at the foot of Mt. Rubidoux to the De Ward and Cobhan Construction Company of San Diego, at its bid of $99,500.

The structure will be of the mission type which so largely prevails in construction here. The lighting will be in harmony with the ornamental system used in the business district. The approaches will be graced with imposing bell towers.

If the flood waters of the Santa Ana do not prove unusually heavy this winter, it is expected the new structure will be ready for use before Easter.

Reducción de Derechos de Salida del Petróleo Mexicano

NUEVA YORK, agosto 23.—Los derechos de salida del petróleo han sido reducidos por el Gobierno Mexicano al 40 por ciento de la antigua cuota, y son pagaderos en efectivo, de acuerdo con las estipulaciones del reciente convenio con los banqueros internacionales sobre el pago de la deuda nacional mexicana. Tal ha informado hoy la Agencia Financiera del Gobierno Mexicano.

Estos derechos reducidos, que el gobierno confía en que produzcan $2,000,000 mensuales, son retroactivos hasta el 1 de febrero, y serán depositados en fondo especial y separado para hacer frente a los pagos de intereses sobre la deuda nacional.

La Mexican Petroleum Company es el primer gran productor mexicano que ha efectuado sus pagos bajo la nueva disposición, y acaba de entregar 3,059,000 pesos mexicanos, como liquidación de los cinco meses de impuestos, que terminan en julio 31. TURKS HIT GREEKS IN ASIA MINOR

Paris Learns That Great Offensive Starts to Make Political Advantage

BY FLOYD GIBBONS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Aug. 23.—News that the Turks have launched a great offensive against the Greek front in Asia Minor was received by the French government today from the French high commissioner at Constantinople.

The purpose of the offensive is to put the Turks in the strongest possible position at the Venice peace conference, which opens early in September, just as the Greeks did the same thing in sending an army to threaten Constantinople.

The spearhead of the Turkish offensive is pointed at Ushak, which is on a direct line to Smyrna. The objective is not only the Smyrna district, which the Greeks proclaimed an autonomous territory, but to reduce the area in Asia Minor held by the Greek army. The Greek line has been weakened lately through 40,000 troops being taken to threaten Constantinople.

More than 100,000 troops are being used in the Turkish offensive in addition to an equal amount who are holding the lines northward. All conditions for the offensive are satisfactory, particularly the good crops.

Truth about Lord Northcliffe

Just returned from his triumphant trip around the world, the richest and most powerful newspaper man in all Europe engaged in one last bitter dispute with the British Premier. Lloyd George, who is by no means the first statesman Northcliffe made—or unmade—will certainly be the last. Though he actively managed nearly a hundred publications—ranging from the famous London "Times" and "Daily Mail" with 2,000,000 circulation a day to the "Children's Encyclopedia," Lord Northcliffe's greatest strength never lay in his newspapers. WHERE? Read the real facts in Hearst's International for September. More fascinating than any novel—an intimate personal study of an astounding man, by Norman Angell, for ten years one of Northcliffe's trusted editors.

For the silliest folly of all the JEW-MANIA, read the latest of Norman Hapgood's sensational series in September Hearst's International.

Is Your Country Club Immoral?

IS your Country Club more immoral than a Broadway Dance Hall? Is it worse for your young son or daughter than an uptown Cabaret? Down to Frank Ward O'Malley on his quiet New Jersey farm came the news that the world was getting wickeder and wickeder. Naturally he could not withstand the temptation to go onto Broadway and see for himself. What he found in New York's Night Life he tells you in "SINNING IN SILKS and SANCTITY" in Hearst's International for September. In the same great number, read "Peggy," "In the New York Manner," "When a Girl's Thirty," and "The Gioconda Smile," four of the seven unusual short stories to be found only in this magazine.

WORKING with Norman Hapgood to make Hearst's International the most distinguished magazine in the world is Will Bradley, famed for his skill in design. In the September number he has created in picture, type, and brilliant colors a magazine to delight your eye.

BUSINESS NEWS

Oil Production at New High; Branch Bank War Begins; Auto Prices More Stable

Crude oil production in California reached the highest peak in history during July, according to the monthly statistical statement issued yesterday by the Independent Oil Producers Agency. The daily output was 374,138 barrels, which caused an overproduction of 55,971 barrels daily. This daily surplus increased from 51,971 barrels in June in spite of the fact that daily consumption increased 13,000 barrels during the same period.

However, this new production record is not likely to stand for long and indications are that it will be exceeded this month, inasmuch as the daily production at Santa Fe Springs has nearly doubled and about 10,000 barrels additional daily consumption has been reported at Long Beach.

During July 1,735,102 barrels of crude were placed in storage bringing the total stocks at the close of July to 42,319,997 barrels. The surplus accumulated during the past month averaged 55,971 barrels daily, and the total yearly surplus to date of 11,73,720 barrels, averaged 55,475 barrels per day.

Development work as a whole showed practically no decline in spite of price cuts, due in many cases, to the drilling of offset wells and drilling obligations on leased land. During the month, 125 new rigs were erected and 630 wells drilling. Completion totaled 83, with initial daily output of 57,252 barrels. During the month 9,361 wells were producing and 16 holes abandoned.

LONG BEACH OBJECTS

Long Beach oil men are getting tired of having the whole of California's overproduction blamed on them. They cite recent figures which show that daily production in the Signal Hill field has shown a considerable decline during the past two weeks, a period that naturally has not been covered as yet by the State-wide statistics of the Independent Producers Agency.

It is pointed out that the theoretical figure of 110,000 barrels based upon counting production before it was brought in has not materialized. Real actual computation of production shows that the Long Beach field declined to 67,000 barrels two weeks ago and even with the bringing in of several wells supposed to be in the big productive area, last week's daily average was only 78,500 barrels. It is becoming evident that the top of the flush production there has been taken off.

The intensive drilling in the region of the discovery well has caused a drop of 350 to 500 barrels in the production of some of the largest producers including a number of the Shell Company's best wells.

SOME BIG WELLS

The northwestern extension, however, seems to be holding up very well, including the district first discovered by the Petroleum Midway's Field No. 1. The Cal-Mex and the City of Long Beach Jergins No. 1 are now producing and Wiley No. 1 is standing cemented and ready to bring in. The Jergins well is doing in the neighborhood of 4000 barrels daily and is the best well in the Long Beach field. This territory is not overdrilled and will probably exceed any other part of the field in the average production over a long period of time.

Santa Fe Springs seems destined for another extension of the proven zone. Hamilton No. 4, which has the unique record of having the largest hole ever drilled to a depth of 4200 feet, fifteen-inch casing being the size, seems to be about ready to bring in. While the depth in 4200 feet the formation is shell and the hard capping seems to indicate the appearance of the oil sand soon especially as the core samples which are being taken daily show lenses of sand and gas. It is reported that this well went through the heavy gas area which caused the Union of California so much trouble at 2700 feet.

BRANCH BANK WAR

The issue of permitting national banks to establish local branches was again raised in this city on Tuesday, when it became known that the Merchants National Bank was about to inaugurate a chain of agencies throughout the outlying districts of Los Angeles. The Commercial National Bank was one of the first national institutions in the country to open branches, now operating three subsidiaries within the Los Angeles city limits, and the Merchants National is following suit with a similar expansion program.

A lively fight on this issue is promised this fall in New York City when the American Bankers' Association holds its fiftieth convention from October 2 to 6. Energetic steps are being taken by some of the State bankers' associations in different parts of the country and a drawn out verbal contest is indicated when the country's bank delegates convene.

Opposition to branch banking among national institutions is not so severe in Los Angeles as it is in other parts of the country. In California State banks are allowed to expand practically at will and the permission granted by the Comptroller of the Currency to national banks to open agencies within their own city limits only puts the nationals on an equal footing with the State institutions. Nevertheless, there is a great majority of country bankers in this State who fear anything that tends to develop the branch banking system, State or national, and some dissatisfaction from that quarter is likely to materialize.

Reports from the country at large say that State bankers are reading the handwritting on the wall. They realize the competition that would result if it is found that national banks may open branches and there representatives are lining up a campaign to fight the banking innovation. National bankers, too, are quietly working on plans for the fight for it is contended that something must be done if national banks are to compete with State banks, who are permitted to tap every important source of the larger cities by directly opening offices.

Heretofore, national banks, to obtain branches, have had to acquire control of some State institution or smaller national bank. But this was a costly way of doing business and the nationals have been handicapped in competing with State institutions, who simply went ahead opening offices right and left. Comptroller Crissinger has sided in with the nationals, contending that they should be permitted to open offices to compete with State bank progress in that direction.

INSURANCE ISSUE

The recent offering by Kidder, Peabody & Co. and associates of $1,200,000 of shares of Russia of America Insurance Company was heavily oversubscribed, it was announced yesterday by Mitchum, Tully & Co.

Russia is a reinsurance company founded in Hartford, Ct., in 1904. It is the largest reinsurance company in America, with assets totaling over $9,700,000. The stock which is to be listed on the New York exchange pays 24 per cent per annum. It was offered at 95 to yield 6.30 per cent.

AUTO PRICES FIRMER

The price-cutting war in the automobile industry has temporarily quieted down, although practically the entire competitive field has readjusted its quotation schedules. Considerable renewed competition may be looked for this fall, when the farmers prepare to spend their crop incomes. An era of better cars with prices at the lowest in history, is evidently settling down for a protracted stay.

These price reductions are being made in the face of in-

WALL STREET NEWS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Wall street has received a fresh atmosphere of optimism in the wages of steel mill workers as a foregone conclusion that further advances in the prices of finished steel products will be made in the very near future.

It is becoming a very noticeable fact in considering the day's market that many of the stocks move in groups. This was particularly noticeable today in the tobacco shares in which Tobacco Products "A" and United Cigar Stores were the leaders. In the equipment group, Baldwin, Lima Locomotive and American Car Foundry moved together while all of the so-called farm stocks again registered advances.

It is the testimony of the heads of any number of investment brokerage houses in the financial district that record heavy purchasing of such issues as Pullman, Western Union, Standard Oil preferred, General Electric, Illinois Central, Atlantic Coast Line, American Locomotive and American Car and Foundry and many others, have been on a strictly investment basis.

The weakness in International Mercantile and other shipping shares and corporations with heavy investments in such shares has recalled the statement of the president of this corporation, made some two or three months ago, in which he declared that the corporation would do well to earn 6 per cent the first six months of this year.

Trefby stocks attached considerable significance to the report today showing the increase in number of loaded coal cars last week as compared with the preceding week, a development which was interpreted as bearing out the railway executives' contention that the roads would be able to handle coal production this fall.

The Mexican financial agency in this city today confirmed the advices received from Mexico that the government had officially decreed that the export taxes on oil be reduced to 50 per cent of the former rate established in June of last year. The news which reached Wall street shortly after the opening of business today resulted in a nine-point advance in the stock of the Mexican Petroleum Company from 172 to 184, and of 5 points in Pan-American Petroleum from 70½ to 75½. Other Mexican oil stocks also were strong.

IMITATION PEARL LIKE GENUINE

Scientist Says Japanese Product Cannot be Distinguished

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Aug. 23.—The fabulously valuable pearl necklace owned by Princess Anastasia of Greece, formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds, which is probably the finest in Europe, today may have only the value of a bauble tomorrow.

Such a sensational collapse in the value of pearls seems assured by a report made to the French Academy of Sciences today by Prof. Louis Bouton of Bordeaux, who formally asserts that it is impossible to distinguish genuine oriental pearls from cultivated Japanese pearls.

Prof. Bouton submitted the following conclusions:

First, it is possible to obtain cultivated pearls identical in all respects with natural pearls; Second, the Galibourg and Rysinger instrument, which reveals the core of artificial pearls, is not dependable when the cultivators use the same core as that of natural pearls, and third, the frequent assertion that cultivated pearls never exceed six grains is proved untrue because a sample examined weighed thirteen.

The professor explained to the French scientists that previously cultivated pearls could be identified because the cores were made of other pearls or other substances, which, under the microscope, showed darker than those of oriental pearls, but now Mr. Mikimoto, the famous Japanese cultivator, is using cores identical to those of oriental pearls.

HEAVIER IMPORTS OF WHEAT FOR EUROPE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Europeans have to import 583,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, or 27,000,000 bushels more than last year because of the decline in this year's production, the Commerce Department was advised today by Alfred P. Dennis, its special representative in Berlin.

Exclusive of Russia, this year's European wheat crop is estimated, Mr. Dennis said, at 1,057,000,000 bushels. This total represents a decline of 156,500,000 bushels as compared with last year's phenomenal yield.

This falling off in yield was accounted for by Mr. Dennis by a reduction of 1,500,000 acres in the area sown in Europe by unfavorable growing conditions in the winter and early spring, and in the case of Germany and Austria by the lack of fertilizers. The bulk of the decline, he added, was accounted for in the losses of three countries as follows:

France, 45,000,000 bushels; Italy, 33,500,000 bushels, and Germany 22,500,000 bushels, while the percentage of loss in the minor producing countries was as follows: Sweden, 40 per cent; Switzerland, 25 per cent; Holland, 25 per cent; Austria, 20 per cent; Hungary, 20 per cent, and Spain, 10 per cent.

Production in Great Britain, he reported, shows a decrease of 5 per cent, indicating a reduction in home-grown milling wheat of 10,000,000 bushels as compared to last year's production.

UNCERTAINTY IN STOCK MARKETS

Exchange Awaits News From Strike Conference

Industrials Move Upward but Rails Are Lower

German Currency Declines Again to New Low

BY ALEXANDER DANA NOYES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Awaiting decision by the railroad presidents' conference on the terms of settling the shopmen's strike, with the subsequent conference between the managers' committee and the mediating brotherhood leaders, today's stock market moved uncertainly. There were advances of a point or more in numerous industrials, but railway shares mostly went lower, evidently on the market's lack of information as to precisely how the managers' reiterated refusal to restore seniority rights to returning strikers would affect the attitude of the brotherhoods. On this point the market had no other information than the joint statement of the brotherhood leaders that the shopmen's strike "can be settled because it must be settled," and because "the public demands a settlement"—an attitude which, if noncommittal regarding the details, could at least be taken as in accord with the general public's opinion.

In the absence of other news a fresh decline in the German mark attracted passing notice. Measured in hundredths of a cent, the rate touched 6¾, at which it closed. The previous low level was last Friday's 7¾. Since the price less than a month ago was 20½, the foreign valuation of the German currency has fallen two-thirds within that space of time. Today's renewed decline was not unexpected for there is at present little or no support to mark values under all the present circumstances, and the German people are themselves persistent sellers.

At its present price, the mark stands exactly at the Austrian crown's exchange valuation during the final days of last September, and only a little more than half as high as the crown's valuation a year ago this week. The Austrian rate is now below 1½-1000 of a cent. It does not follow that the mark will depreciate hereafter to the same extent; for Austrian exchange just now measures not merely the country's paper inflation, but the virtual collapse of its machinery of government. But the present status of the mark, with its natural effect on prices, creates a condition in Germany which is in some ways more bewildering than that of Austria, because of the far more complex mechanism of German finance and trade.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Irregular price changes, mostly downward, took place in today's fairly active stock market, presumably in response to the failure of the anthracite coal strike negotiations and the pessimistic reports from the meeting of railroad presidents.

Rail shares, especially the anthracite carriers, sold off substantially at the opening, but recovered somewhat later, closing quotations generally showing only fractional declines. A few issues, like Northern Pacific, Missouri Pacific preferred, Louisville and Nashville, Pittsburg and West Virginia and Western Maryland, closed at slight gains. Some disposition of recent buyers to convert paper profits into cash was noted in rail transactions. Mexican Petroleum furnished the individual feature of the session, rising nearly 9 points on an announcement that the company had settled for five months export taxes to the Mexican government under a recent decree which fixed the rate at 40 per cent of the tax last year. Allied Pan-American issues strengthened in sympathy, with some improvement also being noted in General Asphalt, Mexican Seaboard issues, Cosden, Houston and some of the other domestic oils.

Possibility of a rate war because of the increased competition in trans-Atlantic service was blamed for the continued weakness of International Mercantile Marine preferred, which slipped back 4½ to a new low record on comparatively extensive trading. American International Corporation, Atlantic Gulf and other shipping shares receded in sympathy.

Demand for equipment shares was centered today in Pullman Company, which advanced 3¾ points. Other equipments were irregular, American and Lima Locomotive and General Electric were relatively backward.

Passing of its dividend caused pronounced weakness in Worthington Pump, which fell 4 points to a new low, while speculative disappointment over the failure of Montana Power directors to declare an extra dividend was held responsible for the reaction in that stock. American Telephone sold off more than ½ point on confirmation of reports that a further issue of stock is to be made in the near future.

The day's sales totaled more than 930,000 shares.

Just after the market closed it was announced that the board of governors had refused the request of members for an extra holiday on Saturday, September 2.

Call money opened at 3½ per cent, but advanced to 4 and thence to 4½, where it closed. A slight stiffening was noted in the rates for time money, with comparatively little activity being noted.

Foreign exchange rates were inclined to weakness, German marks being quoted below 7 cents a hundred for the first time in history. Czecho-Slovakian crowns continued their upward movement, establishing a new high rate at 3.47, almost double that of a month ago, but yielding to 3.45 at the close. A sharp collapse also took place in Portuguese exchange, escudos, which had been quoted above 7 cents early in the week, dropping to 5.80.

BUSINESS NEWS OF BUSY MARTS

creased operating and production costs, due to higher wages, and raw materials. However, heightened efficiency is going far to overcome these disadvantages. The effort now being made is to maintain volume production even on a narrower margin of profit. As inflated inventories accumulated in the post-war period have been disposed of during 1920 and 1921, the majority of companies are physically better able to participate in a drastic price-cutting contest.

NEW CANADIAN LOAN

The issue of $175,000,000 Canadian government 5 1-2s, which matures December 1, will be retired through a domestic conversion loan, according to a statement of W. S. Fielding, Canadian Minister of Finance, made public here yesterday, through the bond department of the Citizens' National Bank. Any portion of these bonds not converted into the new issue of Canadian 5 1-2s, which will have five and ten-year maturities at the option of the bondholder, will be redeemed in cash.

An advantage to the investor in marking the exchange for the new bonds will be that while the maturing bonds will be retired on December 1, and the interest coupon of that date will be paid, the new bonds to be delivered in exchange will be dated November 1, and will thus carry one month's accrued interest.

In view of the fact that those making the exchange will obtain the benefit of one month's interest, the price of the new bonds is actually brought to 99.54, yielding about 5.60 per cent in the case of the five-year bonds, and over 5.55 per cent in case of the ten-year bonds.

CLAREMONT BANK

An application to organize a savings bank at Claremont with an original capitalization of $50,000 has been entered with the State Banking Department.

NEVADA BANKERS MEET

The annual convention of the Nevada Bankers' Association will open tomorrow at Lake Tahoe. P. R. Williams, cashier of the Commercial National Bank of Los Angeles, will address the meeting on the subject of the "American Institute of Banking."

PERMANENT CERTIFICATES

Permanent certificates of the following bonds are now ready for delivery, according to Merrill, Lynch & Co. Department of the Seine 7 per cent external gold bonds, due 1942, and State of Queensland 6s, due 1947.

NEW LAND BONDS

Stephens & Co. will offer tomorrow at par $250,000 California Fruit Farm Corporation first mortgage 7 per cent bonds. This corporation owns in fee 1025 acres of highly developed land near Newcastle which has been appraised at over three and a half times the amount of the bond issue. Earnings for the last two years have been over four times interest charges. The largest stockholder of the company is Charles V. Virden, president of the Virden Fruit Packing Company, and all the fruit raised on the Newcastle properties is marketed under the well-known Virden Foothill Fruit brand.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Rails Are Active

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Speculative railroad mortgages, several of which moved to a new high level, featured industrial dullness and irregularity in bonds on the New York Exchange today. Missouri, Kansas and Texas Adjustment 5s, which are dealt in on a "when issued" basis, broke 1 1-2 points for a new low record, and 2 points, presumably on belief that the 5 per cent interest payment for 1922 will be paid April 1 without default. Prior issues also moved to a new high level, Seaboard Air Line 4s gaining 2 points or more were made by Erie, Chicago and Alton, Baltimore and Ohio, St. Paul and New York, Westchester and Boston 4½s, St. Paul Convertible 4s and Chesapeake and Ohio Convertible 5s were fractional, declining 1 to 2 points.

The feature of the late dealings was the demand for local traction issues. New York Railway 4s, 6s collateral trust 5s, both issues through Rapid Transit, Metropolitan stamped, moving up 2¼. Hudson and Manhattan Adjustment 5s and Third Avenue Adjustment 5s also sold at the top prices of the day, the industrial group, Chile Copper 6s establishing a new high record. Coal issues were noted in Marion 6s, Cerro de Pasco 7s and Pittsburg Coal 6s. Gains of 1 point or more in Mexican 5s and City of Rome 5s featured this portion of the session, and all of the British bond issues closed steady. Liberty bonds continued weak.

Total sales (par value) amounted to $14,-

COLLINS DIES GAME TO LAST

Irish Leader Ambushed, Makes Plucky Struggle

Irregulars Trap Party on Visit to Posts

Fight Takes Place on Detour From Main Road

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

CORK, Aug. 23.—Michael Collins fell fighting to the last, what seemed at first, an overwhelming force of irregulars who ambushed his little party in a wild mountain road between Macroon and Bandon.

The commander-in-chief of the National army had been visiting Cork, and accompanied by the members of his headquarters staff, left at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning to inspect the military positions, south of Cork. He was escorted by a light armored car and lorry carrying soldiers. Altogether the party is believed to have numbered about a score, including Gen. Sean O'Connell, commander of the body-guard, and Maj.-Gen. Dalton, commander of the Free State troops in Cork.

TAKE SIDE ROUTE

A dispatch rider preceded the large touring car with Collins and other officers; then followed a whippet armored car, while an ordinary open tender brught up the rear. The party visited nearly all the posts to the south of Cork occupied by the National army, among them Skibberry, Rosscarberry and Clonakst, at each place the officer commanding was interviewed and the party was enthusiastically greeted.

Owing to the interruption of communication by the main road the party toward evening took a round-about route for Cork from Bandon. Beatnablath, which is eight miles from Macroon, lies to the south of the main road on the south side of the river Lee in a hilly, rugged district. While proceeding by road near the village at 6:30 in the evening the party was ambushed by about 200 irregulars.

The battle opened with a few shots fired by the attacking forces; the nationals were taken by surprise and one of the first bullets nearly struck Collins before his car stopped, missing him only by an inch or two. The Nationals hastily dismounted and Gen. Collins himself assumed leadership. A hail of bullets sweeping the road left him quite unmoved, his first thought being for the safety of his men, whom he ordered to take cover at the fences on both sides of the road.

At the very outset the dispatch rider in front was badly wounded in the lungs, and under the direction of the commander-in-chief was removed to temporary safety. Then the Nationals settled down to reply to the fire, and the fact that they were faced by far superior numbers did not daunt either Collins or his officers, and within a few minutes the attack developed into a grim engagement, fiercely contested.

BATTLE RAGES HOUR

Every man of the ambushed party had been tried repeatedly and had proved his bravery and coolness in action, and all of them showed steadiness in the battle, which lasted close to an hour. It was in the very last stages that Collins was killed.

For forty-five minutes the only casualty on the side of the Nationals was the dispatch rider. The fighting was nearly ended when suddenly Collins fell. He still fired from the ground and encouraged his men by his unflinching bravery.

In a feeble voice the commander asked for Maj.-Gen. Dalton and Dalton and Gen. O'Connell, both greatly distressed, comforted the dying chief.

His body was removed under fire to the armored car.

The irregulars in retreat left many dead and wounded. The Nationals were obliged to leave the touring car, taking their dead chief's body in the armored car, which reached Cork about midnight.

TO CHOOSE NEW IRISH LEADER

urday. There will be a delay of a few days.

The Irish government this afternoon issued the following statement in connection with the death of Michael Collins:

"The greatest and bravest of our countrymen has been snatched from us at a moment when victory smiled through the clouds upon the rising up of the nation to which he had dedicated all the powers of his magnificent manhood.

"The genius and courage of Michael Collins lent force and inspiration to the race and brought the long fight against the eternal enemy to a triumphant end, which had become almost a dream, and swept before it the domestic revolt which tried to pluck from your hands the fruits of that triumph of your unchallenged authority in the land.

"In every phase of the awakened activity of the nation, the construction, administration and execution of the military, the personality of Michael Collins was present and compelling. He has been slain, to our unutterable grief and loss. But he cannot die. He will live in the rule of the people which he gave his great best to assure and confirm and which his colleagues undertake as a solemn charge to maintain."

CURSE ON ERIN

By John Steele

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Aug. 23.—"I wonder if God's curse has at last been taken off Ireland."

This remark was made to me shortly after the signing of the Anglo-Irish treaty by a leading Irish prelate, and replying to my query as to what he meant, he said:

"Read history. Owen Roe O'Neill almost won Irish freedom with the sword. He died before the work was done. Parnell and Redmond almost won it in the Senate. They died at the critical moment. I pray God that Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins will be spared to carry out the great work they have undertaken."

A week ago Mr. Griffith died from over strain, due to his untiring efforts in behalf of his country. Today Michael Collins is slain by an Irish anarchist and assassin because of his efforts in behalf of his native land. Mr. Collins's loss, following close upon that of Mr. Griffith, is the hardest blow Ireland has suffered. Within a week she has lost the two men who more than all the others, won her freedom, and upon whom the hopes of consolidating freedom in an ordered government were chiefly centered.

HIGHLY HONORED

It is the irony of fate that men who have been hunted by Great Britain during the struggle for independence and after the struggle was won, were the most highly honored by the old foe, should die, one practically in his bed and the other at the hands of a native assassin.

I knew Mr. Collins well, though less intimately than Mr. Griffith, and I realise what the loss means not only to his country but to his friends. The two men were most unlike in temperament but most complimentary to each other. Mr. Griffith had a cool, calculating political brain. Mr. Collins was an impetuous, popular leader with great military ability and enormous personal charm. Each supplied what the other lacked and it is hard to see who will succeed the the doubly vacant chair.

ROMANTIC FIGURE

Mr. Cosgrave, now the acting chief of the provisional government, is the likeliest successor and there are a large number of young men who may succeed. Mr. Collins was the most romantic figure in recent Irish history. There has been a tradition that Ireland will be freed by the son of an old woman. Mr. Collins was born after his mother was 50 years old and this added to the almost superstitious reverence in which he was held by the Irish.

His many escapes from the British were regarded as almost miraculous. Twice at least he was captured and managed by the exercise of his wit and daring to escape. Once he was unknown to his captors and convinced them he was quite loyal. The second time he was known but secured his release by pointing out his bodyguard across the street and promising he would save his captors' lives if released.

WON ADMIRATION

During the peace conference in London Mr. Collins won the warm regard of British politicians. He was on of two or three men Mr. Lloyd George for a long time refused to meet because he was among the active chief fighters whom the British regarded as assassins. When they finally met, his humor, ability and charm won Mr. Lloyd George and the other negotiators.

He was the natural selection for chief of the Free State army when the De Valera rebellion broke out, for he was familiar with all the tricks of guerrilla warfare which were employed by the rebels. His death was probably due to his scorn for their inefficiency.

A few days ago, when asked if he would try rebels for treason, he said "no, but for cowardice."

Mr. Lloyd George today sent the following message to Mr. Cosgrave, acting head of the Irish government:

"I deeply regret to hear of the death of the commander of the Free State army. In his death the Free State has lost a fearless soldier and a leader of great energy and devotion and remarkable charm. Please convey to the members of your government my profound sympathy with them in the loss of one of Ireland's brilliant sons at a moment when Ireland most needed his special qualities of courage."

PRESS COMMENT

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The Evening Standard says it was only a few days ago that Collins, including to the death of Arthur Griffith, remarked on the malignant fact which seemed to pursue Ireland at every crisis in her history. The Standard continues:

"While the Irish commander-in-chief was capable in some measure of repairing the loss of Griffith's statesmanship, it is difficult to see who is to fill the place of Collins and make good the double void which nature and the hand of a murderer has created."

The Standard considers De Valera as broken beyond repair, but expresses the opinion that "everything depends on the emergence from the present chaos of some personality capable of meeting a situation of appalling difficulty and for the moment no such hero is visible."

The Pall Mall Gazette and Globe says:

"It is fortunate that the latest blow of the Republican momement had been broken in the field. A few weeks earlier De Valera's following would have gained new and infectious courage from the disappearance of their most formidable opponent."

The Evening News says it is a sad thing for the better Irish that their leader should have been sacrificed in a minor encounter in this wretched game of De Valera's.

ISSUES STATEMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Thomas W. Lyons, national secretary of the American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic, in a statement tonight, emphasized that Michael Collins was "not assassinated," but was killed during an engagement of his troops with forces of "the Irish Republican army."

"Collins died fighting," the statement said, "the pity is that he did not prefer to die fighting against England instead of fighting against his own countrymen; that he did not die Michael Collins, the patriot of 1918, 1919 and 1920, instead of Michael Collins, the tool of England of 1921 and 1922."

"It is too early," said Lyons, "to say what immediate effect his death will have on the situation in Ireland, but it is obvious that the attempts to put the Free State government into operation is already doomed to failure."

SYMPATHY EXPRESSED FOR ERIN

Resolution of Friends of Irish Freedom Hits De Valera

A cabled resolution denouncing Eamonn De Valera and expressing deepest sympathy for Ireland because of the death of Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith was dispatched to Dublin last night by the O'Rahilly Branch, Friends of Irish Freedom.

The cablegram read as follows:

Whereas, Ireland has lost in a few weeks two of her greatest men, Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins, and she is now suffering from a civil war, carried on against the wish of the people of Ireland, in which her bravest fall on both sides; and

Whereas, a few so-called Irish-Americans are inciting the people to assassinate Ireland's bravest and best men; and

Whereas, the civil war now going on on Ireland is not for an independent republic, but for the supremacy of a foreigner, Eamonn De Valera; and

Whereas, the success of De Valera's civil war on the Irish people would mean the return of the English soldiers and endless misery;

Therefore, we, the Friends of Irish Freedom, denounce De Valera's civil war and the papers which place him above Ireland's interests and make him an infallible Pope and a divine Augustus; and we extend to Ireland our deepest sympathy in this, her hour of martyrdom.

Mr. Monnette's first wife, Mrs. Luelle J. Monnette, in 1916, filed an action for divorce on a statutory charge involving a corespondent. This action followed a separation of several years, and it was reported that there was an important property settlement in the wife's favor.

POLICE OBTAIN MURDER CLEW

Solution of Factory Man's Death Seems Near

Detectives Working on Lone Bit of Evidence

Victim's Wife, Hysterical, Tells of Tragedy

An important discovery made by Detective Sergeant Herman Cline during the early hours of the police investigation of the mysterious murder of Fred Oesterreich, wealthy clothing manufacturer, who was shot to death in his home at midnight Tuesday after the slayers had locked his wife in a closet, may result in two arrests today.

Just what the clew unearthed by Detective Cline is was not announced by Capt. of Detectives Roberts yesterday. He declared that the solution of the entire case rests with keeping secret the important fact now in the hands of the investigating detectives. Detective Cline late last night declared that results should be obtained today.

HOME SEARCHED

Besides the discovery made by Detective Cline the police have only four exploded cartridges ejected from a .25-caliber automatic pistol and one steel bullet and a set of finger prints. Nothing else rewarded a complete search of the dead man's home at 358 North Andrews Boulevard made by Detective Cline.

While squads of police detectives spent the day attempting to run down the clews in the hands of the police, Detectives Cline and Davis spent the greater portion of yesterday checking up with Mrs. Oesterreich and neighbors all the known facts surrounding the killing.

From the neighbors the police learned that no one was seen leaving the house by the front or rear doors after the shots were heard. They discovered, however, that a French door at the side of the house was open when the first load of investigating police arrived about thirty minutes after the murder. It was through this side door that the slayers are believed to have fled.

Although in a complete state of collapse and under the care of a physician, Mrs. Oesterreich yesterday went over her entire story with the police. She told of having spent Tuesday afternoon and evening with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Keune of 845 West Tenth street and stated that she returned to her home with her husband at about 11 p.m.

"My husband left his automobile parked in the driveway," declared Mrs. Oesterreich, "and un-

PIONEER REALTY DEALER IS DEAD

Emil Firth, Prominent Man of Business, Passes On

Came to Los Angeles Quarter Century Ago

Was High in Local Lodge and Club Organizations

Emil Firth, one of the best-known realtors in Southern California, who dealt in local property for a quarter of a century, died after a lingering illness last night at the family residence, 679 South Westmoreland Place. He was 64 years of age. The body is at Pierce Brothers undertaking parlors.

Mr. Firth was born in Bohemia in 1858. In 1874 he moved to Manitowoc, Wis., and obtained employment as clerk in a general store. Five years later he went to Milwaukee and became buyer for a hide and wool company. In 1885 he moved to Chicago and engaged in the real estate business.

After remaining there for ten years, Mr. Firth came to this city and went into the real estate business. For many years he had an office at 246 South Broadway, where he dealt in citrus ranch and city subdivision properties, being widely known throughout Southern California as a realtor.

He was a Thirty-second-Degree Mason and a member of the Scottish Rite. In recent years he was actively identified with the Gamut Club and the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

During the past ten years Mr. Firth's office handled a great deal of local real estate, featuring several tracts adjacent to the Sunset Boulevard line to Hollywood and dealing extensively in orange and lemon groves.

The family stated last night that funeral arrangements would not be made until today. Mr. Firth leaves a widow, Mrs. Benveneda Firth; a daughter, Mildred, and a son, Rosenkranz, all of this city.

Belgian Consul Pleased With Harbor Report

Jules Simon, Belgian Consul at San Francisco, has forwarded to Charles Winsel, Belgian Vice-Consul here, a letter congratulating the City Board of Harbor Commissioners for the "comprehensive and practical way" in which the board's monthly reports of commerce passing through the port are prepared, and declaring that these reports "are the best publications of this kind issued on this Coast." Consul Simon stated that, thanks to the detailed information contained in the reports, he was enabled "to get thoroughly posted about the increasing volume of tonnage and commerce handled by your harbor," and he stated that these reports are regularly sent to the Belgian government. The monthly reports of harbor commerce are prepared by Mrs. E. L. Geraldine, in charge of this work for the Harbor Department.

Principals and Scene in Manufacturer's Murder

Above is Home Where the Shooting Occurred

Fred Oesterreich, the victim, and his wife, who was imprisoned in a closet at the time of the slaying, are shown below.

MOURNS MURDERED MAN

Intimate of Slain Clothing Manufacturer Puts Blame for His Friend's Death Upon Burglars

Fred Keune, the last man to see Fred Oesterreich, wealthy clothing manufacturer, alive late Tuesday night, yesterday paid a tribute to the dead man, whom he called his best friend. Mr. Keune, who lives at 843 West Tenth street, declared he believes the murder of Mr. Oesterreich early yesterday morning was the work of burglars and that there was no other motive behind the slaying.

"He was one of the most loved men I have ever known. As far as I know, he didn't have an enemy in the world," Mr. Keune declared.

Mr. Keune and his wife were with Mr. and Mrs. Oesterreich from 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, the night of the killing, until after 10:30 p.m.

"We all had lunch together on Tuesday, meeting again at 5:30 p.m.," Mr. Keune said. "We went to Fred's home and after we had eaten a cold dinner we went for a drive in Mr. Oesterreich's car. We visited some friends over on Gramercy street, leaving their home a few minutes after 10 p.m. My wife and I left them in front of our apartment, and bade them goodnight. I think that was about 10:30 or a few minutes later, perhaps.

NOTIFIED OF MURDER

"They probably arrived home at 11 p.m., and that was the time of the killing. We were notified of the tragedy by the wife of the doctor who was called. We immediately went over and found Mrs. Oesterreich hysterical. The body of her husband had not been moved.

"My wife and I did all we could to comfort her. She was kept upstairs through fear that if she saw the body she would have a nervous collapse."

Mr. Keune said he had been a close and intimate friend of the slain man for the past fifteen years, having been associated frequently with him in business in Milwaukee, their former home. Mr. Oesterreich had been a resident of Los Angeles for the past four years, according to Mr. Keune, having moved here from Milwaukee.

According to Mr. Keune, the slain man has two brothers living in Milwaukee, and his widow has a mother and a sister there. One of Mr. Oesterreich's largest manufacturing establishments is located in Milwaukee, according to his friend, the concern at 2830 North Broadway being a branch.

"Mr. Oesterreich was probably the cause of me moving here, his friend said yesterday, "and now that he is gone it seems everything worth while that was here when he was alive has faded away. We were usually together with our families as often as three or four times a week.

"It was the greatest blow of our lives when we learned last night he had been killed. I'm sure it is a case of burglary. Not long ago some one tried to burglarize his home, but failed to gain entrance into his home proper after breaking into the library.

"I remember he phoned me after he and his wife had reached home after leaving us, and told me about some one trying to visit him during his absence."

MAN DEAD AS RESULT OF TUSSLE

Brain Concussion Held Cause of Death; Driver of Taxi Under Arrest

Concussion of the brain was the cause given by County Autopsy Surgeon Webb for the death of Frank R. Dwyer, aged 27 years, who was found by his sister-in-law, Mrs. R. B. Dwyer, dead in bed in the latter's home at 1125½ Sentous street Tuesday morning.

Shortly after they learned from Mrs. Dwyer that Dwyer had returned home at an early hour in the morning with a black eye and bruises about the face as a result of an asserted fight he told her he had with a taxi driver, the detectives of the homicide squad arrested J. C. Wilkinson, aged 21, a taxi driver on suspicion of manslaughter.

The autopsy was performed by Surgeon Webb at the Edwards Gamash & Heath undertaking establishment late yesterday.

LAWYER SPRINGS SURPRISE

Wellborn, Jr., Brother of Superior Court Judge, Wed to Divorcee Here

Olin Wellborn, Jr., son of the late Judge Olin Wellborn of the Superior Court, and brother of Superior Judge Charles Wellborn, sprang a surprise on friends and acquaintances as well as immediate members of the Wellborn family late yesterday afternoon, when the news of his marriage to Mrs. Jessie Harker, divorced wife of George M. Harker, became known.

The ceremony was pronounced yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Holland F. Burr, in the First Congregational Church.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wellborn started for an automobile tour of Northern California. They expect to be gone about two weeks after which they will be at the Ambassador. Later they will be permanently at home at the Ansonia Apartments.

Mr. Wellborn is a graduate of the law school of the University of California.

THREE HURT BY AUTOS IN STREETS

Woman May Die of Injuries Suffered in Accident; Driver Sought

One woman probably will die and two other persons were injured seriously as the result of three automobile accidents last night.

Mrs. Mary Elliott, aged 48 years, 1005 Fulton avenue, a forelady at one of the Pig'n Whistle confectionery stores, was struck by an automobile in the 7700 block in Santa Monica Boulevard. Hurried to the Receiving Hospital, surgeons asserted her skull probably was fractured and held out small hope for her recovery.

The machine which struck Mrs. Elliott was on the left of a street car, it was reported at the Hollywood police station. Deputy sheriffs sought the driver last night.

Serious internal injuries were suffered by Ralph Harbiston, aged 35 years, 824 Golden avenue, a salesman, when his machine was struck by a Pacific Electric car at Slauson avenue and Long Beach Boulevard. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital. One of his legs was broken.

With her left hip broken, three ribs fractured and suffering from internal injuries, Mrs. Ida McAdams, aged 59 years, 820 East Twenty-fifth street, was taken to the Receiving Hospital last night from the intersection of East Adams street and Maple avenue, where she was struck by a machine driven by W. H. Churchill, 1230 West Fifty-fifth street, according to police reports.

Wealthy Widow Missing; Police Search for Her

Where is Mrs. Elinor McKell Mayo, a widow reputed to be worth $500,000, and residing at 816 Beacon street?

This question is puzzling the Sheriff's office and also the woman's guardian and nephew, T. J. McKell of San Diego.

A complaint sworn to by McKell, in which he charged his aunt with having forbade him to visit her home, with having discharged nurses and attendants he has caused to be provided for her, with attempted assault, and with insanity was placed in the hands of county officers Tuesday.

An attempt was made to serve the warrant Tuesday evening, but the house was found to be untenanted.

Mrs. Mayo is now numbered among those missing, no one apparently having any knowledge of her whereabouts.

BOOTLEGGING TRADE AIRED

Exposure Made in Trial of Ku Klux Klan

Witnesses Say Liquor Was Sold in Inglewood

Character of Elduayens Argued in Case

The defense in the case against the thirty-five men charged with the responsibility for the Inglewood raid closed yesterday with a tidal wave of evidence designed to engulf the victims of the raid in a sea of testimony oozing with moonshine liquor.

More than a dozen witnesses trekked to the witness stand to tell the jury of the intimate details of the bootlegging business said to have been carried on by Fidel and Mathies Elduayen, and members of their household, for days, weeks, months and years prior to the raid on the night of April 22 last. The type, price and quality of the liquor, methods of manufacture, alcoholic contents, and mode of transportation from the Elduayen home, were described to the jury over the strenuous objections of the prosecution. Persons who bought liquor, persons who saw it sold, those who tasted it and those who saw it delivered, testified in rapid succession, bringing the afternoon session to a close a few minutes before 5 o'clock, and eliciting a statement from Paul Barkadale D'Orr, chief counsel for the defence, that his case is closed, with the exception of the reading of one brief report this morning.

This means that the case may go to the jury Friday night or Saturday morning, unless some unforeseen development hastens the program. The arguments, which will be made by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Turney and Keyes for the State, and Mr. D'Orr for the defense, are expected to last one full court day.

CAUSES PROMPTING RAID

Deputy Dist.-Attys. Keyes and Turney objected to the admission of this line of testimony on the ground that the thirty-five defendants and not the Elduayen brothers were on trial. The defense, on the other hand, contended that it had a right to show that violations of the law were practiced in the Elduayen home, because under their theory of the case the justification for the raid, which the defense maintains was a lawfully organized raid conducted by officers and citizens assisting them, was to be found in the causes that prompted it. The defense had a right to show, Mr. D'Orr asserted, that Fidel Elduayen, who was not charged by the raiders with making a sale of liquor on the night of the raid, was guilty of keeping illicit liquor on his premises, and the defense had to show by testimony that the liquor was manufactured and kept on the premises in violation of the Federal and county laws.

The jury was excused during the argument. Judge Houser ruled against the State and opened the gates for the "wet" testimony.

"I am beginning to suspect that the Elduayen brothers were selling liquor containing more than ½ of 1 per cent of alcohol," Mr. D'Orr remarked after the court was adjourned.

The last few details of the raid and the reputations for truth, honesty and integrity of some of the defendants and of the Elduayen brothers were the subjects for the rest of the testimony of the day.

The character witnesses for the defense said they knew the reputations of the several defendants were good and their testimony was to be believed, but that the Elduayens were not to be trusted even under oath.

WOMAN ON STAND

The defense brought its flood of testimony to a dramatic climax by producing on the stand Mrs. H. J. Heyenrich of Lennox, mother of two boys, one of whom preceded her on the stand. From her lips the jury heard how she followed her boys, suspecting they were about to buy intoxicating liquor, and saw them turn into the Elduayen place. Later, at her home, she found the boys in possession of a bottle of wine, the witness testified.

As she related her story, the mother gazed at a small forest of bottles filled with amber-colored and white liquids, reposing directly in front of Deputy Dist.-Atty. Keyes. These liquors were later identified by Mr. D'Orr as alcoholic liquor, when he read a report from Prof. Arthur R. Maas showing that there was 12.8 per cent of alcohol in the wine, 46.52 per cent in the brandy and 46.41 in what was described as whisky.

Another sensation in the defense case was sprung on the jury when one witness testified he was taken to the Elduayen home for the pur-

VETERANS VISIT CATALINA

Men Who Served in Spanish War and Ladies of Auxiliary Spend Day at Island

Leaving only the convention information bureau behind, at the Alexandria Hotel, to tell inquiring friends that they would return at 11 p.m., nearly 2000 delegates and auxiliary members in attendance at the national convention of Spanish War veterans, yesterday departed for a peaceful invasion of Catalina Island, where they captured the attention of the residents who helped local veterans to entertain them royally.

From the time of beautiful Helen of Troy down to date, militancy, with all its power, has never been quite as powerful as feminine grace and beauty and the ladies of the party, yesterday, played the biggest part in affecting the unconditional surrender of the "natives" at Catalina.

In still another way history repeated itself for the conquering hosts were in turn conquered, captivated, hypnotized by the numerous charms of the island and the hospitality of its inhabitants. Hundreds of the delegates and their wives and sweethearts saw the world-famed marine gardens for the first time and most of them admit that they are now ready to swear by the slogan "In all the world no trip like this."

'CHEATED .. LOVE' .. IN .. REAL .. LIFE

Star of Silversheet Sues for Divorce

Carmel Myers

As she appeared in the photoplay, "Cheated Love."

CARMEL myers, motion-picture star and daughter of the late Rabbi Isodore Myers yesterday sued Isadore B. Kornblum, prominent local attorney, and song writer, for divorce. Miss Myers charges her husband with two desertions, one of which, she says, was condoned.

According to the complaint, the couple were married July 16, 1919. The first few months of married life were serene and peaceful, and then things began to happen. The couple lived together but a few days more than a year when Mr. Kornblum deserted his wife, the complaint states. That was on July 23, 1920.

Sometime later, the complaint recites, the separation was condoned and the couple lived together again. But on May 9, last, Mr. Kornblum again left his wife without any apparent reason, the complaint says.

GAS RATES REDUCED

Railroad Commission Orders Cost Lowered Two Cents Per Thousand Feet, Effective in October

With the announcement of a 2-cent reduction in the price of gas yesterday, gas rates in Los Angeles have become normal, according to the statement of the Railroad Commission. The reduction of 2 cents per thousand cubic feet becomes effective on meter readings for October.

The Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation and the Southern California Gas Company have been notified of the commission's decision. These companies supply Los Angeles and its environs.

This is the third reduction that has been made in the price of gas this year. During the last year reductions of 12.8 per cent have been made in the cost of this commodity.

SAVINGS LARGE

By this reduction Los Angeles consumers will save $1,215,000 annually. The new cut of 2 cents per thousand will save the city's 250,000 consumers $243,000 annually.

The statement sent out by the Railroad Commission yesterday included a comparative table of the price of oil and that of gas during the last five years. Following is a part of that table:

Year.	Oil Price	Gas Price (2000 cu. ft.)	Pct.
1917		$1.70	100
1919	$1.60	1.84	110.5
1921	1.25	1.96	115.3
1921	1.20	1.90	111.6
1922	80 cents	1.82	107
1922	1.20	1.75	103

BANK ENLARGES ITS FLOOR ROOM

Citizens National Plans to Double Space

Entire Fifth-Street Side Will be Used

Fifteen Tellers' Wickets to be Added

Plans for extensive alterations to the first floor of the Citizens' National Bank Building, through which the bank will take over and occupy for its own use the entire Fifth-street frontage of the structure, have been completed, and work will be started in the near future. Through these changes the main lobby and working rooms of the institution will be practically doubled in capacity.

The store frontage on Fifth street, now occupied by the Nettleton Boot Shop and the Chocolate Shop, will be added to the main banking room. The present partitions will be removed, and a mezzanine floor will be built around the north, south and west sides of the banking room. Through this increase in available floor space, the bank will be enabled to house all of its departments, with the exception of the bond department, in one room. The change will result in the addition of fifteen new tellers' wickets and an increase of 50 per cent in the size of the officers' quarters.

This will be the fourth time expansion of quarters has been made by the bank since it was founded in 1890. The first banking rooms were in the old Perret Building at the northeast corner of Third and Spring streets. In 1893 this building was razed to make room for the Stimson Building, the ground floor of which was occupied until 1906, when the institution moved to the southwest corner of Main and Third streets. It remained at this location until 1913, when it moved to its present quarters.

PICTORIAL SYNDICATE HITS TOWN

Pacific and Atlantic Photos, Inc., Opens New Branch in Los Angeles

Los Angeles is becoming more and more recognized as a news city second to none in the country.

Added proof of this statement lies in the announcement yesterday by C. L. Mathieu, president and general manager of Pacific and Atlantic Photos, Inc., New York and Chicago, that the Pacific Coast bureau of this large syndicate has been established in Los Angeles.

Further announcement was made that Linton Wells, former manager of the Southern California bureau, NEA Service, Inc., has been appointed manager of the Pacific Coast bureau of the P&A.

The territory included in this district, Mr. Mathieu declared before leaving for San Francisco and Seattle, en route to New York, comprises everything from the Canadian border south and from Colorado to the Orient. Subbureaus are to be established in various other western cities.

Pacific and Atlantic Photos, Inc., is a pictorial feature syndicate established in New York seven months ago, and since then, it is said, has become virtually the largest syndicate of its kind in the country. Fast mail photographs and mats of world events comprise the service of the P&A.

"TIMES" .. CAMPAIGN .. WORKER

Officer of Local Club Seeks Wilshire Crest Home

Miss Lillian E. Brandt

SPIRITED vote-getting marks the campaign of Miss Lillian E. Brandt, 312 South Grand avenue, Los Angeles, who is being counted on by her many friends to win one of the biggest prizes in The Times' $70,000 prize race which ends September 2. The $16,500 home in Wilshire Crest is, of course, her objective, and to this end she is receiving strong support. Miss Brandt is associate office secretary of the Friday Morning Club.

CROWDS TO SEE BUNGALOW

Wonder Home Will Be Ready for Inspection by Workers and Friends Sunday

Interest in the $8000 prize bungalow, now nearing completion for The Times' $70,000 prize campaign, is attaining such heights that "Inspection Day" next Sunday promises to bring great crowds to West Hollywood tract to view the wonder home.

The builders and painters are working with unceasing energy and those who inspect the bungalow Sunday will find it practically as it will be when the winning candidate in The Times far-famed prize race takes possession.

Landscape engineers from the Beverly Nursery Company are now plotting the ground, and placing the beautiful shrubbery and foliage that is to surround the home.

CANDIDATES INTERESTED

Many candidates from near-by towns have signified their intention of visiting West Hollywood Tract Sunday to see the valuable prize for which they are striving. A few candidates in the city of Los Angeles have yet to see the property.

Three days remain wherein candidates can obtain $5,000 extra votes on $30 clubs of new subscriptions and thereby make it possible to win an extra prize of $500 in gold, in addition to the $8000 bungalow, or one of the other prizes to be awarded later.

The last $30 club and gold offer closes at 9 p.m. Saturday the 26th inst.—just one week before the campaign itself ends. Then it will be known to whom the bungalow belongs, as well as the super-prize of all—the $16,500 Wilshire Crest home which also is expected to be completed shortly. Twenty automobiles and sixty other prizes also are to be awarded.

An air of tenseness is noticeable as the last $30 club and gold offer draws to a close, for candidates realize that the critical period of the campaign is at hand. Voting is becoming more and more spirited and the figures are climbing at a more rapid rate than at any previous time during the race.

PRIDE IN CONTEST

Personal pride is becoming a prominent factor in urging candidates onward. Those who were nominated by friends have taken the position that they owe it to these same friends to do all within their power to be a victor in this race, and they intend to see to it that no stone is left unturned in the pursuance of this purpose. Then, too, friends and acquaintances are becoming so deeply interested in the welfare of their favorites that they also are lending their own strength in the quest for votes.

Second payments are a big help. Many subscribers who paid earlier in the campaign for a short period are extending their subscriptions to a longer period, thus giving candidates many thousands of additional votes.

All subscriptions that were new on the first payment are also considered new when extended, and can be applied on the last $30 club and gold offer now in effect.

TO EXTEND SCOPE OF CLUB WORK

Hundred Per Centers to Organize in Cities of Over 50,000

Decision by the board of directors of the International One Hundred Per Cent Clubs to extend the work of organization to cities of 50,000 and over in the United States and Canada was made at a session of the international convention at the Clark Hotel yesterday morning. No clubs will be organized in communities of less than 50,000 population. Up to this time only cities with 100,000 population or more were eligible. The One Hundred Per Cent Clubs now in existence are those of Tacoma, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, San Jose, Portland, Vancouver, Victoria, Oakland and Pasadena, the Crown City organization having been effected last week.

The attempts of the One Hundred Per Cent Clubs to exchange business information of value to all members has proved so successful that numerous requests were received by the international organization for the establishment of clubs in smaller cities in this country and Canada.

It was stated yesterday that One Hundred Per Cent Clubs will probably be organized during the coming year in Spokane, Calgary, Winnipeg, Butte and Salt Lake City.

Among the subjects discussed yesterday were: "The Ideal Program," by Orrin Knox of Los Angeles; "Club Finances," by Alvin Long of San Jose, and "Club Publications," by Guy Keene of Los Angeles, editor of the Percenter.

The relation of the work of the One Hundred Per Cent Clubs to the various civic organizations was discussed in a paper by Charles Coffey of Los Angeles. Merle G. Campbell emphasized the importance of regular attendance at the club meetings, and fines for absences.

Yesterday evening the delegates were guests of the Los Angeles Club at the Pilgrimage Play.

LATE MURDER ARRESTS LOOM

locked the front door for me. The house was dark and he snapped on the front room lights. I picked up a wrap from a chair and went upstairs to my bedroom. My husband started through the front room to the rear of the house. I never saw him again.

"After I got in my room and turned on the light I stepped to a clothes closet to hang up my coat. I heard a noise in the front room and thought that my husband had slipped on the rugs. Just as I placed my coat on a hook I heard three shots and as I turned to run downstairs the door of the closet was slammed in my face and the key turned in the lock. Some one ran across the room and closed the bedroom door. I heard the key turn in the lock.

"I jerked my shoe from my foot and hammered on the door of the closet, screaming all the time for my husband. I don't know how long I screamed, but I did not hear any voices. Then I guess I fainted because the next thing that I can remember was when neighbors and police unlocked the closet and pulled me out."

From Mrs. G. A. Rawson of 870 North Andrews Boulevard, who came as near being a witness of the murder as anyone, Detective Davis obtained the following statement:

"I was in bed asleep when a shot woke me up. I heard a woman screaming and then two more shots. From my bedroom window I saw the lights of the Oesterreich home and could look into the front room under a blind only partly drawn. I saw a man rush across the room toward the front door. The screams stopped, no more shots were fired, and in a short time the porch lights and other lights in the house were extinguished. I thought that everything must be all right in the house, but at last made up my mind to start an investigation and telephoned to other neighbors that I thought something was wrong in the Oesterreich home."

From Mrs. C. A. Norton of 870 North Andrews Boulevard, J. W. Ashley of 880 North Andrews Boulevard, Mrs. Lena Wright and H. A. Wright of 863 North Andrews Boulevard the police learned other details of the mysterious crime in the Oesterreich home at 866 North Andrews Boulevard.

SHOTS AND SCREAMING

Most of the neighbors agreed that all of the lights were going in the Oesterreich home at about 10:30 p.m. some time before the Oesterreich family arrived from their afternoon visit. They stated that later they heard the three shots and the screaming. Then followed the investigations and the discovery of the murder.

None of the neighbors, with the exception of Mrs. Rawson, was able to give the authorities much help, with the exception of fixing the time of the murder at about 11 p.m. Mrs. Rawson's account that the front porch lights were turned out by someone about thirty minutes after the first shot was fired cannot be explained by the police or Mrs. Oesterreich.

Following the first report of the shooting to the police uniformed officers from Wilshire police division were rushed to the scene. They notified detectives at Central Police Station and scores of men spent the night combing the neighborhood until daylight.

SUSPECT ARRESTED

Just before dawn the searching police arrested James Casey, 30 years of age, who was found with one woman and four other men in a house near by. Casey was armed, the police say, with a .25-caliber automatic pistol and a magazine from which four shells were missing. All of the party were taken into custody, but late yesterday Detective Cline announced that they had all been cleared of any part in the killing.

Detective Cline and the other investigating officers late last night declared the murder to have been the work of two burglars. They stated that robbery must have been the motive behind the killing. It was learned from Mrs. Oesterreich that her husband almost always carried between $200 and $600 in cash in his pockets. When the body was searched by the police only $3.10 in change was found in his trousers pockets.

A complete check of the house by the police and Mrs. Oesterreich showed that nothing had been taken by the murderers. The police claimed that they must have been surprised by the return of the Oesterreich and, following a fight, killed the owner of the house.

FIGHT BEFORE SHOTS

The fight theory is based by the police on the fact that the rugs in the living-room of the house were shoved and twisted about when they first entered, and that a chair was upset across the body. A table cover was discovered on the floor and there were other evidences that a brief struggle took place before the shooting.

According to Detective Cline, two burglars must have been at work in the house when the Oesterreichs drove up. One of the men must have been on the second story of the house and the other in the living-room. When Oesterreich snapped on the lights in the living-room the burglar operating downstairs concealed himself behind the door, the police believe, and sprang out after Mrs. Oesterreich had gone upstairs.

The second intruder, according to Detective Cline, must have been in Mrs. Oesterreich's bedroom hiding behind the furniture when she entered the room. He leaped out of hiding at the sound of the first shot and slammed the closet door on his victim, according to the police theory. The finger prints obtained by the police were discovered on the white paint of the closet door on the outside. They were made when the intruder shoved the door shut in Mrs. Oesterreich's face.

HIT THREE TIMES

Oesterreich was shot three times. Two of the bullets lodged very close of his heart in the upper left breast. The third shot struck him in the back of the head and must have been fired, the police say, as he was falling. The body was discovered near the front door with the feet toward the rear of the house. The fourth bullet was found by the police in the ceiling of the living-room. All of the exploded shells were picked up by the police on the floor of the living-room.

A search of the entire house and grounds failed to supply the police with a single definite clew to how the burglars entered the house. The French doors through which the intruders must have fled, latch from the inside and they had not been pried open. No windows were discovered jimmied and nothing of value in the entire house was disturbed by the burglars.

Following the first investigation the body was removed to the J. H. Reideman undertaking establishment at 1616 South Main street and announcement was made that an autopsy and inquest will be held Friday morning at 10 a.m.

Oesterreich, who was 41 years of age, came to this city with his wife, 37 years old, from Milwaukee, just four years ago. He was the owner of an apron factory in Milwaukee and also owned a garment factory here at 2330 North Broadway. The couple had no children. According to friends, the garment manufacturer was wealthy.

FOUR STILLS FOUND; SUSPECT ARRESTED

Leo Lemon, who resides on Florence avenue, in the vicinity of Bell, was found in possession of four 200-gallon stills and 103 barrels of mash, one of the stills being located in a barn on the premises, prohibition enforcement agents reported yesterday.

It is declared that Lemon conducted a sort of roadhouse near Long Beach Boulevard, that enabled the weary and thirsty travelers of that thoroughfare to stop and "wet their whistles" at convenient seasons.

Lemon is held at the County Jail.

HAIR NET TROUBLESOME

Woman's Wild Ride Brings Tag, Injury to Two Men and Arrest on Bad Check Charge

Enter Mrs. Ruth Pettibone, aged 25 years, as Valkyrie of the Open Road. She went shopping for a hair net yesterday at Los Angeles Harbor in her little motor car. To date the casualties of the expedition are:

WOMAN TAGGED

Mrs. Pettibone, who says she resides at 781 West Sixth street, at the harbor, was traveling down Pacific avenue at a rate said to exceed thirty miles per hour yesterday morning when she was stopped by Motorcycle Officer Jack Moran. Moran tagged her, but Mrs. Pettibone informed it was all to no avail.

"My brother-in-law is a sergeant in the police force, I just laugh at you trying to tag me," Moran declares the woman said.

She was allowed to proceed. The minutes later she passed by the Los Angeles Harbor Police Station, still traveling at a high rate of speed. Lieut. Hollowell and Martin were conversing in front of the station. Seeing the speeding machine approaching they attempted to get clear.

Lieut. Hollowell managed to get out of the way at the expense of a sprained ankle and injured leg, but the machine struck Martin and passed over him. Martin was taken to a hospital for treatment. Mrs. Pettibone was arrested by Patrolman Charles A. Geigerich on a charge of reckless driving. She was also found to have no operator's license. While being booked on the three charges a call was received from the Long Beach authorities.

TELL OF WARRANT

They held a warrant for a Mrs. Ruth Pettibone, living at the port, and asked the port police to apprehend her. It developed, according to the police, that Mrs. Pettibone has, during the past fortnight, passed fictitious checks to the amount of several hundreds of dollars in Long Beach and Los Angeles Harbor shops.

F. A. Sutherland, a harbor jeweler whom she is alleged to have duped, swore to a warrant for her arrest. Yesterday afternoon she was taken to Long Beach by Detective Sergt. Jack Worley to answer to the charge. Harbor police assert she signed the name of Mrs. J. G. Willett to the Sutherland check, and that she previously had passed a worthless draft for $33 on Walter Cripe, a merchant at 1101 Wilmington Road. Mrs. Pettibone's husband is said to have made good a number of worthless checks passed by his wife in Long Beach and the harbor.

The woman was being held in the Long Beach jail last night in default of $3095 bail for reckless driving, speeding operating a car without a license, and on the fictitious check charge.

Martin will recover from his injuries unless complications set in, Dr. A. J. Langan, police surgeon, said last night. Mrs. Pettibone blames Motorcycle Officer Moran for all her troubles. They would not have occurred, she believed, if he had not stopped her.

"I was only after a hair net," she said.

DEAD MAN'S FRIEND ON WAY WEST

Oesterreich Plant Official From Milwaukee Comes Here on Getting News

Harry Voss, superintendent of the Oesterreich factory in Milwaukee, left there yesterday afternoon for Los Angeles, immediately upon learning of the murder here of Fred Oesterreich. His arrival here is expected early Saturday.

The Oesterreichs were reputed to be in comfortable financial circumstances in Milwaukee, owning a garment manufacturing plant on the south side of the city, as well as having extensive real estate holdings.

The family had been residents of that city for a number of years until three years ago, when Mr. Oesterreich removed to Los Angeles to establish a branch factory. From the Los Angeles office Mr. Oesterreich had since directed the activities of the Milwaukee factory. He made it a practice to visit the Wisconsin city twice a year to inspect his property and keep alive old acquaintances.

Only one relative of the family, Mrs. M. Korschell, mother of Mrs. Oesterreich, resides in Milwaukee.

Any Place But Home

"Mary was amazed by my disapproval," Mrs. A. went on gloomily. "When I reproached her for keeping such shocking hours, she gave me the answer that for some reason seems to silence all parents. 'Why, mother, all the girls do it,' she said. 'You don't want me to be different from my friends, do you? I didn't want to come home any more than the others did. But even if I wanted to, I couldn't drag away five friends who didn't want to be dragged, could I?'

"Of course, I had a long talk with Mary," Mrs. A. continued, "I tried to make her see my point of view, but she couldn't. That was the most depressing part of the whole episode. She was as casual and as airy and as sincerely unconscious of wrong-doing as if she had come home from a matinee at five in the afternoon. When I talked about 'good form' and 'dignity' and sane enjoyments she looked as if I was speaking a strange language. She is simply doing what all her friends do. That, from her viewpoint covers everything. So I ended by laying down the law. Henceforth, after every party, Mary is to be at home and in bed by one o'clock. If she isn't, she is not to go to the next party.

"The ruling has created a gulf between us," she ended with a sigh. "Today Mary thinks she is the most unjustly treated girl in town. But what she is most afraid of is that when her friends hear the ultimatum they will laugh at her! That's a nice side-light on our present way of living, isn't it?"

Question: In baseball can a runner score on a double play if the double makes three outs, retiring the side? A. C. K.

Answer: Baseball authorities say it has been decided that a run scored on a double play which retires the side shall count unless one of the outs in the double play is a forced out and provided the runner crosses the plate before the second out has been completed. In a recent game between Washington and St. Louis, American League, a question of this kind arose. The Washington team was at bat with one out and a man on first and a man on third. The batter hit a long drive to left field which the St. Louis fielder managed to pull down, throwing to first to catch the Washington player who had taken a chance that there would be a hit and was well on his way past second to third. The Washington player who was on third waited until the fielder had caught the ball and then started for home. He crossed the plate before the second out of the double was made at first, but the umpire ruled that the run should not be counted. The Washington management insisted that this was a mistake on the umpire's part and stated that the decision would have been appealed had it been the tying or winning run.

Q.: Where is Tanganyika? T. H. W.

A.: This is an East African territory formerly known as German East Africa. It is now administered by Great Britain.

Q.: Should pears be left on the tree until ripe? J. A. S.

A.: Unlike most other fruits, the pear develops much better quality when ripened off the tree. The larger varieties are usually picked when they attain a diameter of 2 1-4 to 2½ inches.

Q.: What is meant by salad days? R. G. M.

Q.: Describe Angora and Persian cats? McM.

A.: The Angora cat came originally from Angora and has a small head and rather large tufted ears; the long silky hair should hang in tufts and clusters, shortening towards the end of the tail. The colors are varied, but black and dark slate colored ones with orange eyes, or blues and whites with light eyes, are most valued. The Persian is also long-haired, but is larger in body and the fur is coarser, and increases towards the end of the long tail; the color may be almost any, but deep black with orange eyes is preferred; blue is the next best color.

Q.: Did the Union soldiers or the Confederates capture the most prisoners?

A.: There were 211,411 Union soldiers captured by the Confederates and 462,634 Confederate soldiers captured by the Union forces.

Q.: Can a tobacco barn be used for storing sweet potatoes? W. O.

A.: A flue-heated tobacco barn can be so modified that it will serve a dual purpose. The curing season for tobacco is over before sweet potatoes are harvested, so one building will serve for both uses.

Q.: What was the first encyclopedia? J. A. S.

A.: The first encyclopedia written in English and with the articles alphabetically arranged was a Universal English Dictionary of Arts and Sciences, by John Harris, a London clergman, published in 1704.

Q.: What was the famous Ems Dispatch? I. E. R.

A.: Ems Dispatch is the historical designation of the communication which precipitated the Franco-German War of 1870. The French Ambassador asked the King of Prussia to make a formal declaration that no Hohenzollern Prince would be permitted to accept the throne of Spain. The king refused and communicated the facts in a message from Ems to Prince Bismarck. Bismarck used it by giving to the press abridged features of the French demand which served to inflame the Germans against France and war was declared.

In conclusion may it be asked that if British Columbia has found a way to eliminate the saloon without going to such extreme and unpopular methods such as the Volstead law, are we so far behind moral progress and government standards that we cannot do the same thing?

CHARLES D. HUNT.

Saloon Just the Same

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In The Times of August 13 appears an article over the signature of F. W. Webster, wherein the writer seems to be greatly disturbed because someone asked this question in a former issue, "Do you want the saloons back again?" Mr. Webster evidently does not object to the comeback, but does not want them called saloons when they get here—if they ever do, which is extremely doubtful. He feels extremely sensitive about the name, and in common with the liquor people generally, wants it distinctly understood that they are all bitterly opposed to the saloon, although they put up the hardest fight possible for more than fifty years for its retention.

The reason for all this sensitiveness in regard to the name by which their grogshop shall be known, is easy to see. They know very well that this nation has not forgotten the many evils that always flowed from the saloon, and the moral degradation and political corruption and increased taxation that was caused by it, and we know that it would not smell any sweeter if called by some other name.

If the traffic is ever permitted to resume operations it must necessarily have some place where drinks can be legally sold, and that place, regardless of its name, will be conducted by the same old bunch, and will be patronized by the same old gang, and will be the rendezvous and hanging out place for the same old crowd of criminals, and will sell the same old brands of booze, with very little, if any regard to the percentage of alcohol permitted by the statute, and the influences and results will be exactly the same as came from the saloons of years ago.

All this pretended opposition to the saloon on the part of the liquor men is nothing but camouflage and should not deceive the most unsophisticated novice. We can best judge of the sincerity of their reformation by observing the manner in which they obey, or rather disobey the laws at present.

The sensible thing to do now is to strengthen the present law by sustaining the Wright bill, and then elect men to office who are in favor of it, and who will not perjure themselves by violating the oath they took when sworn in, to "support the Constitution."

We cannot expect satisfactory results if we elect judges who drink and get drunk, or Mayors, Sheriffs, and public prosecutors whose private opinions and personal private bias them in favor of the wets, or choose men to enacts our laws who have never been identified with the dry movement.

This is an opportune time to do some practical effective work for law enforcement and good government.

G. E. MOREY

Why the Delay?

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—[To the Editor of The Times:] There is a traffic officer on Vermont at Santa Monica Boulevard and more than 8000 automobiles passing daily—but no sidewalks on the west side of Vermont from Willowbrook to Fountain.

It is sure dangerous, and a disgrace, to make pedestrians walk in the street under these conditions and some accidents have occurred thereby.

In compliance with instructions from the Board of Public Works, a petition was signed by the property owners and sent to John A. Griffin, City Engineer, March 24, 1922, and Mr. True, office engineer, writes, "April 5. File No. 110-A: A petition has already been filed for this work and an order received from the City Council. Plans are now under way and work will be constructed as soon as the condemnation proceedings are complete."

So far, notices have not been posted and it looks as though the whole matter had been ignored. J. P. BURDICK.

How Comes

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Will some of the readers of The Times please settle this queer question through this column. Why is it that lamb and mutton taste very much alike while veal and beef taste as if they came from different animals? I have searched through the public libraries in several cities, and written the Department of Agriculture in Washington without getting any satisfactory answer.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS

Policemen stopped a lady in knickerbockers from smoking on the streets of New York and the commissioners are about to censure the officious cops. Now that we have a free country and all men and women are alike a woman can wear pants and smoke a pipe on the streets of any town in America. Make no mistake about that. She may not be able to get a drink, but nobody is going to deny her her tobacco.

GETTING TOGETHER

If Germany and France are to have a rapprochement and accord of their own, if both peoples would lay their cards on the table this understanding would not be so difficult of attainment. As it is, the French have been unable to believe the Germans when they were speaking the truth while the Germans have been incompetent to consider the French viewpoint. There is hope for a day when France and Germany will be more closely knit in industrial communion than any other two nations on earth. It is quite possible that they could reach an understanding through one another easier than by trusting the stiff formalities of an international conference.

THE WHITE SPOT

Nearly 10,000 men and women were placed in positions in Los Angeles during the month of July under the operations of the State Employment Bureau. This is more than twice as many as found places in San Francisco and is also more than twice as many as gained jobs here during the same month last year. The industrial pre-eminence of Los Angeles is not only being maintained, but extended. This is chiefly because labor avails itself of the American plan. It pays small tribute to the union boss and is not at the beck of the walking delegate. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty and this vigilance must be maintained.

DRESSING UP

More than twice as much money is spent every year in apparelling our ladies than in garbing our men. In New York City there are garment factories and other industries working on women's wear whose output is valued at $1,300,000,000. There is nothing like it in the world—not even in Los Angeles. The same city is the headquarters for the production of men's apparel. The total value of the manufactures in this class is almost $600,000,000. This one city draws nearly $2,000,000,000 a year for dressing up America. Now they are trying to divert $100,000,000 of American capital to Russia for the purpose of establishing garment factories. In Russia they can hire help for about one-quarter of what is paid in this country and the Russians will also work for longer hours.

MAKING PROGRESS

It will still take time to get a new tariff measure. Bills have passed both branches of Congress and it is just thirteen months since the first step was taken in the House. Now the tariff is in the hands of the conferees of Senate and House. They will have to reach an agreement and both House and Senate must approve their findings before the completed measure is ready for the Presidential signature. It will take time—even under a rush order. There are wide gulfs to be spanned between the House and Senate. The bill which finally passed the upper branch is much different from the one that ran the gauntlet of the lower one. It will take a lot of sacrificing and compromising to bring the two together. But it can and will be done—and that right speedily. The administration will have achieved a new tariff before the fall elections.

WHO IS DEPENDABLE?

The billboards flamboyantly proclaim that Gov. Stephens is dependable and also progressive. Nothing more certain. During the Stephens regime the taxpayer can depend upon a progressive increase in the tax burdens of the State. According to his lights as a good spender of other people's money Gov. Stephens is thoroughly dependable and progressive. The citizen knows what he is getting. If he wants a high-priced and luxurious administration Gov. Stephens will be pleased to continue the amiable task of furnishing it. Gov. Stephens and Friend W. Richardson have held office side by side. In every position Stephens has been placed expenditures have piled up and extravagances have crept in. On the other hand, every office filled by Friend Richardson has been administered with regard to the public weal. He has instituted real economies in every case. He has made no attempt to build up a political machine—in fact, he has driven politicians from their desks and substituted capable workers in their stead. Those who want a richly upholstered government, operated regardless of expense, may easily have it by voting to sustain the present benevolent incumbent. Those who feel that it is time to have recourse to Spartan methods and cut out the political bunk will do a mighty wise thing if they boost Friend Richardson into authority. Some of the surplus commissioners would have to go to work if Richardson were on the job. There is no chance of their being disturbed by Gov. Stephens.

WHAT WILL BECOME OF IRELAND?

What will become of Ireland? Deeper and deeper, day after day, week after week, month after month grows the crimson stain of crime.

It is as though a heavy curse rested on that unhappy island—as though they had raised a modern Prometheus to destroy them with the fire of their own summoning.

The cowardly and cruel murder of Michael Collins is the final blot on the record of Ireland's misfortune. In that atrocious deed the fomenters of rebellion have thrown off the last rag of respect that once covered their purposes. They have exhibited their country as a volcano spouting anarchy.

What will become of Ireland? She has suffered the wanton destruction of her last hope of peace. Michael Collins, who fought her battle from black night to the first glimpse of day, who brought her the first generous measure of freedom, who directed her fortunes at the most momentous crisis in her history, who was upholding the banner of law and liberty in a period of the bitterest civil strife, has been struck down by the coldly treacherous hand of one of his own countrymen.

If there is in her any of the ancient spirit, any of the old-time patriotism, any abiding loyalty, and sense of generosity, Ireland will at last rise against the fools and villains who are drenching her soil with the blood of her bravest sons, will stand by her elected representatives—and avenge the murder of Michael Collins, as he would wish it to be avenged, by rooting out the whole gang of plotters and conspirators and assassination-mongers.

By a dastardly deed the strongest champion or orderly government has been removed from a land where the weeds of disorder grow all too rapidly. The last anchor that held her ship of state from drifting on a perilous lee shore has been cut away. What will become of Ireland?

In the United States, among all Americans—surely among those most of all who have Irish blood in their veins—this calculated murder of Ireland's leading citizen will arouse the harshest resentment against the whole party guilty of bringing about the crime and the tenderest sympathy for the friends and family of the victim.

For Collins was the typical Irish hero of romance, gallant and fearless, brave and gay, soldier, orator, loyal in friendship, resourceful in emergency, unflinching in the face of danger, unmoved by threats and personal invective.

There is no other like him in the Irish armies—there is none to take his place. It will be difficult for Ireland to retrieve the loss.

HUSBANDS TO RENT

The announcement from San Francisco that a prominent society matron of that city is offering to buy or rent the husband of another woman—paying the lady a life annuity at the rate of $100 a month for her sacrifice—is evidence that the world is growing more rigid and conscientious in its morals. In the olden days the lady would have stolen the husband without batting an eye. In fact, husband-stealing was considered one of the pungent diversions of the time. There was just enough taint to it to make it alluring. It might be forbidden by law, but what are laws for but to be broken? The fact that a lady now offers to pay a substantial monthly rental for a second-hand and slightly damaged husband shows that the moral perceptions of the race are growing finer and purer. Frequently when a dame has purloined the husband of another she has been indulgently excused on the ground that she is a kleptomaniac. But modern diagnosticians recognize no such disease. It belongs to the courts and not to materia medica. It is larceny. It is a crime and not a fever. But if a husband is a commodity his purchase or rental might well become a common and proper transaction. If a woman has a somewhat worn or soiled husband she may not care to have him sent to the dry cleaners to have the shine removed. She may prefer to sell him outright to some dame who is not so particular. The San Francisco precedent may, therefore, be accepted as a hopeful sign.

The next thing will be the establishment of a market. It is barely possible that some other lady would be willing to pay a still higher price for the gentleman in the case. In that event the lawful owner should be permitted to ask the peak of the market. It is possible that the day will come when husbands will be quoted in carload lots, but thus far it is purely a retail business and the trading is individual in character.

It is given out that the husband in the case at bar is an illustrator. If that be so, there is every indication of a bull market. It is not so very long ago that an artist would not be considered worth more than $40 or $50 a month in any home. Probably the wife in this instance has indicated good judgment in accepting the offer.

Now that the ice has been broken we look to see quite a boom in the sale or rental of husbands. The classified columns of The Times may be cluttered up with advertisements offering husbands for sale or exchange. When a woman offers her trousseau for sale she might throw in the husband as an incentive to the bargain.

We are looking for some seasonal activities in the line of husband-renting. There are a number of nearly new husbands in these parts that should bring the top of the market.

IT'S AN ILL WIND

The coal miners' strike hasn't done much for anyone in America. In fact, it has hurt the public and harmed the mine owners and hit the unions and left everyone worse off than when it started. But it has made money for the mine owners in Great Britain and the bread taken out of mouths in Pennsylvania and Illinois has gone into mouths in Northumberland and South Wales. It's an ill wind that doesn't carry away prosperity to some distant country. Some may think, too, it's an ill wind that does.

THE ALIMONY MILL

With 104 advance petitions for alimony o allowances in divorce cases presented to the local courts in a single day, it would seem that after matrimony one's patrimony is converted into alimony. The total alimony payments in Los Angeles must be just a little bit less than the national debt.

"Next on the Program---"

JAPAN'S BEST CUSTOMER

Alarmists who scent perpetual danger in the overemphasized rivalries of the American and Japanese people can take heart of grace from a perusal of the import and export figures of the last fiscal year. The two countries appear to be drifting into peace, rather than into war.

Nothing, at any rate, contributes more to a peaceful understanding between two nations than a growing commerce satisfactory to both. Did not Thomas Jefferson declare that "peace and commerce go together"—and when that commerce is based on the give-and-take principle Jefferson's contention is beyond cavil.

Peace on the Pacific looked brighter after the Washington conference. Now there seems to be a still further clearing of the atmosphere.

For our commercial relations with Japan are more favorable today than with any other country in the world. In fact, it is the only country with which, during the last fiscal year, both our import trade and our export trade have shown an increase.

This result is the best answer to those who "view with alarm" the thorny questions along the diplomatic paths the two nations must travel. Japan is not going to quarrel with her best customer. Uncle Sam is not going to shut off a growing market for his wares. Barring a radical change in world financial conditions, we should jog peacefully along for a while with our neighbors in the Far East.

Nor, during the last twelve months, there has been a continuous trade falling off with every country except one. The average decrease all the world over has been 38 per cent. Instead of this deficiency, our exports to Japan showed an increase of 30 per cent and our imports an increase of 13 per cent.

Thus our total commerce with Japan increased from $422,000,000 in 1920-1921 to $565,000,000 in 1921-1922. This at the very time, too, when the figures were lighter in every other direction.

In fact, since 1913 there has been a continuous growth in the trading done between this country and Japan. In nine years our Japanese commerce has grown more than 263 per cent, and though the figure nine years ago was very small compared with our trade with other leading nations, still, considering the nature of the last nine years, the record is very remarkable.

At the present time Japan is buying from us and selling to us nearly as much as she is buying and selling in her trade with all the other nations of the world put together. Japan would have to see some better world prize than is at present in sight to disturb these peaceful commercial relations.

Los Angeles is particularly interested in America's oriental trade, because she has the logical harbor from which most of this trade ought to be carried on. If the United States is Japan's best customer the harbor of Los Angeles should be the chief trading depot. Every new steamship line started across the Pacific to link the Occident and the Orient is an additional agent in the growth of Greater Southern California.

May our trade with Japan increase and multiply and help to fill the Pacific with steamship routes fed by ever larger terminals on either side of the newest "big pond."

BOTH MISTAKEN

The traveler from Southern California visiting the Northwest sees in the summer time a beautiful country. The mountains are well wooded; there are many mountains, streams and lakes. Now and then in the lowlands, but not too low to have a timbered shore line, one finds a lake of large proportions. In Southern Canada, in seasons of good rain, the prairies are as grassy and as full of flowers as a Southern California mesa in April. Where the lands have been put into grain at the right time the crops seem at the same stage as near Los Angeles in May. The visitor from the south, looking the country hastily over and hearing a few residents talk about the climate, draws the conclusion: "It's a nice country in the summer time, but it must be cold in the winter time."

The resident of the Northwest visiting Southern California during the winter months finds a country that in vegetation and crops—except the semitropical and a few special crops—corresponds to his Northwest in summer time. He draws the conclusion: "It's a nice country in the winter, but, if it's warm now, what must it be in the summer time?"

As a matter of fact, the Pacific Coast and Western Highland section of the United States is highly favored as to climate. The Northern States of this region do have some cold days each winter, but as a rule the cold does not last long and—what is of great importance to a stock-growing region—the snows as a rule do not fall so deeply and lie on the ground so long as they do in the Northeastern States. Southern Arizona and the interior part of Southern California do have some warm days each summer, but as a rule the period of extreme heat does not last long. The Pacific Coast is a region of cool summers and warm winters. The region of sweltering summer nights is confined almost all together to the Mississippi Valley and east-coast section of the United States. A country may have a good climate and yet not be an especially desirable section to live in because of a lack of topographic relief to make it attractive. In addition to favorable climate Western United States has every variety of landscape known to mankind.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

Plan—Then Plant

Josh Billings used to say that a postage stamp preached the best sermon in the world because it stuck to its plan till it got there.

Are you inferior to a postage stamp?

Almost every one of us is familiar with people who seem never to tire of conceiving great things—but who never harpoon one idea long enough to plan it out and give their plan effect.

Perhaps you are guilty of this sort of thing yourself.

Sir Thomas Buxton, who should be read and quoted today much more than he is, was not far amiss when he observed:

"The longer I live the more I am certain that the great difference between men, between the great and the insignificant, is energy, invincible determination, an honest purpose once fixed, and then death or victory."

In other words, plan and energy are necessary to attain any worth-while goal.

Coleridge is said to have left behind him over 40,000 essays on metaphysics—all of them good, as far as they went, and all of them useless and unworth-while—because not a single one of them was complete.

Coleridge had energy, but he did not have plan; so his life was forty-odd years of perpetual wasted motion.

The great majority of us have ambitions which we long to see come true.

We indulge in all manner of day dreams, fancying ourselves this and that, picturing ourselves in this or that dominating position.

And that is where most of us stop; we fail or refuse to devote the time and the energy to plan, then plant.

There are men who say they are competent to do anything. Perhaps they are, but they never make up their minds distinctly as to what they want to do or be. Result: Frittered forces and many of the mournful failures we see around us every day, everywhere.

The plan is the blueprint of the achievement and the man who does not have one, not knowing what port his ship is bound for, drifts at the mercy of every passing breeze.

If you expect to get much out of life, it is absolutely necessary to have a definite conception of what you hope to accomplish, think out how you can best accomplish it and then hue unswervingly to the line.

RIPPLING RHYMES

BEST SELLERS

I follow up my endless quest,
I seek them high and low—
the books that used to sell the best
some twenty years ago.
Our glad applause we used to give to every transient tome:
"Here is a book that's bound to live until the cows come home.
Oh, when, since Sappho cashed her string, were odes so ably sung?
These pomes will surely live, by jing, till every dog is hung."
And thus, with fervor in our souls, our noble fits we'd throw;
where are the deathless rigmaroles of twenty years ago?
I mention books that once were sold by trainloads through the land, and only gaffers growing old recall and understand.
Now, Maurice Thompson's masterpiece deserved a lasting fame, but when I ask my nifty niece if she has read the same,
"I've never heard of such a book," she says, and tilts her nose;
"if I read all such stuff, gadzook, I'd miss the movie shows."
I ask the bookstore clerks today for tales of other years;
they've never heard of them, they say, and shed unbidden tears.
They try to sell me current rot, but such a scheme won't go;
where are the books that hit the spot some twenty years ago?

WHAT'S HAPPENED ON MARS?

BY WILLIAM H. KNIGHT

Regarding a great white spot which suddenly appeared on the surface of Mars during the night of July 9, Dr. Slipher, director of the Lowell observatory, has this to say in the closing paragraph of an article contributed to the Pacific Astronomical Journal for August:

"It should appear that this spot is an outstanding feature in the recorded history of Mars, because of its size, brightness, unusual tropical location and suggestive behavior and that it is of most pertinent significance regarding conditions on the planet."

Mars, the next planet outside the orbit of the earth, has a diameter of only 4200 miles, and its surface is correspondingly less than that of the planet on which we live, which is nearly 8000 miles in diameter. Yet a portion of the surface of Mars, 400 miles in width by 800 miles in length, was covered by a bright, clearly defined spot, on the night of July 9, which was not there on the previous evening.

There is a well-known dark, curved marking extending from the polar snowcap diagonally toward the equator. It is about 800 miles wide as it emerges from the snowcap, diminishing to 200 miles in width as it nears the equator.

There are two large telescopes at the Lowell observatory, one a twenty-four-inch refractor and the other a forty-inch reflector. Both of these powerful instruments were brought into requisition and more than 200 photographs of the planet were taken during the night of July 9, and the strange light, brighter than that of the snowcaps, was clearly defined on all of these plates.

The dark marking above described is known to astronomers as the Margaritifer Sinus, but what its nature is, is not known. Whether it is an arm of the polar sea or a region covered with a dark vegetable growth, or a peculiar geological marking, or due to some other cause, is not known. But the significant fact regarding this white spot is that its entire area, half as large again as the entire State of California, lay within the Margaritifer Sinus, about midway between the snowcap and the equator.

The bright spot was, therefore, in strong contrast with the dark Sinus in which it was situated. And now, we cannot help asking, what happened to Mars? The planet was at that time about 35,000,000 miles from the earth and in opposition to the sun—a most favorable time for observation. The surface features of the planet are particularly well known to the astronomers of the Lowell observatory, where, ever since it was founded by Percival Lowell, a detailed study of its surface has been made for many years.

Was there a great conflagration of a peculiar vegetable growth in the Margaritifer Sinus or was there a cataclysmic rupture of the planet's shell in its weakest spot, through which the internal fires blazed forth?

Astronomers hesitate to assign causes for unusual phenomena or even to offer tentative explanations for such strange appearances, until all available data can be obtained, compared and studied. And thus far no conjectures have been put forth by those best competent to judge of the facts bearing on this event. We shall await with absorbing interest an expression of their views.

Of course, the astronomers at the Lowell observatory anxiously scanned the face of Mars on the following evening. The white spot was still there, not quite so bright as on the preceding evening, but yet brighter than the polar snows. It had expanded a little and partially overlapped one edge of the Sinus. On the third night it had divided into three still fainter spots, extending down toward the equator. The question, then, suggests itself, was not the phenomenon an extraordinary disturbance of the thin Martian atmosphere, illuminated by and rising from causes that we can only conjecture? But whatever the cause, the mystery of Mars deepens.

TAXPAYER'S LAMENT

BY EUGENE BROWN

My Dear Friend Richardson: I am calling you Friend because that is your front name and we are hoping that it fits. We are trusting that you will prove a Friend indeed. This may happen for the reason that just now you are a Friend in need—in need of 6120 votes. If we can swing that many all will be well. I am thinking of voting rather heavily for you myself. That should help a lot.

Up to now my thumbs have become badly calloused from much voting for Bill Stephens. Every time he was running for any office there was I fighting my way into the election booth with my little old ballot marked for Stephens. I have been marching to the polls for Stephens for so long that I am now accused of carrying a limp.

And what have I got out of it?

Not a dog-tone smell.

Not even a commissionership.

There are more than forty different boards and commissions to tune up the politics of the State and you would think that a regular voter would have a hard time to avoid being drafted. But they haven't got me yet. There are 12,000 guys on the State pay roll, but if I should ask for anything outside of a job in the jute mill at San Quentin I am told that the line is full.

I have found out the reason why. They need me as an amiable and unresisting taxpayer. I have been given the decoration of the double cross of citizenship. It is in the capacity of a taxpayer that I seem to excel. The Governor stood me up in a corner and pinned an ornate button to my breast. It carries the legend: "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver." On the reverse it says: "From him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath." Then the Governor looked at me with misty eyes and murmured: "Give until it hurts." With that he saluted me and turned away as if to hide his emotion.

He did not kiss me.

But I have been carrying on.

I have been giving until it hurts.

I have those bearing-down pains and those little black spots in front of the eyes that other sufferers frequently describe. The day that I telephoned for the doctor some stranger came and looked me over. He felt my pulse and asked me where I kept my cigars and whether there was any booze left in the cellar. He wanted the key of my garage. He took my temperature and a carved meerschaum pipe and when he went away he left a notice that I should pay $163.

He was not a doctor. He was an assessor. Every season a new assessor comes around to my place. He counts the silver spoons, measures the doghouse and wants to know where the wife keeps her wrist watch. Before he goes he taps me for an extra $90. He says that a kind-faced guy like me ought to be good for a couple of hundred bones at any time. Every time I buy a slab of bacon I have to sneak in the back way in order to evade the eagle eye of the assessor. With a bond election every month and special assessments every Tuesday and Friday life is one grand, sweet donation party.

But from the Governor down they all insist that they need the money. That is why I am going to vote for a change. I may need some myself. I am almost out of car fare as it is. That is why I am going to vote for you. You have a reputation for not only preaching economy, but practicing it. You have the record to show for it.

Even in public office you have saved money for the people when every other department was spending it like a soused seaman. When you took command of the State printery our spelling books were costing us maybe 39 cents apiece, but after you had had the screws on for a while you brought costs down until even the humblest citizen could afford to spell words like ornithology and Nebuchadnezzar. Likewise you pried loose a lot of barnacles. Men who had been sitting around smoking cigarettes and feeding the kitty were told that they had to go to work. A man's qualifications for a job did not merely consist of an ability to stand up long enough in an election booth to mark a ballot. If he had been picked for any task you made him deliver the goods. You got more work for less money than any man who ever ran a State department. You are doing it today. While all the other departments of the administration have doubled and tripled their pay rolls you are running the State treasury at a lower proportionate cost than when you began on the job. How do you do it?

You tell me that if you are elected Governor you will get rid of the wrecking crew and only have a construction gang on the job. You are going to cut off the leeches and strip the commissions. Take it from me that is some task. When a man gets a grip on a political job he hangs to it like a pup to a root. You can't get rid of him with silent prayer. It takes dynamite to shake him loose. You can't kiss a commissioner good-by and tell him to leave the key with the janitor. You cannot even push him off the porch and set his things in the street. He is going to barricade himself against the landlord and defy the process-server.

But I have faith that you will keep your word. I know that at present you offer the only chance we have to undertake any real economies. If we are ever to have a new deal at Sacramento this is the most opportune time to achieve it. The things you say you will do can be done. You have accomplished some of them yourself. That is a good sign.

"POIPER" .. BOYS .. TO .. HAVE .. CLUBROOMS

Benefit at Vernon Will Aid Cause of Los Angeles News Merchants

Four of the "Newsies" Working for the Gymnasium

JACK DOYLE'S arena at Vernon will be the scene of an unusual event Saturday night when the newsboys of Los Angeles will be the fight promoter's guests at a monster benefit, the returns from which will be used to fit out the newsboys' new gymnasium at Court and Spring streets.

This gymnasium is a dream come true to Los Angeles' newsboys. In almost every large city in America the lads who hustle papers have a place where they can visit and participate in athletics, play games or study, but only recently have Los Angeles boys been so fortunate.

It is expected that more than 1000 newsboys will be enrolled in the organization, which will have as its clubhouse this new gymnasium, made possible through the generosity of many Los Angeles citizens, among them Jack Doyle, Jack Dempsey, A. H. Quinan, Otis Booth, Norman Jensen, Wad Wadhams, Joe Lilliard, Frank Crowley, Francis Parrett and "Bull" Montana.

Membership in the club will not be denied any boy, regardless of race, color, creed or the paper he sells.

At the Saturday night affair, Dan Tobin, announcer de luxe, will preside over a number of interesting bouts, not the least of which is a "grudge fight" between two one-legged newsboys.

The new gymnasium will be officially opened about September 15, and will be one of the best equipped in the country.

Motion pictures of the gymnasium and newsboys are being shown at Miller's Theater this week.

DOGS' BATH RESULTS IN HEAVY LOSS

Home Destroyed by Sparks From Fire and Woman Risk Life to Save Pets

A $10,000 fire resulted late yesterday when Mrs. A. E. Nordyke, 4555 Glen Aldron Drive, gave her three pet dogs a bath, according to reports to the Police and Fire Departments. In addition to that, Mrs. Nordyke risked her life to save her pets after the fire started. She was cut about the face before she escaped.

The "houn' dawgs" were given a thorough scrubbing and put before an open fireplace to dry. Sparks from the blaze, according to a report made to Lincoln Heights Police Station by Officer Revera, set the home afire.

Braving the flames, Mrs. Nordyke was reported to have rushed in to save the puppies, which she accomplished.

The flames completely destroyed her home, estimated to be worth $5000, and spread to the residence of A. F. Coe, 4561 Glen Aldron Drive, which was damaged for a like amount before the Fire Department was able to control the blaze.

SEEKS AIRPLANE FIELD

Curtiss Company Plans to Move Plant to Santa Monica

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 23.—The Curtiss Airplane Company, now located at Mineola, Long Island, is seeking a field in the vicinity of Santa Monica as the site for a western distributing point, Erving G. Deiss, representing the company, informed the City Commissioners today. Mr. Deiss said that the present plant of the company at Riverside would be moved to Santa Monica and asked the Commissioners if they would bear a cost of about $2000 for this purpose. They declined on the ground that there was no money for that purpose, but offered the company an extremely low rental for land and all co-operation possible.

GREAT BOOST BY EDUCATOR

California and Individualism Discussed by Thilly

True Hospitality of Mind to be Found Here

Greatest Progress Found on Pacific Coast

John Stuart Mill would feel very much at home in Southern California, thinks Prof. Frank Thilly of Cornell University, who was in the city yesterday, on his way from San Francisco to resume his chair of philosophy at Ithaca. Prof. Thilly has conducted advanced classes in philosophy during the summer session at the University of California, Southern Branch, and it being his first sojourn in the Southwest, he has something to say about his impressions.

Individualism such as Mill preached it, is found here in reality, Prof. Thilly believes. He is more interested in the frame of mind resulting from the Pacific Coast civilization than in its material advances.

"Here you have true hospitality of mind," Prof. Thilly said. "It has its benefits and its detriments. The Californian is liberal in his judgments; not set in his ways. You are trying everything and making the experiments pay, if not in actual results, in the development of thought and conduct.

DANGEROUS BUSINESS

"But it is a dangerous business, too. It is dangerous for every man to use his own individual judgment because, carried to the extreme, it would be nothing but anarchism. You have more movements here than anywhere, I believe; every point of view finds a following here.

"But I find that in California, along with this excess of individualism, goes, as a counter action, a local patriotism. I think the State patriotism here is stronger than anywhere else. At the university here they sang California songs. In New York we have no State songs; we only have the national ones. The New Yorker does not feel so strongly that he is a New Yorker, but merely an American.

"But, you see, this State patriotism here works a great benefit in checking this individualism, keeping it from the dangerous extreme which it might reach if it were not for this strong local feeling. And after all, like charity, politics begin at home.

"Your legislation is forward looking and in keeping with the individualistic tendencies. I believe it is the true Anglo-Saxon idea that the individual is the purpose and the State the means. That was the British idea from the start. But now we have the danger, under an industrial society, that the individual will be used as the means. This individualism you have is the reaction against it.

STATE PROGRESSIVE

"The United States is the most conservative country in the world and California is the most progressive State in it."

Prof. Thilly is not one of those who things the Anglo-Saxon civilisation is becoming degenerate. He said he once had joined the American and British students who thought so, but that the war inclined him to the contrary belief.

"The British fought like their old selves," he explains. "The heroic must be perpetuated or our civilization will go down. What Carlisle pointed out in that regard is true. Young men still incline to the heroic, not only in war, but in many things. It was the spirit of your gold ruch. The Saxon was, and the Anglo-Saxon is, a stoic, like the old Roman; it is his chief characteristic with this inclination to heroism.

"Our present view toward children, however, is operating against this. It used to be the theory that what the child liked was bad and what he disliked was good; now it is the reverse. Both probably are wrong, there is a happy mean, but the old way was the safest. We meet this difficulty in teaching. I think the old Puritan idea has been too far lost, although I am not a Puritan; Purtanism was something that went with our scheme of things.

"Now, in teaching, we find that the young people have not had that background of home discipline. They have been allowed to give in to everything; to have no self-control. To carry this to the extreme—well, the most perfect exemple would be epileptic fits."

Prof. Thilly, while he thinks the Anglo-Saxon is retaining his virility, bemoan's the idealism which has resulted, he thinks, from the eighteenth-century rationalism. He refers to that frame of mind which seeks to impose a political system on all countries, regardless of their racial and climatic conditions.

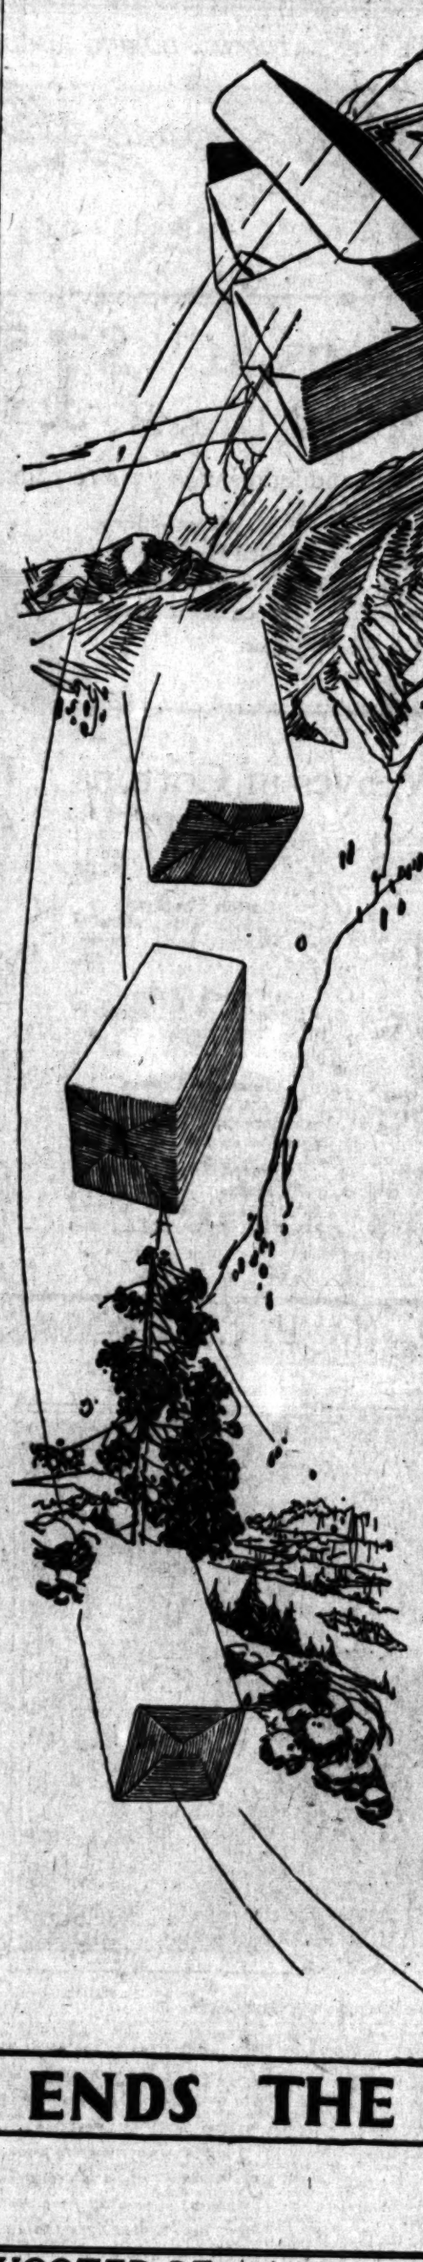
PRESENT FASHIONS

"I think Montesquieu in his 'Spirit of Laws' pointed out pretty convincingly that what is good for one people is not always good for another. Even the Greek philosophers had this idea; that different people required different political systems, just as they dressed in different fashions," he said. "But now the fashion is to seek to impose on other people what we may find works well with us. The French at the time of their revolution had this idea; we have had it to a marked degree, and now the Russians have it."

Prof. Thilly is among the foremost teachers of philosophy, in which branch he has been associated for many years and is the author of much text on the subject. Until 1921 he was dean of arts and sciences at Cornell, but now has returned to specialize in his chosen field. He expects to return here next summer and is enthusastic at the prospect.

"Do you know, Californians do not appreciate their universities," he said. "We will take Josiah Royce, who is now dead. I consider him the best in philosophy in the Anglo-American field. He was associated with the university at Berkeley, and was a native Californian. And I can name many California university men who are leaders today among eastern university teachers."

Prof. Thilly will leave today for the East. While in Los Angeles he is the guest of H. T. Cory, an old friend and associate.



GOLDEN STATE BUTTER

4 Dainty quarters to the pound

AN ACHIEVEMENT IN QUALITY AND SERVICE

Golden State Butter in dainty quarters is ready at your grocer's. In introducing these choice and convenient packages, the manufacturers of Golden State Butter are writing a new chapter into the art of butter handling—because the Golden State Creameries are being equipped with mechanical inventions which wrap this delicious product—free from the touch of human hands.

For years the best brains and skill in the great butter industry of America have been concentrated on the task of perfecting a mechanical device which would do away with the hand-wrapping of butter. We have been the first to reach the goal. These marvelous machines were developed and patented, and are owned and exclusively controlled, within the Golden State organization. This is the last mark of Golden State service to the consumer. It makes the achievement of Golden State quality and purity greater and more safe than ever before.

Golden State has set the standard of butter excellence in California for sixteen years. You find the proof of its superior quality and fine flavor—in every tempting taste.

You pay a little more for Golden State at your grocer's, because it costs more to make Golden State quality, and your grocer necessarily pays more for it. Only selected and graded creams are used in its manufacture and these are churned in immaculate creameries by the most advanced methods known to science.

ENDS THE QUEST FOR THE BEST

SHOOTER OF CRAPS GETS HIS LIBERTY

Money Order Causes Heated Arguments Before U. S. Commissioner

A $5 money order disturbed the customary equanimity of U. S. Commissioner Long's court yesterday. J. E. McAvoy, self-confessed crap shooter, was charged with having forged the name of Paul Vagapoulos to a money order. The order had been sent to the Greek by a Chicago relative.

McAvoy declared he had won the money order in a crap game, and that he had not forged Vagapoulos's name. The court directed that the accused write the complaining witness's name, which McAvoy did. That signature and the one on the check were in no wise similar.

Commissioner Long discharged the defendant, basing his decision on the dissimilarity of handwriting and entirely ignoring the verbose arguments of the defense attorney, who spent the entire morning quoting authorities, having forgotten to mention the handwriting phase of the case.

Following the action of the court, Asst. U. S. Atty. Layng threatened to summon a handwriting expert to show up the court. Former Asst. U. S. Atty. Dickson, who happened to be present, gave free utterance to his opinions regarding the value of expert evidence, intimating that the side that pays the most money gets the evidence it wants. This brought on a heated argument, which was soon quieted.

Meanwhile postal inspectors and a battery of attorneys stopped, looked and listened. Vagapoulos is still out $5.

Sour Stomach

When the quantity of food taken is too great or the quality too rich, sour stomach may result and especially so if you are constipated. Eat slowly, masticate your food thoroughly, eat sparingly of meats. Let fully five hours elapse between meals and when you feel a fullness and weight in the stomach, after eating your supper, take one of Chamberlain's Tablets, and in most cases sour stomach may be avoided.—[Advertisement.

CHANGES PROPOSED IN COURT METHODS

SMALL CLAIMS TRIBUNAL NOT YET PERFECT, JUDGE DECLARES

That the law providing for a Small Claims Court requires certain changes was the statement yesterday of Justice Hinshaw, who had supervision over the first department of that court opened in Los Angeles. The work of the court now rotates through the different township courts.

The changes which Justice Hinshaw proposes relate to the method of notifying a defendant. At present, notice is sent by registered mail. Many times, it has developed, someone signs for the registered notice and the defendant does not learn of the suit until default judgment is given. The justice suggests that some means be devised to give personal service on the defendant.

He also believes that a small charge, about 25 cents, be made for filing a suit in order to help defray the cost of maintaining the court, especially as some suits are for not over a dollar. The cost of the court, it was stated, is several hundred dollars a month, and there is no return to the court.

Amendments to the act are being prepared by Justice Hinshaw and will be submitted to the next Legislature.

SETS NEW RECORD IN SPEEDERS' COURT

JUSTICE McDONALD HEARS OVER THREE HUNDRED CASES IN DAY

Establishing a record in county speeders' court, Justice MacDonald, sitting in Justice Hanby's court, yesterday heard 342 cases. Fines brought the total for the day to $2720.

Three defendants drew fines of $50 each. Leslie Holbrook of Whittier was fined for going forty-five miles an hour on Whittier Boulevard. R. A. Maginnis, 3667 Canada street, was fined for reckless driving on Washington Boulevard.

William Nickelson, 2138 Atlantic avenue, Long Beach, paid a fine for $50 for reckless driving and not having an operator's license.

Electrical servants will work hard and faithfully every day—if the electrical contractor who wired your house has given them a fair chance.

Before you buy, or rent, a home, look for and count the electrical outlets, the connections in baseboard and walls that give current to operate your appliances and floor lamps. Are there enough of these in every room? Are the materials, switches, etc., standard, and were the workmen, who did the wiring, competent? Did a qualified contractor do the job?

Electrical satisfaction is found by the employment of the qualified electrical contractor. Cut-rate contracting service results in nothing but trouble, and you don't really save money because in the end you are likely to spend five times what you thought you saved, in replacing poor workmanship, sub-standard materials and in supplying additional convenience outlets and wall switches that have been "forgotten."

You will find the "check" seal of the Pacific States Electric Company a helpful guide both to quality in electrical materials and appliances and competence in the contractor-dealer who sells and installs them. This mark identifies a complete line of standard electrical merchandise, selected from the markets of the world, inspected, and certified as standard. They are distributed by contractor-dealers who are in every way qualified to give you the kind of service you have a right to expect.

The electrical appliances shown on this page, together with other standard electrical products, certified by the "check" seal, are described in our new booklet, "The Electrical How for Householders". You will enjoy this booklet, with its many practical suggestions for the convenient and economical utilization of electricity in your home. It may be obtained free from any electrical contractor or dealer displaying this seal.

Diet and Health

The Prevention of Toxemias of Pregnancy

The so-called morning sickness during pregnancy—the vomiting in the morning which begins the end of the first month and ends in the third or fourth month—is present in about 50 per cent of the cases. When it is so violent that the patient rapidly loses weight and becomes acutely ill, it is known as pernicious vomiting of pregnancy.

The old medical literature gives considerable about this condition of vomiting and says it is due to "humours."

Mauriceau, writing in the seventeenth century, says: "The cessation of the menstruation causes corrupt humours cleaving to the insides of the stomach which being impossible to be evacuated because they adhere so fast. They must be purged away, to effect which they need a dissolvent, which may be a gentle purge."

We do not believe this "corrupt humours" theory now. What the morning sickness is due to is not fully known. Of course, it has something to do with the development of the new life and the changes that take place to accommodate this new growth. The system at that time is in a more unstable condition and, therefore, is more easily disarranged than usual.

I have a very husky belief, which is shared by many of the obstetric specialists, that a large per cent of the ordinary morning sickness is due to incorrect and overabundant diet caused by the popular idea of eating for two.

In some cases there are displacements of the uterus and when these are corrected, there is a relief. Other cases are of the neurotic or hysterical origin, and rest and quiet and suggestion and auto-suggestion will relieve these.

SALIVATION

In some cases during early pregnancy there is an increased secretion of saliva which may become very annoying. I have had a letter from a woman recently who says that she felt she would go out of her mind if she could not stop spitting.

Kosmak, in his book on "Toxemias of Pregnancy," says that he has usually found in these conditions that the teeth needed attention and that the gums were inflamed. If there is a catarrhal condition of the nose and throat, that may cause both the increased saliva and the vomiting. In these cases the teeth should be attended to and the catarrhal condition should be treated.

ECLAMPSIA

This is a very serious condition which may appear in the latter part of pregnancy. The word eclampsia is derived from the Greek, meaning flash. It used to be thought that the convulsions of this state appeared in a flash without any warning. But that is not true. There are warnings of this condition and if they are heeded there is no need of having this serious illness.

The following facts have given us important data concerning Eclampsia: 1. Obstetricians of Germany reported that during the war, when food was not so plentiful and there was considerable less fat and protein to be had, there was a great lessening of the cases of eclampsia. 2. Overweight, full-blooded women are more frequently affected with eclampsia than thin and less well-nourished women. 3. There is less eclampsia in the summer when less meat and more fruit and vegetables are eaten, than in the winter, and there is less eclampsia in the South than in the North for the same reason. These cases that I have enumerated show that there is a direct relationship between eclampsia and diet.

It seems from these data that overeating can cause the poisoning which affects the systems so seriously. Last week I gave you some general instructions for diet in pregnancy. If you did not get them, if you will send a stamped and self-addressed envelope to me I will send them. But all during pregnancy you should be under the care of your family physician, and if it is the first baby you should be under the care of a specialist, if possible.

If you have severe headaches or swelling of the feet and ankles or trouble with your eyes—that is, spots before them or temporary blindness or dizziness—you should see your physician. Meanwhile, go on a fruit juice or skimmed milk diet—not over 500 calories during the day—for a day or two.

Driver of Car in Collision Being Sought

Police detectives late yesterday were searching for the driver of the automobile which struck and seriously injured George Wilson, aged 56 years, 410 North Bunkerhill street, at the intersection of North Broadway and Sunset Boulevard, early yesterday morning.

Wilson, suffering from a possible skull fracture and a fractured leg, told Detectives Warn and Shaffer at the Receiving Hospital that the driver of the car failed to assist him at the time of the accident. The detectives say the car bearing the license number reported by Wilson belongs to J. Crosetti of 3245 Los Feliz Boulevard. Wilson told them, they said, that a woman and a child were also in the car. Wilson was removed to the County Hospital.

GARMENT FIRM SAFE LOOTED BY BANDIT

THIEF GAINS ENTRANCE TO WALL-STREET OFFICE THROUGH TRANSOM

Squeezing his way through a high door transom, a thief gained entrance to the Gaiety Garment Company establishment at 833 Wall street early yesterday morning and rifled the office safe of $170 in currency and $30 in silver.

The safe, according to S. G. Kaufman, manager, had been left open. Detectives Warn and Shaffer reported that when they investigated the case they found that an inner compartment of the safe had been broken into. Desks and files in the office were also thoroughly ransacked. After looting the establishment, the thief left through a rear door, the detectives reported.

Mrs. Korber, who was 66 years old, was a prominent member of the Lutheran church and of the Ladies' Benevolent Society. She had been actively engaged in church work and in the promotion of charitable organizations since she came to Los Angeles from Brooklyn, N. Y., forty years ago.

Besides her husband, Joseph J. Korber, Mrs. Korber leaves four sons, Frank, Adam and Joseph Korber of Los Angeles and Albert J. Korber of San Francisco, and three daughters, Mrs. George Keym, Mrs. R. C. Thompson and Mrs. Mina B. Colton, all of Los Angeles.

WOMEN'S CLUB URGES CARE AT CROSSINGS

The increasing number of accidents at outlying crossing intersections, due to excessive speed and the common practice of autoists passing others at these points, was called to the attention of the transportation committee of the Los Angeles Traffic Commission, yesterday, by Mrs. H. H. Koons, president of the Friday Morning Club. A great number of accidents occuring at intersections can be attributed to these two causes, according to Mrs. Koons.

Recommendation was made to the Traffic Commission that it use its efforts to impress the public with the hazard of accident at intersections where State regulation of speed and other restrictions are violated. Mrs. Koons also requested the commission to foster a movement looking toward the apprehension and punishment of willful violators through the active co-operation of the police department and judicial authorities, to reduce the present unnecessary loss of life and property through traffic accidents.

WINS OPTION ACTION

Former Police Commissioner Awarded Settlement

By a decision handed down by Judge Hewitt yesterday, R. T. Burge, former Police Commissioner, is entitled to $1000 on an option to lease the property at Sixth and Grand avenue. The option was taken by L. L. Young and Harry C. Keefe, named as defendants in Mr. Burge's action. The defendants contended that Mr. Burge was not able to assign the lease. Mr. Burge, on the contrary, declared he was the owner.

The option contained an agreement to purchase the lease for $100,000.

SHOPLIFTER FINED FOR ROBBING STORE

Throwing herself on the mercy of the court, Miss N. F. Fairfax yesterday pleaded guilty to a shoplifting charge in Police Judge Chambers's court and was fined. She was caught Tuesday at Bullock's, after having pilfered several articles, by operatives of the Retail Dry Goods Merchants' Association. She gave the Central Hotel, Pasadena, as her address.

THE NEW

IN STORES AND HOMES

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS

By Olive Gray

Up-to-Datest:

A Paris creation is in the form of a "jumper dress" of hand-crochetted silk ribbosene. The effect is novel and interesting and suggests vast possibilities in the way of color combinations although the import is in clear white.

The use of lace so set-on to fabric as to seem actually to be woven in one with it, forms a feature of the most recent importations in afternoon and evening gowns.

Pastel color combinations in silks and satins are among the latest developments in dance frocks, the added sash being sometimes of tulle in a shade contrasting to the two forming the dress. The splash of brilliant color adds character to the costume.

Rainbows Hide

The newest imported sweaters, shown at that leading store on Seventh street, put rainbows to shame. Such glory of coloring, they present! It would seem as though all the many shades shown for seasons past in individual sweaters, had concentrated their loveliness in each of these. They are in the Navajo patterns, but in such tints as were never dreamed about by Navajos. Of loose mesh, many are in blouse effect, some with straight panels falling from shoulder to below the waist-line at the front. Again do I wish for a name better than "Sweater" for such charming slip-ons.

Gilded Hose

Some of the newest "hottentot" shoes are in gold and silver brocade. The overturned "cuff" distinguishing this novel footwear, might serve to effect slenderness to the feminine ankle.

Puffy Chairs

The newest wrinkle in upholstery is to add to the puffily padded chair or davenport, a second cushion, which contrasts in fabrics, if not in color with that of the remainder. In some cases, the top-pillow is of rich golden and silvery brocade, toning with, yet contrasting to the plain fabric. The result is an added luxuriousness and an irresistible invitation to rest.

New Coats

Some of the new season's coats shown in local shops, have blouses of fur and skirts of luxurious velvet. Sometimes the top and skirt correspond in shade, again there is vivid contrast.

Imaginative Silks

New silks, brought over from Europe by a Seventh-street store whose selections are most authentic, are in designs and in colorings which arouse the imagination, suggesting, as they do, landscapes and bits of sunset sky; hinting at strange foreign hieroglyphics and mystic symbolism. Never have silken weave shown greater variety or more distinctive loveliness than these.

Russian

If it is in colors so vivid as to be almost barbaric, it is very likely, Russian. New embroideries, linens, fabrics for habiliments and for home decoration come from this far land and are strikingly exhibited. In a recent window showing, at a leading local store, Russian peasant figurines were posed in the foreground, rendering more striking the weaves there presented.

Doll Parasols

Not for dolls but of them, are those latest sun-sols. The bisque head forms the top or ferrule, and outstanding skirts are the spread of the 'sols, the metallic ribs serving as "hoops." Parisiennes have long been mad over dolls, as we know, putting them to use in every possible manner—as pillows, as hand-bags, as toys, as lamps—exerting the utmost ingenuity, in fact, to place dolls any and everywhere.

Elderly Shawls

Of heavy silken thread crocheted into the long, broad shawls, with pockets conveniently placed at either end, are the latest shoulder wraps for elderly ladies. Both warmth and beauty are attained in these dainty accessories.

Quaint Pillows

Quaint and dainty boudoir pillows are decorated with Godey-like figures, outlined in embroidery silks, the full skirts formed from fine val. lace, which stands out from the surface of the pillows, like crinoline.

Aunt Jane Says:

"If your feet ache from walking in the heat, soak them in a strong solution of Epsom salts and hot water."

FASHION'S WHIMS

Afternoon frocks sponsor the wide sleeve.

Purple and violet shades are smart for fall.

A gray suede jacket shows stenciling as only trimming.

The three-piece costume returns in full glory for fall wear.

Dyed brown caracul coats will be much in favor for winter.

Cire braid is reported popular for trimming afternoon blouses.

Short jackets of fur will be worn with velvet and cloth dresses.

A great deal of gold lace studded with jewels is used for evening.

The smartest tailleurs show a tight sleeve falling over the wrist.

The full-length circular cape of tweed is smart for early fall wear.

White, flag blue and aster shades are those Paris prefers for evening.

Chenille-embroidery is used on long-sleeved tailored frocks of crepe.

Gray and biege, as well as evening shades, are favored in chiffons.

Very effective is a fall gown of black velvet beaded with rhinestones.

The newest suede hats are trimmed with a pile ribbon imitating fur.

A fall trimming note is the use of gelatine flowers combined with beads.

Flowered ornaments are used to catch the drapery at the side of a gown.

The newest evening wraps are combinations of metallic cloth and velvet.

To be truly up-to-date one's hat must match one's bag in material and trimming.

It is believed that the new side flare will rival the snug hip effect in fall models.

BLACKSTONE BUYER BACK FROM PARIS

Mme. Smithson-Lord Tells of Newest Ideas Before Leaving New York

Mme. F. L. Smithson-Lord of the M. B. Blackstone Company, Los Angeles, upon arriving in New York from Paris, gave the following interesting style comment yesterday:

"We have had several seasons of styles becoming to but few types of women. The newest things become all types—the tall, the short, the extra size and the slender. Straight lines are distinctly the feature type. The long-waisted bodice is featured unanimously. For many types it is used with long, very wide circular skirt. This is especially true of the afternoon and dinner gowns of sheer materials, such as chiffons, georgette and crepes. Most of the great couturiers, however, are using the long skirt, draped to the hip line, and these, of course, are more narrow at the bottom. These are fashioned for the most part of the heavier materials. Velvet, both plain and embroidered, is used very extensively and bids fair to become the season's favorite. Heavy brocades are very popular, as are all materials showing the Persian influence. This Persian influence, by the way, is being shown throughout the season's styles in almost all lines—dresses, wraps and millinery. It has caused a great demand for silks printed in the Paisley pattern, which, of course, they closely resemble.

"The gala night at Deauville presented this Persian influence as the dominating feature, and I was able to purchase extensively models for both exhibition and adaptation at our forthcoming fashion show.

"The appearance of the short separate jacket will play a strong part in the mode for fall and winter, and will be shown largely in connection with the three-piece costume, which promises to be very popular, inasmuch as it is so exceedingly practical for the American woman's afternoon costume.

"Los Angeles women will like these new things. No season has ever opened more promising, for the styles are not only unusually beautiful, but essentially practical and becoming."

Husband Finds He Has to Fork Over $75 Monthly to Wife

Henry Crocker, 77 years old, who receives $395 a month from a life interest in property at Los Angeles Harbor, has been paying into the bank $30 a month ever since his wife, Hedvig Crocker, was granted separate maintenance more than ten years ago. Yesterday he was in Judge Deasy's court for purported failure to pay $75 a month alimony.

He stated he did not understand the alimony order had been increased to $75 a month. Mrs. Crocker, it seemed, had also sued for divorce and was granted a decree. She refused to accept the money placed in the bank, Mr. Crocker declared. The new alimony order was explained to Mr. Crocker.

ASKS ANNULMENT

Wife Says Husband Failed to Keep His Promises

When Paul K. Armstrong proposed, he promised his bride-to-be a home and a life of luxury, but shortly after the ceremony he took his wife to her parents' home and left her there, a petition for annulment filed yesterday by Mrs. Nelyce B. Armstrong states.

Mrs. Armstrong, who now is living in Pasadena with her parents, asserts that she is a "kissless bride," her husband having left her but a few hours after the wedding. Through her attorney, Wilbert C. Hamilton, she charges fraud as, she says, her husband at no time intended to provide her with a home.

Dramatic productions by radio have become a possibility, as a result of successful experiments made recently at the General Electric broadcast station at Schnectady, N. Y., when "The Wolf," was presented to a vast invisible audience. Thousands in rural districts, many invalids, the blind, and inmates of institutions to whom all entertainment provided by broadcast stations is a great relief from monotony, heard "The Wolf," and later sent in their applause by letter.

Rendition of "The Wolf" by radio at a Schenectady (N. Y.) broadcast station recently, was so realistic that it caused a policeman at Pittsfield, Mass., to think the shouts he heard were the outcome of a family quarrel. The officer had been instructed to discourage fights even within the sacred precincts of the home when it tended to annoy the neighbors, so he rapped on the front door of the house from which the sounds were emanating and demanded to know "What's the trouble?" Whereupon, he discovered it was a radio fight and that the shouts screams and curses he heard were the third and final episode of "The Wolf," and that they were coming from a loud-speaker and originated many miles off his beat.

The convention of the National Association of Electrical Contractors and Dealers will be held at October. A radio exhibit will take place in conjunction at the Sinton Hotel. Robinson Farmer of this city is leaving today by way of the Santa Fe Trail and a light six to attend the convention.

Radio-frequency amplification is obtained by placing one or more vacuum tubes ahead of the detector tube with proper coupling between them to transfer the energy from one tube to the next at the signal frequency. As with audio-frequency, the coupling between tubes may be resistances, industances, or transformers, although they cannot have the same values as for audio - frequency. Resistance coupling has the disadvantage of letting through tube noises and other audible frequencies. It has the advantage, however, of being effective over a wide range of frequencies and giving uniform amplification over a broad band of wave-lengths. Inductive, or transformer coupling, will transfer energy at a limited range of frequencies, and will not transfer tube noises or disturbances which are limited to audible frequencies. Since there is such a great difference in the frequencies of the various wave-lengths in use, it is necessary to change transformers in order to receive all of the different classes of communication.

OBENCHAIN JURY QUIZ UNDER WAY

Official Inquiry Starts on Alleged Interference by Court's Friends

Putting the official stamp on the investigation of the Los Angeles County Bar Association into the asserted misconduct of Mrs. Alice G. McCartney, wife of Dep. Dist.-Atty. McCartney, and others during the course of the last trial of Mrs. Madalynne G. Obenchain, accused of the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, Judge Shenk yesterday appointed Herbert G. Goudge, R. J. Culver and Troy Pace as amici curiae, or friends of the court. The three, who were named by the bar association to conduct the inquiry, thus will handle the investigation as officials of the court.

The order states that the court having previously requested the bar association to suggest counsel in the matter of the asserted misconduct of Mrs. McCartney and others during the course of the trial, asserted to be an "unlawful intereference with the proceedings of the court," the three were named to represent the court in whatever investigation is necessary as to the asserted misconduct of anyone whatsoever during the trial and to initiate and prosecute to completion any necessary proceedings.

Following the opening conference with Judge Shenk, Mr. Culver and Mr. Pace went to the offices of Jud R. Rush and William E. Beirne, Mrs. Obenchain's counsel, and discussed the substance of the affidavits.

Mr. Rush and Mr. Beirne advised them concerning a number of statements contained in the documents. No new evidence was taken, however. A number of jury members will be interviewed within the next few days concerning the purported activities of Mr. McCartney and his wife.

AGED WOMAN HURT

Falls From Porch While Watering Plants; Skull Fractured

Falling from a porch at her home at 417 Boylston avenue while watering plants, Mrs. May A. Gilbert, aged 63 years, yesterday afternoon suffered a fracture of the skull and a possible fracture of the spine. Police Surgeon Dunsmore, who treated the woman at the Receiving Hospital, stated that she had small chance for recovery.

Mrs. Gilbert fell about fifteen feet from the railing of the porch to a cement walk below.

HE LIKED TO GO OUT, SHE DIDN'T; DIVORCE

Howard Stephen Harris liked to go out at nights. Mrs. Anna Brumby Harris didn't, she said. Believing in reciprocity, Mr. Harris declared he was going to do as he pleased and that his wife could take her turn going out. She would not take her turn, and thus the domestic storm grew in intensity. He frightened her, she said, by throwing around articles of furniture. She fled to the back porch just as he slammed the front door and went away. Yesterday Judge Carey granted her a divorce.

The standings as published Sunday will positively remain the same during the remainder of the campaign, as no further count will be made until the final one which decides the prize winners.

Every candidate must be entered in the proper district in order to share in the distribution of prizes, and if you know of a candidate who is entered in the wrong district, please advise the campaign department at once. Also see that YOUR correct name and address appears in the list so that any important mail sent you will be promptly delivered.

NAVY CAPTAINS ARE PROMOTED

Pacific Fleet Officers Now Rear-Admirals

Popular Men of Long Beach Colony Go Higher

California's Commander to Move to Washington

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 23.—Word was received here today of the nomination by President Harding of Capt. Henry J. Zeigemeier, commanding the superdreadnaught California, and Capt. George R. Marvell, commander of the dreadnaught Arizona, to become rear admirals in the United States Navy.

Capt. Zeigemeier is one of the most popular captains in the local naval colony. He put the nation's largest fighting ship in commission last fall. He lives at the Hotel Virginia in this city when his vessel, the flagship of the commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, is in port.

SELECTION IS MADE

Capt. Zeigemeier was appointed to the Naval Academy May 26, 1886, from Ohio. After passing through the various grades he was appointed a captain Aug. 29, 1916. He served in that rank through the World War. When the question of the selection of a captain to command the California came before the Secretary of the Navy, Capt. Zeigemeier was selected for the important post.

Taking a new ship and a new organization, Capt. Zeigemeier has made the California one of the most efficient fighting units in the Navy. The Captain will be transferred to Washington to become director of naval communication.

MARVELL'S CAREER

Capt. Marvell, another of the Pacific fleet's popular commanding officers, took command of the dreadnaught Arizona, flagship of Rear Admiral Hughes, commanding the sixth battle division, last January, after Capt. John C. Chase, then commanding, had been promoted to the rank of rear admiral and placed in command of the Pacific fleet train.

He is one of the oldest captains in the Navy in point of service, and has held several responsible commands since his appointment as captain on Dec. 8, 1915.

Capt. Marvell, in his new rank of rear admiral, will assume command of the naval district of the Philippines, with headquarters at Manila.

MONEY GIVES HUBBY URGE TO "SEE LIFE"

Mrs. Irene Verner Ewing was happy with her husband, John A. Ewing, when they were in moderate circumstances, but with the coming of wealth, happiness seemed to flee. She told Judge Deasy yesterday that with riches her husband began to "see life." He was jealous, she declared, and often unjustly accused her. A property settlement was approved. The court granted Mrs. Ewing a divorce and awarded her the custody of her children. Mr. Ewing is a hotel owner at Venice.

SOLO IN SURF SWIM FEATURE

Mrs. Anna Van Skike

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENICE, Aug. 23.—Mrs. Anna Van Skike, 61 years old, who has very flapperish ideas when it comes to swimming, today negotiated a swim from the Venice pier to the Santa Monica pier and return, a distance of about six miles.

Just to show that she had not unduly exerted herself on completing half the distance, she stood in the surf and sang "The Rosary" and the "Star Spangled Banner," for which she was roundly applauded by a score of early morning anglers.

She dove off the Venice pier at 6 o'clock and arrived at Santa Monica at 8:45 o'clock.

Mrs. Van Skike celebrates each succeeding birthday anniversary with a distance swim of three miles or more. This is the first time she has ever swum from Venice to Santa Monica and return.

EXPOSE MADE IN KLAN TRIAL

pose of buying liquor by Frank Woerner, the deputy marshall who shot and killed Constable M. B. Mosher and wounded two other raiders in front of the Elduayen home.

The only gains made by the prosecution came from the cross-examination of some of the witnesses who described details of the raid and the arrangement preceding it. In these, the State attorneys said, they brought out the Ku Klux Klan features of the enterprise, from which the jury could judge whether the Klan as an organization or the defendants as individuals were behind the affair.

The legal fireworks started with the introduction of George C. Saviers, witness for the defense. The prosecution attempted to keep out statements said by the witness to have been made to him by Constable Mosher months before the raid. Judge Houser permitted this testimony. Saviers said Mosher told him the Elduayen place was a menace, and on several occasions discussed plans for a raid.

SEEMED TO BE PROTECTED

"I have to be very careful; the place seems to be protected," he told him in February, Saviers said. A few days before the raid, while in Constable Mosher's store in Inglewood, he heard him say to some one over the telephone that the raid was arranged, and "will be successful if it is not tipped off."

George Easton, a butcher, was the next witness. Mr. Easton's appearance was the signal for the rest of the legal skirmish. The jury filed out of the box during the arguments. Mr. D'Orr told the court he planned to show through Mr. Easton that the Elduayens were full-fledged bootleggers.

ELKS OBTAIN DRINKS

During the Elks' convention, the witness said, he took a party of Elks and their families to the Elduayen home. About fifty men and women had drinks and paid for them at that time, he said. The Elduayens sold liquor to him up to three weeks before the raid. He bought it as often as two times a day, he said. He saw the stuff manufactured in a shed behind the barn, he asserted, and gave a description of the ingredients that went to make up the liquor. He said, on cross-examination, that he never reported the matter to the authorities.

J. V. Van Eaton, a newspaper proprietor of El Segundo, Eugene M. Lewis, bank clerk of Inglewood; E. C. Cowan, Standard Oil employee of El Segundo; F. M. Green of Inglewood, W. A. Wilhite of Lennox, Stephen Liggay of Lennox, John O. Leduc of Inglewood, Harry Amend, Earnest Heidenrich and Mrs. Heinenrich followed in quick succession. The day was brought to a close by the reading by Mr. D'Orr of the chemist's report and the county "bone-dry" ordinance. During the reading of the ordinance W. A. Hill, County Counsel, who prepared the ordinance, sat in the courtroom.

REPUTATION DISCUSSED

Mr. Van Eaton's testimony was mostly regarding the reputations of Walter E. Mosher, H. A. Waite, Col. Thomas H. Jennings and some of the other defendants. The Elduayens, the witness said, were bootleggers and were not to be believed under oath. Mr. Lewis said he bought liquor at the Elduayen place as far back as a year and a half ago. Cowan, who is only 19 years old, said, on cross-examination, that he had been drinking for the last three or four years, told of his successful ventures in the moonshine household of the Elduayens. Mr. Green was glad to testify about the fine reputations of defendants Mosher, Waite, Jennings, R. D. Ainsworth, Warren Hall and William Hall.

Wilhite, a witness, said Frank Woerner took him to the Elduayen home. He said he managed to buy liquor from every member of the family, including the two Elduayen girls, aged 14 and 16 years. He bought all kinds of liquor, he said. Mariano Elduayen, a member of the household, delivered two pints of whisky to his place of business on one occasion, he said. The price paid was $5 for the two bottles, which he said were delivered in egg boxes. Stephen Liggay was present, the witness said. Mr. Liggay followed Mr. Wilhite on the stand and corroborated his testimony. He also added that Mariano Elduayen said he was paying protection money to various persons. All this, the witness said, he reported to Constable Mosher.

Mr. LeDuc and Mr. Amend bought liquor from the Elduayens on many occasions, they said. The Heyererich boy said he saw other boys buy liquor in the place.

HINT OF WOOD ALCOHOL

This morning Mr. D'Orr will read the chemist's report on the contents of three bottles of white liquor confiscated in the Elduayen home. Unofficial reports last night were that the defense will contend there is wood alcohol in this "evidence."

A brief rebuttal is expected to be offered by the State. The case will go to the jury at the conclusion of the arguments by the two sides. Every indication pointed to the probability that the verdict may be returned before the week is over.

BOTTLES IDENTIFIED

The direct and the cross-examination of Defendant Bryson occupied the entire morning session. Taking up his narrative at the point where he stopped the night before, Mr. Bryson continued his story, with the identification of the various bottles of liquor he said he purchased at the Elduayen home the night of April 22.

Mr. Bryson's attempt to tell of "an armful of guns" in the Elduayens' home the night of the raid brought a legal skirmish between the opposing attorneys. The state held it was immaterial testimony. Mr. Keyes was sustained by the court.

Then came the effort to prove the liquor in the bottles was of an intoxicating nature. The defense had a report from Arthur R. Mass, chemist and expert analyst. One witness who was to establish the nature of the liquor was missing. Deputy Dist.-Atty. Keyes, after smelling the contents of some of the bottles and placing himself on record to the effect that he is not a judge of such matters, stipulated that it was intoxicating liquor.

The cross-examination of Mr. Bryson was bristling with interesting questions and answers. The witness admitted that he scratched some of the labels off the bottles and resealed others. Then Mr. Keyes inquired into Mr. Bryson's statement that he is an officer, and his assertion earlier in the case that he "deputized" others in the raiding party by swearing them in under him.

TALKS AUTHORITY

Mr. Keyes wanted to know if it was not a fact that when Constable Herman Boeshard of Huntington Park deputized Mr. Bryson he instructed him specifically that he was not to use his authority for any other purpose than to protect himself. "If he told me that I did not hear him," the witness replied.

Mr. Keyes's curiosity then turned on matters pertaining to the Ku Klux Klan. The State wanted to know if Nathan A. Baker, the Ku Klux Klan Kleagle and said leader, did not instruct Mr. Bryson to get only members of the hooded organization in Huntington to accompany him on the raid. Bryson said he did not, but volunteered the information that he would not have taken any one unless he was a member of the "Invisible Empire." Such membership assured him of "100 per cent Americans," he said. He said at the same time that he did not know that the men he took from Huntington Park with him to assist in a raid in another town and township were members of the Ku Klux Klan until later.

After the witness had reiterated his statements that he purchased the liquor from Mathiee Elduayen, Mr. Keyes asked if it was not a fact that he swore to a complaint against Marican Elduayen and Fidel Elduayen. Maricana, the State will show, was not even at home on the night of the raid. The witness explained that he became confused in the names at the time he and Mr. Baker swore to the warrant.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST DIES HERE

Mrs. Mary Wynkoop, Aged Pioneer of Creed, Passes on at Her Home

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary C. Wynkoop, pioneer Christian Science worker who, at the age of 81 years, died Tuesday at the family residence, 1673 Roosevelt avenue, will be conducted at 4 p.m. today at the Rosedale Funeral Chapel, under the auspices of the Christian Science Church. The body will be cremated.

Mrs. Wynkoop, who was born in Jackson, Tenn., in which city she was largely instrumental in the establishment of Christian Science, came to Los Angeles from New York City twelve years ago. Being broadly read and a progressive thinker, Mrs. Wynkoop took great interest in the development of the Southland, especially along social and religious lines, and has been of invaluable aid to her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Urquhart, who is president of the Los Angeles district of the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

Apparently in the best of physical health up to within a few hours of her death, Mrs. Wynkoop maintained almost until her last breath an optimistic mental attitude and a spirit of gladness that minimized the pangs of parting between herself and her loved ones.

Mrs. Wynkoop leaves two daughters, four sons and eight grandchildren. The daughters are: Mrs. J. C. Urquhart and Mrs. Agnes Osborne Carter of Los Angeles and the sons are: Messrs. G. P. Wynkoop of San Francisco, James Wynkoop of San Francisco, and R. B. and John Wynkoop of New York City. She also leaves a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ines E. Wynkoop, of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Wynkoop was the wife of the late Henry W. Wynkoop, who was superintendent of telegraphs of the Pennsylvania Line. A pianist and artist of exceptional talent, all of her children are known for their work along artistic lines, some of them having achieved international fame. Mrs. Carter is a pianist whose work is recognized in Europe as well as America; John Wynkoop is one of the best known architects in New York City; James Wynkoop is a well-known newspaper man and author and G. P. Wynkoop is vice-president of the Bancroft-Whitney Law-book Publishing Company.

MAN'S DOUBLE DECEIVES WIFE

"The Masquerader," to Appear in "Times," Remarkable Tale

Can you conceive of another individual looking so much like you that he (or she) could go into your home and the fraud not be detected? That, in short, is the basis of a remarkable story, "The Masquerader" by Katherine Cecil Thurston, which will start in The Times Illustrated Magazine next Sunday and be continued in the daily and Sunday issues following. Not only did the "double" of John Chilcote, rich and politically powerful member of Parliament, take his place in the other's home, but he stood up in the House of Commons and made a speech which overthrew the existing governmental party! Even the wife of the rich man was deceived. But another woman had sharper eyes. Fate stepped in and abruptly solved a desperate situation. It is a story that will hold your interest from beginning to end. Don't miss the opening installment in The Times Illustrated Magazine next Sunday.

MAYOR TO QUIZ TRUCK BUYING

Investigation of Lobbying Charges Promised

Members of Grand Jury to Quiz Bidders

Dealer Offers to Relate Offer to "Fix"

After the awarding by the City Council of the contract for the purchase of sixty motor trucks for the city engineering department, and calling for the expenditure of $207,821.17, Mayor Cryer announced that he would carefully investigate the entire motor-truck transaction before attaching his signature to the contract.

"I must be convinced," said Mayor Cryer, "before I sign the contract, that all details of the transaction have been open and above board and as a trustee for the people, must be satisfied that the expenditure of the money for the trucks is a proper one, before I approve of it."

The Mayor said that he had been following the transaction closely and that he would continue his investigations, especially in view of the charges made on Tuesday by Vice-President and General Manager John A. Stoner, of the company which handles the Mack truck, that a lobbyist for a rival manufacturer had approached A. T. Smith of the Mack company and asked Mr. Smith "how much it was worth to the Mack company to secure part of the contract?" Mr. Stoner said that the lobbyist is still waiting for his answer, and Mr. Stoner further said that he and Mr. Smith stand willing to go before the grand jury, tell the name of the lobbyist and give other details of the transaction.

When the truck purchase matter came before the City Council yesterday, President Criswell opened the proceedings by saying:

WELCOMES QUIZ

"There has been a great deal of talk about money being spent in connection with the truck contract, and it has been said, among other things, that the Mack company had a 'slush fund' of $75,000 to be distributed on behalf of that company. For myself, and I believe that I am speaking for all of the other members of the City Council, I welcome an investigation, by the grand jury into this or any other matter concerning the Council.

"This talk about 'slush funds' in connection with this contract, in my opinion, comes from disgruntled bidders."

The action of the Council yesterday was to instruct the City Attorney to prepare a contract for sixty trucks to be divided among the Garford, Moreland and General Motors companies. It is expected that the contract will be presented to the Council by the City Attorney next week and indications are that it will be immediately approved. In the usual course of procedure, the contract will then pass to Mayor Cryer for his signature as representing the city government.

Should the Mayor refuse to sign the contract and return it to the Council without his approval, the Council still has the power to delegate the president of the Council to approve it on behalf of the city.

Originally, the Council advertised on June 21 for bids for 107 motor trucks. The bids were made on that basis. In the meantime, a deadlock developed in the Council resulting in the purchase of the sixty trucks for $207,821.17. Under the action taken yesterday, the following purchases will be made:

MORELAND MOTOR TRUCK CO.

17 2½-ton dump trucks, each	$5925.00	$100,725.00
8 5-ton dump trucks, each	$8350.71	14,000.00
Total		$81,967.39

GENERAL MOTORS CO.

17 2½-ton dump trucks, each	$5280.59	$89,769.03
8 5-ton dump trucks, each	$6001.10	48,008.80
Total		$70,500.90

GARFORD MOTOR TRUCK CO.

17 2½-ton truck chassis, each	$3443.82	$41,329.94
8 5-ton dump trucks, each	$4001.25	14,001.25
Total		$55,978.99
Grand total		$207,821.17

"The Councilmen present yesterday and voting for the awarding of the contract for the sixty trucks to the Moreland, Garford and General Motors companies were: President Criswell and Councilmen Allan, Conaway, Langdon, Sanborn, Sparks and Wheeler (7.) Councilmen Mallard and Mushet were absent.

PILGRIMAGE PLAY AUDIENCES LARGE

DELEGATIONS FROM TOWNS GUESTS AND COMPANIES SEND EMPLOYEES

That "every city has its day" is becoming a slogan with a real meaning at the Pilgrimage Play, where every week's presentation of this world-famous drama has been marked by several civic excursions. With four municipalities having attended the play this week, there are yet three more scheduled, these including Monrovia and Pasadena, whose citizens have reserved a generous section of seats for tonight's production. The event will mark Pasadena's second excursion this season. Long Beach, which will be represented by a large group of residents Friday evening, has staged two similar visits.

Last night's audience included some 150 or 200 delegates to the Hundred Per Cent Club convention, the local hosts having arranged an evening at the Pilgrimage Play as a special feature of their hospitality program for the visitors.

Employees of the Southern California Telephone Company and the Southern California Gas Company attended in a body last night also, while employees of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation are planning a similar party for tonight.

PLUMBERS FOR SEWER BOND ISSUE

Association Says Failure to Make Improvements Would be Catastrophe

Heartily indorsing the proposed $12,000,000 sewer bond issue which voters are asked to support at Tuesday's election, the Merchant Plumbers' Association has adopted and forwarded to the Board of Public Works a resolution pledging its active support and hearty cooperation.

Failure on the part of the people to vote these bonds, the resolution asserts, "would be a great catastrophe and would produce the worst setback Los Angeles has ever experienced."

"The passage of these bonds," the resolution goes on the state, "means progress and a duty well performed for the future of our city. Failure to vote such bonds means a huge step backward and a shirking of the duty of every citizen. Bonds will produce a clean city; no bonds will produce filth and disease, with a large expenditure through our health boards in an endeavor to hold disease within bounds."

Unless Los Angeles votes these bonds, according to the resolution, it will fail to maintain its position in the forefront of the progressive cities of the nation, for prospective residents of Los Angeles could hardly be expected to consider settling in a city where their health was to be endangered by an overburdened sewerage system.

Right to Drill Ramona Acres for Oil, Given

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, Aug. 23.—Permission to Charles K. Henry to drill for oil on the Ramona Acres farm owned by Pasadena, South Pasadena and Alhambra was given by the City Directors today. South Pasadena has already approved the contract and the question is up to Alhambra for final decision.

The property was acquired by the three cities for a sewage farm, but organization of the city of Monterey Park blocked the plan.

The Pan-American Petroleum Company started a well on the property but had difficulties and finally abandoned it.

The agreement with Mr. Henry calls for a one-sixth royalty to be paid the three cities, and he is to begin operations in six months. It gives him the exclusive right to drill for twenty years and to operate the wells for ten years more.

ASSERTS PRISONER HAD GUN

Witness in Attempted Jail Break Murder Case Reveals Escape Plans

With the declaration that Herbert Cox, slain in a sensational attempted jail-break some weeks ago, announced as he entered the Bridge of Sighs in his attempt to fight his way out of prison that "he would rather be dead than come back to jail," the defense of Herbert Wilson, charged with the murder, opened.

The remark of Cox was made to Roy Rankin, a turnkey, who accepted $1000 from Wilson to open the Bridge door. He turned the money over to the authorities. According to Rankin's statement made on the witness stand in Judge J. Perry Wood's court yesterday, Cox said he did not want to come back alive.

Rankin further testified that he saw an object that resembled a gun in the hand of Cox as he entered the Bridge. He also testified that he did not see Wilson near the Bridge at the time Cox entered.

The State, represented by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Fitts and Clark rested their case during the day. Their witnesses sought to prove that Wilson shot Cox thinking the latter had informed the officers of the attempted escape.

Other witnesses called by Attorney Paul Schenck, Richard Kittrelle and Leo Silverstein, Wilson's counsel, substantiated Rankin's testimony.
